CITY'S LEADERS PAY TRIBUTE TO COL. M'CORMICK

1,100 Attend Dinner on 65th Birthday

BY ARTHUR EVANS

A cross-section of Chicago and Illinois gave a dinner to Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, last night on his 65th birthday in recognition of his contributions to Chicago and the nation. Eleven hundred persons were at the tables in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Business, labor, industry, the professions, bench and bar, colleges, and officialdom, both Republican and Democratic, were represented in the gathering.

Speakers dwelt upon phases of Col. McCormick's career as soldier, editor and publisher, and citizen. They weighed the achievements of the Colonel and THE TRIBUNE, the latter now approaching the century mark, wrapped into the history of America as the voice of the midwest.

Silas Strawn Opens Tribute

Silas H. Strawn, as toastmaster, in opening the speechmaking remarked: "When we organized this committee to get you people to come here tonight we were much pleased to realize the great number of people who are friendly to the colonel.

"Of course, there are some who don't always agree with his editorial policies, but none can deny he has been for America first, last, and all the time.

"I think that is best evidenced by the fact that he has the largest regular newspaper in this country. THE TRIBUNE has a daily circulation of more than a million, and on Sundays of 1,300,000."

Mayor Kelly in his speech asserted, "The colonel has been 100 per cent for Chicago, and Chicago has been in his mind at all times."

Held Champion of Midwest

Congratulatory messages were read from General of the Armies Douglas MacArthur; Sen. Vandenberg [R. Mich.], Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former chief of staff of the army, and Lt. Gen. L. H. Campbell Jr., chief of ordnance.

Gov. Green in his speech said he bore witness to Col. McCormick's constructive service as the champion of the midwest and as "one of America's outstanding patriots."

As chief speaker of the night, Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university, said devotion to freedom and belief in constitutional government are elements in Col. McCormick's Americanism."

Called Patriot by Millions

Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] added another note. After declaring that McCormick militancy has defended the constitutional form of government and the American way of life, the senator said, "While some may differ with the colonel, none has challenged his integrity and patriotism, while millions esteem him as a truly great patriot."

Most of the speeches asserted that Col. McCormick and THE TRIBUNE have been a vital force in the nation for progress and public service and that belief in Jefferson's "illimitable freedom of the mind" has been the cornerstone of Tribune tradition.

Col. McCormick Responds

In responding Col. McCormick said he was deeply touched by the birthday party, but that some were going to call it just another middle west eruption. He called attention to the fact that the middle west is a term applied to the land covered by the ordinance of 1787, which extended the bill of rights to bind not only the executive but also the legislatures and courts. He described the profound effect of this ordinance upon residents of states created in the development of a republic of 13 original states into one of 48.

At the speakers' table were Msgr. N. A. Labrie, apostolic vicar of the Gulf of St. Lawrence; Onesime Gagnon, provincial treas-

Civilian Goods Lag Blamed on Army, Navy

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—Charges that the army and navy have delayed reconversion by excessive buying and by blocking the manufacture of needed civilian goods were made today by a retired war production board official.

Lester P. Doidge, who resigned July 1 as chief of the consumers' durable goods branch of the WPB's office of civilian requirements, said the OCR had been thwarted to a large extent in efforts to increase the manufacture of civilian products.

"Top officials of the WPB gave us a good hearing," Doidge said in an interview, "but the army and navy representatives on the requirements committee blocked our efforts to get materials."

Adequate Planning

If the reconversion job "has not proceeded as swiftly as it should have"—as asserted yesterday in a report of the senate war investigating committee—Doidge said the blame should not be laid to lack of planning or effort by those in charge of civilian production.

"We programmed consumers' durable goods right thru the war and laid plans for reconversion, but we couldn't go as far as felt necessary," he said.

"We finally succeeded in getting 2 million electric irons scheduled for manufacture per year. We felt the country needed and could produce 5 million.

"At one time we had to point out to the navy that 50 SPARS in the M street barracks in Washington had only one electric iron.

Range Quota Slashed

"OCR asked for 102,000 electric ranges this quarter and it is getting 35,000, out of which must come supplies for federal housing, export, the army, and the navy.

"We felt the country needed 4½ million mechanical refrigerators a year—we are getting 265,000 this quarter.

"The army has plenty of refrigerators stored away here and there, but it is still coming in each quarter for a pretty fancy allotment of new refrigerators."

Aluminum Tied Up

Doidge says that the OCR recognized the absolute necessity of putting war production first, but felt the military had been "unnecessarily demanding" in the last year. "With aluminum as free as air for the last six, seven, or eight months, some firms had to lay off men because of inability to get that metal."

Certain materials still are scarce, Doidge said. In such cases the military has been justified in protecting the supply for war use, he continued, and in many cases curbs on civilian production have been justified because of shortages of man power. Doidge asserted his belief, however, that there are some cities where factories "right now could be making the things civilians need."

After serving with the WPB since 1942, Doidge resigned at midyear under doctor's instructions to take better care of his health. He plans to establish a market research and public relations business. He entered the WPB as chief of the furniture branch.

Cary Grant Renounces Claim to Wife's Fortune

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30 (AP)—Actor Cary Grant today renounced claim to any part of the fortune of his heiress wife, Barbara Hutton, and indicated he would not contest her divorce suit. Neither is making any financial claim against the other. The heiress accuses Grant of mental cruelty. They were married July 8, 1942.

Seize Soldier as Aid in 1941 Prison Break

New York, July 30 [Special]—A four year manhunt for an outside accomplice in Sing Sing's worst prison break ended today with the arrest of a veteran soldier who had hidden successfully in the anonymity of a GI uniform but was unmasked by the wife to whom he returned from overseas.

Charles Bergstrom

He insisted at first that he was Pvt. James Ryan, the name he had used while participating in six major engagements. Later he admitted he is Charles Bergstrom, 43.

Bergstrom returned with the 9th air force a week ago. He got a three day pass from Fort Dix and decided to visit his wife, Mrs. Loretta Bergstrom, in Brooklyn. He knocked on a door and a window but Loretta didn't want to see him. In panic, she fled down a fire escape, found policemen.

Finger Prints Identify Him

They found him in the apartment washing blood from cuts on his arm caused by breaking the glass on the front door. He protested they had made a mistake, that he was Pvt. Ryan. Confronted with Bergstrom's photograph, he scoffed: "That's somebody else." But when his finger prints matched the fugitive's he admitted his identity.

Bergstrom had served a term in Sing Sing for attempted burglary previous to the break. Tho he denied participating in the plot, police said he was one of four men who smuggled gun to three convicts who shot their way out of Sing Sing on April 14, 1941. They also said he provided a car for the planned getaway. Four persons lost their lives in the break. Two of the convicts were recaptured and later electrocuted.

The prison delivery, termed the most audacious in Sing Sing's history, had been planned over a period of nine months. The convicts had explored prison tunnels, chiseled iron gratings from foundations, made keys for gates, assembled guns, stolen ropes, and been in touch with outside accomplices.

Smuggle Arms by Truck

Three revolvers and three pairs of handcuffs were smuggled into the prison by tying them to the back axle of a milk truck, the driver of which was in ignorance of the mission his vehicle was performing.

Joseph Riordan, 24, and John Waters, 30, feigned illness to get into the infirmary where Charles McGale, 45, a trusty, waited. The three came out of the hospital shooting. A guard, John Hartye, was killed. A convict patient in the hospital, McGovern Miller, died of a heart attack caused by the excitement.

Outside the prison the three convicts met a cruising Ossining police car. Exchanged shots killed Convict Waters and Policeman James Fagan of Ossining. The two remaining convicts were captured by a posse after seven hours of freedom.

DAUGHTER OF BRITISH EARL BECOMES BRIDE OF GERMAN PRINCE

LONDON, July 30 (AP)—Prince Friedrich Georg Wilhelm Christoph of Prussia, grandson of Kaiser Wilhelm and a great-great-grandson of Queen Victoria, and Lady Brigid Katherine Rachel Guinness were married today in a simple ceremony at Hadham, Hertfordshire. The tall, flaxen haired prince, 33, is the son of former Crown Prince Wilhelm. He first met Brigid, youngest daughter of the earl of Iveagh, when he was a Cambridge undergraduate.

At the war's outbreak, the prince was interned and sent to Canada, where he took his turn in scrubbing floors with other internees. When the danger of invasion receded, the prince and other aliens were permitted to return to Britain.

Prince Friedrich's brother, Prince Louis Ferdinand, is the pretender to the German throne. The brother once worked as a mechanic in Detroit.

POINT REFUNDS ON FOOD SENT TO EUROPE MAY END

New York, July 30 [Special]—An indication that the office of price administration is about to suspend its practice of refunding red points used for rationed foods shipped by individuals to consumers in Europe was seen here today as a food package famine struck several department stores.

One store said wholesalers who have been supplying prepared food packages had suddenly shut off deliveries in expectation of an OPA announcement of this change of policy. Thousands of food packages, containing such items as butter, sugar, luncheon meat, sausage, corned beef, and cheese, have been shipped weekly under the OPA plan from New York alone, it was said.

Under the OPA system, stores shipping prepared parcels could get point refunds by submitting a postal receipt detailing items in the packages, while individuals who preferred to purchase items separately and make up their own packages could get similar refunds or in some cases borrow the needed points from the OPA in advance.

U.S. DESTROYERS 80 MI. FROM TOKYO; MACARTHUR FLYERS BOMB CARRIER

Eyewitness Tells of Great Fires Set at Hamamatsu

ABOARD U. S. BATTLESHIP OFF HONSHU, July 30 (AP)—Warships of the 3d fleet made their fourth full dress bombardment of the Japanese homeland within 15 days early today when they erupted high explosive shells all over Hamamatsu and its sprawling industrial environs.

Great fires lining the fog shrouded shore and visible for miles at sea attested to the marksmanship of the gunners of the great battleships and cruisers which poured more than 1,000 tons of explosives into a series of targets.

Targets included vast railway shops and a roundhouse, two big railway bridges, important airplane propeller plants, and musical instrument factories now engaged in arms manufacture. This vessel's primary targets were the government railway shops and two spinning plants turning out arms.

Fire Shells for an Hour

Preliminary reports from airplane spotters indicated all were burning fiercely when the bombardment force turned toward sea after an hour of incessant firing. The force included the British battleship King George V. and the cruiser Newfoundland, the United States battleship Massachusetts, the cruiser Quincy, and the destroyers Abbot and Hale.

Inasmuch as most of the targets lay along the Tokaido railroad line, a war congested link between Tokyo and Nagoya and points to the west, it seems likely that a number of American made monkey wrenches were tossed into the transportation system, which is vital to the enemy's plans for resisting eventual allied invasion.

Transportation Is Target

The admiral commanding this bombardment force said the prime object of the attack was to demoralize transportation. Preliminary reports indicated this aim probably was achieved.

The sea was lighted up for thousands of yards around as the big guns started roaring at 11:20 p. m. There was no definite evidence that the Japanese did anything but lay back and take it. There were several reports of unidentified planes and one of an unidentified ship approaching, but nothing came of them.

Tokyo "Deserted City"

ABOARD ADM. McCAIN'S FLAGSHIP OFF JAPAN, July 30 (AP)—Ships of this giant task force moved in close to the shores of Japan today as carrier planes blasted the enemy mainland. Pilots returning from early strikes against fog-shrouded Honshu Island reported they met no air opposition.

Tokyo appeared to be a deserted city. Her usually busy anti-aircraft guns were silent as one air group circled daringly over the city before hammering a huge aircraft plant to the southeast.

Airmen from Task Force 38, who have already shorn Nippon of her naval power, sought out 60 primary air fields and their sattelites, while British carrier planes roamed over air fields on southwest Honshu Island.

Hit Tokyo Building

Today's carrier strike took Yank pilots over the same area they bombed, rocketed, and strafed July 10, 17, and 18. Lt. D. M. Martin, Springfield, Mo., who flew over sections of Tokyo, said he saw no flak.

"We circled right over the city and it looked as if it was deserted. I could see thru a hole in the clouds. They did not fire a gun. I saw some of our boys' bombs hit a mammoth building and they blew it to smithereens. I couldn't even see it for five minutes after the bombs hit."

Lt. E. C. Knight of Danville, Va., saw factories and industrial targets smoking and flaming as he cruised "almost at the foot of Fujiyama."

DO SOMETHING TO STOP RAIDS! SUZUKI IS URGED

San Francisco, Cal., July 30 (AP)—Premier Suzuki's cabinet today was sharply criticized by the influential Tokyo newspaper Asahi, which demanded that national defense be put on a "priority basis."

The criticism, reported in a Tokyo broadcast, followed Suzuki's rejection yesterday of the allied surrender ultimatum, when he reportedly assured his people that Japanese plane production was "far above that anticipated."

The Asahi editorialized that "air raids against our medium and small sized cities are gaining in intensity. Cannot something be done about it by the government?"

Munitions Criticized

The newspaper then suggested: "Parallel with the priority on the production increase of aircraft and anti-aircraft high angle guns, we also want the government to put national defense on a priority basis."

Criticism was levelled specifically at the munitions ministry, headed by Adm. Teijiro Toyoda, one of Japan's leading industrialists, member of the wealthy ruling classes, a naval munitions expert and strong man in the Suzuki cabinet.

Altho Toyoda was not mentioned by name, the Asahi complained that "we still find some of the most important munitions being produced as tho they were of secondary importance. The munitions ministry should concentrate on this production increase on a priority basis."

Make Wooden Planes

"Long ago," it said, "the government announced plans to put telephone and telegraph lines underground to protect them, but nothing according to plan has been done as yet."

The Asahi revealed that "all raw materials required for manufacturing planes must today be obtained within Japan," and said that since aluminum bearing bauxite ore now comes from the southern regions only with mounting difficulty, "the production of wooden aircraft has become a grave matter for Japan."

Claim People's Support

Radio Tokyo claimed that a "man in the street" poll showed that the Japanese people were backing up the government in the rejection of the allied ultimatum.

Domei quoted interviews with an elevated railway worker, a teacher, and a barber who had been bombed out of "everything but his clippers and razor." All, said Domei, remained unshaken in a resolve to stand by the government's resistance.

Another Japanese broadcast said American efforts to divide political and military leaders was "entertaining," but would not succeed. The speaker said there was no "leader class" in Japan, as Americans and Europeans understand the term.

Defends Hirohito

"No one person or one group of politicians, militarists and members of a party will ever sway any policy in Japan in accordance with their free will."

The broadcaster went into a harangue in defense of Emperor Hirohito and the Japanese system of emperor worship. Hirohito launched upon the present war to defend his people against "insults" and misapprehensions, and his "greatest concern" today is to restore "blessed peace and quiet" again to Japan, he said.

Truman to Meet King at Plymouth on Return

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 31 [Tuesday]—President Truman will pay a visit of two hours at the British port of Plymouth en route home from Potsdam, the Daily Mail said today. Since the president has apologized that the pressure of work will not allow him to make a formal state visit to Buckingham palace, King George will meet him at Plymouth, the Mail added.

138 Enemy Aircraft, Nine Submarines Knocked Out

GUAM, July 31 [Tuesday] (AP)—American destroyers plunged into Suruga gulf, 80 miles southwest of Tokyo, this morning and shelled the town of Shimizu, while a 400 mile strip of Japan's coast still blazed from a storm unleashed by 1,500 or more American and British carrier planes.

Nimitz named the American destroyers Schroeder and Harrison as among those participating in this morning's shelling, which began shortly after midnight.

Adm. Nimitz said the carrier planes in their Monday strike against Tokyo and the area extending southwestward to Kyushu, destroyed 65 enemy planes, damaged 73, sank seven vessels and damaged 53.

Land Planes Blast 20

In addition, an aircraft carrier and 20 other ships were sunk or damaged by Gen. MacArthur's Far Eastern Air Force planes off Kyushu and Korea Sunday, it was announced at Manila.

Shimizu is about 50 miles northeast of Hamamatsu, the city shelled by the fleet yesterday, on the railway to Tokyo.

First reports on the previous night's bombardment of Hamamatsu by American and British battleships and cruisers showed damage to railroad workshops, a textile works and other buildings.

Nimitz said first reports on the carrier planes' strike against Japan yesterday showed one cargo vessel, two midget submarines and three small craft sunk. An escort carrier, a large transport, four destroyer escorts and a submarine tender were damaged. Seven midget submarines, a gunboat, seven cargo vessels and 11 small craft also were hit.

Most of the ships were caught at Maizuru naval base on the west coast of Honshu, 245 miles west of Tokyo.

British Damage Shipping

British carrier planes shot one enemy plane from the air over the targets and another over the fleet, destroyed five and damaged five on the ground, and did this damage to shipping:

One lugger sunk, 12 cargo vessels, three destroyers, and four destroyer escorts damaged.

The 3d fleet and its British ally struck with their planes at more than 60 air fields and other targets yesterday from the southern island of Kyushu to the Tokyo plain.

Fleet units swung in close to shore and poured 1,000 tons of shells into the railway bottleneck city of Hamamatsu, 120 miles southwest of Tokyo, touching off fires and explosions visible miles away as the ships pulled away. The main railway line to Tokyo may have been cut, for two rail bridges were among the targets.

"Reverse Pearl Harbor"

Pilots bringing back reconnaissance photos of the tremendous strike Saturday said the Inland sea was Pearl Harbor in reverse. The battleship Haruna was beached and burned out fore and aft. The battleship Ise rested in the mud at Kure, and her sister ship, the Hyuga, lay with her decks awash.

In all these operations not an allied warship has been reported damaged.

Large fires raged thru six secondary industrial cities after raids by up to 600 B-29s Sunday. Despite advance warnings that these cities would be struck, the Japanese put up only feeble resistance in the air or from ground fire, and every one of the bombers returned to base.

MacArthur to Warn

The Japanese were advised that henceforth not only the B-29s from the Marianas but the Far Eastern air forces of MacArthur would call their shots beforehand on cities to be struck to convince civilians quickly that further resistance is futile.

The Japanese, acknowledging the raids on Tokyo and Hamamatsu, claimed that their air forces at last had gone into action, but this was contrary to eyewitness accounts from the fleet.

Pilots returning from the sweeps over southern Honshu said they met no Japanese fighters, and that Tokyo appeared a deserted city with even her clusters of anti-aircraft guns silent.

The Japanese Domei news agency estimated that 1,250 planes attacked Japan from dawn to midafternoon. The main weight of the assault was directed at industrial sections around Tokyo by the carrier planes, Domei said. First estimates said 700 planes were participating. The number was boosted to 1,000, and then to 1,250.

142 Mustangs in Raid

Japanese planes refused to challenge American Mustangs as 142 of the Iwo based army fighters raked enemy air fields, shipping, railroad yards, and ground installations of the Kobe-Osaka area yesterday.

The 7th fighter command said seven enemy aircraft were in the air, but refused to come within range. Anti-aircraft fire, however, downed five Mustangs and three were damaged. Three pilots were rescued.

MacArthur Men Hit Carrier

MANILA, July 31 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Mitchell bombers of the Far Eastern air forces attacked a Japanese aircraft carrier at the Kure naval base Sunday, left it listing and down at the stern. Other planes sank or damaged 20 or more Japanese ships off Kyushu and Korea, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters reported today.

A direct hit on the carrier was not claimed as clouds obscured vision, and it may have been hit earlier by navy planes. It was a different one, however, from the light carrier Katsuragi, which was identified as the one damaged in the previous sweep Saturday.

The spokesman also reported reconnaissance protographs showed the battleship Haruna, hit by both army and navy bombers, still afloat but badly damaged at Kure. The spokesman said he had no information on whether the army or navy planes hit the Haruna first.

[Adm. Nimitz in a Monday bulletin said the Haruna was beached and navy reports said carrier planes first hit the battleship.]

Japs Trying New Route

FEAF headquarters said the three day enemy shipping toll by the 7th and 5th air forces was five warships and 91 merchant vessels destroyed or damaged.

The spokesman said the presence of the most shipping victims around Kyushu and Korea indicated that Japan was trying to keep its life lines to the continent open by land routes to Korea and then by shipping across the narrow home waters. The heaviest traffic formerly was from Shanghai and other China coast points southward.

Two 10,000 ton tankers were listed as probably sunk around Kyushu. Liberators hit one in the Inland sea and more than 50 A-26s and Mustangs hit the other at Nagasaki, on western Kyushu. The same planes scored a direct hit on a large freighter

Bomb Kyushu Town

Navy, marine, Australian, and New Zealand planes of the FEAF coördinated their efforts in smashing blows. More than 130 Thunderbolts fire-bombed Makurasaki in southwest Kyushu. The same group hit Izumi to the southward and sank a freighter and damaged three others in Chiran harbor on Kyushu.

More than 40 Liberators with 50 or more Thunderbolt fighters as escort bombed shipping at Kure by instrument.

Near Canton navy Liberators caught an enemy battalion in marching column and killed many with strafing runs. Eight vehicles carrying fuel or ammunition were destroyed.

MYSTERY GROUP OF 84 WOMEN TO SERVE IN EUROPE

Camp Shanks, N. Y., July 30 (AP)—Eighty-four women civilians, from single girls to grandmothers beyond 60, whose destiny has been a two week mystery to WACS, GIS, and camp authorities, were disclosed today as a group that will "engage in a phase of intelligence work" in the American zone of occupation in Germany. More than half of them were natives of foreign countries.

The women are civilian employes of the war department, and while not in the army will have the rank of commissioned officers. They said they were prepared to be gone "a couple of years." The relatives of some were persecuted or killed in Germany.

The outfit's uniform is called "the nattiest in the service." It consists of an olive drab green jacket with hunter green epaulets and hunter green cuff stripes with a gold U. S. insignia on each lapel. The skirt is a shade darker than the jacket and the overseas officer's cap has a crown of hunter green.

HALF TARAKAN'S OIL WELLS O. K., AUSTRALIA SAYS

San Francisco, Cal., July 30 (AP)—Nearly half the oil wells on Tarakan Island off Borneo's east coast can be operated immediately and the field can reach full pre-war production within a year, the Melbourne, Australia, radio said today.

Quoting Capt. J. Moltzer of the Dutch oil rehabilitation battalion, Melbourne said the Japanese had sunk nearly 200 wells during the occupation and reclaimed many destroyed by the Dutch who withdrew in 1942.

GI Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

MANILA, P. I., July 30—Dorothy Reid, private first class, Woman's Army Corps, formerly of 1433 E. Marquette rd., Chicago, was supposed to get up at 6:15 this morning but she turned over on her cot, straightened a few wrinkles in the two blankets that are her mattress, sheets, comforts, and bedspread combined, and went back to sleep.

Actually all she got after reveille was a catnap because the other seven girls who share what they call their room kept poking at her thru the mosquito net, telling her to roll out of the sack.

The room that is home to the eight is a section of a big dormitory in a three story former nurses' home. Their room is separated from the rest of the dorm by parallel rows of lockers. The eight cots stand side by side with perhaps two feet between. In some other sections of the building, which houses 800 of the 3,000 WACs now in Manila, the cots are only four or five inches apart.

She works in an office in a burned out building but is on the street most of the day. Her job is to check up on army projects about town and make certain Filipino laborers are being paid only according to fixed rules. "Some are and some aren't," she reports.

At noon she rode a truck back to the house for a lunch of spaghetti. She says she eats like a horse and since coming to Manila has gone from 98 pounds to 116 pounds.

"But I was like a rail down in New Guinea," she explains.

Food and Clothes

Back to work and back home by 5 p. m. for supper. At 6:30 the one phone in the building—the number is Pasay 121—is opened for personal calls. You'd think it would be busy with incoming calls but after a few months in the army a soldier forgets Bell ever invented the telephone.

Over the roast beef and apricot pie the WACs reworked their most popular debate subject, which is should WACs here wear skirts instead of slacks. There is a rumor the WACs are going to change to skirts in a few weeks and that brings up the problem of stockings. Some object to wearing stockings per se and some object because as they say, "Stockings don't hold themselves up."

Washrooms in Courtyard

One by one the roommates wrapped kimonos around their pajamas and vanished down the hall and out into the rear courtyard where the army has built bathrooms. They came back, dressed, and giving Pfc. Reid a final poke, dashed off to breakfast.

It was almost 7 before Pfc. Reid stretched for the last time and crawled out of bed. She dressed and made breakfast just by the 7:15 deadline, smoothing her reddish brown hair as she hurried down the hall. She passed up the cereal with its manufactured milk but cleaned up the powdered eggs.

The last truck left for the office at 7:45 a. m. while she was still a-fixin'. By 8 she was standing on the curb looking wishful. In less than two minutes a captain in a jeep stopped and told her to climb in.

There also was griping at supper over the men. Seems the men soldiers keep coming up to lady soldiers and asking them to get a couple of lipsticks from their PX so the men can give them to Filipino acquaintances. The WACs think that is carrying international good will too far.

Men Show Up

After supper the men soldiers began drifting in. Some went up to the roof for movies. Some sat on the stiff chairs in the room that is called the parlor. Others took their WACs and vanished in jeeps or afoot.

Pfc. Reid left in a jeep to go to a dance. She said she would be back by 11:30. When WACs leave in the evening they sign out. They must sign in by 11:30. At midnight a WAC officer makes the rounds of the dorms to make sure every one is abed.

And that's a WAC's day in Manila.

NAVY'S 'POCKET BATTLESHIP' IN WAR ON JAPAN

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—The navy disclosed tonight that the new giant battle cruiser Guam, which it terms the American version of the pocket battleship, has been in combat action off Okinawa and Japan almost six months.

Capt. L. F. Lovette

The Guam's guns have blasted at two enemy held islands, knocked down two airplanes, assisted in downing six others and supported numerous carrier strikes, the announcement said.

The Guam is larger and more potent than the German raider, the Graf Spee, pocket battleship trapped and forced to sink itself off South America early in the European war. The navy said the Guam's extensive compartmentation makes her "one of the most combat worthy ships in the world."

There is only one other American naval vessel like the Guam, her sister ship the U. S. S. Alaska, which was completed first.

Both carry 12 inch guns rather than the eight inch weapons on the usual heavy cruiser. Both have heavy anti-aircraft batteries. Each displaces 20,000 tons plus, is more than 800 feet long and has a beam of more than 80 feet. The Guam has been under command of Capt. Leland P. Lovette, former director of navy public relations in Washington.

OPA SUSPENDS DEALER

China May Add to Navy; Admiral Visits England

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

LONDON, July 30—The development of a Chinese navy is understood to be behind the visit of its commander-in-chief, Adm. Chen Shao-kwan, to the Devonport navy base today. The admiral is making an inspection tour of British training establishments and reportedly is interested in ships of the smaller type in which Chinese personnel is being trained.

AUSSIES KILL OR CAPTURE 15,000 JAPS IN ISLANDS

BY ROBERT CROMIE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

MANILA, P. I., July 30—A headquarters spokesman today announced that since Australian troops replaced the Americans in New Guinea, Bougainville, and New Britain, last November, more than 15,000 Japs have been killed or captured for a loss of 4,000 Australians killed, wounded, or missing.

The spokesman said 85,000 Japs, most of whom are now self-sufficient due to their cultivation of gardens, fishing, and occasional supplies landed from submarines, still remain in New Guinea, the Solomons, and New Britain.

The Australian troops face herculean difficulties in transportation, terrain, and supply. In some cases the Australian forces are supplied only by native trains which take as long as seven days to make the trip from the supply base to forward positions.

Drown in Floods

Additionally, occasional patrols, following river valleys as the only means of traversing the jungle, have been drowned when sudden floods raged down the defiles.

In one coastal stretch, between Aitape and Wewak in New Guinea, more bridging material was used than was necessary in the Italian campaign. Whereas the Italian campaign necessitated the use of 33 feet of bridging material for each mile of road, this stretch took 144 feet for each mile. It had constantly to be replaced after heavy rains.

The Australian troops do not talk in terms of miles, but describe a journey as taking so many hours. Since November in the Aitape-Wewak area, however, they have covered 110 miles in an easterly direction and 70 tortuous miles inland in a southeastern direction.

Hold Half of Bougainville

The Australians now hold about half of Bougainville, where the fighting is minor but fierce, with the Japs striving desperately to protect their main garden areas in the south of the island. Here, as in New Guinea and other islands, the natives are giving excellent help and have killed an estimated 1,000 Nipponese.

The strongest Jap position is still at the once powerful Jap base at Rabaul, where an estimated 50,000 Nipponese cultivate gardens and plantations, take fish from the sea, and still are well supplied with ammunition.

If left alone, and at present they are being contained and have to contend only with patrol activity, there is no reason why they cannot live in this fertile region just as well as the natives do.

Malaria Controled

Malaria, once the dread bugaboo of New Guinea and the Solomons, now is well under control, with the Australians reporting slight incidence except for a brief resurgence of both malaria and typhus during the final stages of the attack on Wewak, when the troops' resistance was lowered due to exhaustion.

Among the crack Australian outfits participating in this cleanup is the 6th Australian division, which won undying laurels in Libya, Greece, Crete, Syria, Kokoda, and Salamaua.

BRITISH CARRIER PLANES ATTACK NEAR SINGAPORE

CALCUTTA, India, July 30 (AP)—Carrier borne aircraft of the British fleet have struck hesvily at enemy approaches to Singapore, while land based bombers hit anew at Bangkok, capital of Thailand, southeast Asia command headquarters said today.

A naval bulletin said guns of the carrier Ameer shot down a Japanese plane attempting to make a suicide attack.

The bulletin said heavy units of the fleet were part of a task force supporting British mine sweepers operating off the west coast of the Malacca strait. One British mine sweeper was lost when she struck a mine.

Chinese Repulse Drive by Japs

Counter-Attack

CHUNGKING, China, July 30 (AP)—Counter-attacking Chinese fighters are battling for possession of two strategic border passes leading into Indo-China after hurling back Japanese attempts to invade south China from the French colony, the Chinese high command said tonight.

A bulletin reported see-saw fighting near Chennankwan [south guard pass], 84 miles northeast of Hanoi, and near the 1,500 foot highway pass at Shuikow, 116 miles north of the Indo-Chinese capital.

A United States 14th air force bulletin announced that P-51s, P-47s and P-38s had delivered "punishing blows" to Japanese rail transport on a 1,700 mile front from Peiping in north China to Vinh in French Indo-China.

ALASKA VOLCANO ERUPTS; YANKS SET TO LEAVE

UMNAK, Alaska, July 23 [Delayed] —(AP)—Hot volcanic ash lumps of 1,000 degrees centrigrade temperature shot a thousand or more feet into the air from the eight mile crater which is called Tulik. Mariners at sea in near-by Chernofski bay were startled. Soldiers on land cast apprehensive glances at the smoking crater near Tulik mountain.

The army formed hasty plans to evacuate the soldiers—but no hot lava came boiling down the mountainside, on this island in the Aleutians. Dr. Howell Williams of the University of California geology department, was called by the army. He pronounced the crater safe for the time being.

But the army is taking no chances. An emergency evacuation plan has been laid out to remove speedily the men stationed 16 miles from this, the so-called second largest crater in the world, if a violent eruption should come.

PREMIER SOONG RESIGNS JOB AS FOREIGN CHIEF

CHUNGKING, China, July 30 (AP)—Chinese Premier T. V. Soong today relinquished his post as minister of foreign affairs and turned it over to Minister of Information Dr. Wang Shih-chieh in a cabinet reshuffle designed to speed the war against Japan.

Dr. Wang Shih-chieh

Soong, who had served as foreign minister since Dec. 23, 1941, and was elevated to the premiership last May 31, retained his post as premier.

At the same time he was named vice chairman of the joint administration office of China's four government banks in succession to H. H. Kung, whose resignation has been accepted, an announcement said today. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is chairman of the banking board.

In another cabinet change Minister of Social Affairs Ku Cheng-kang was appointed concurrently minister of agriculture and forestry, succeeding Gen. Sheng Shih-tsai, former governor of Sinkiang.

Chinese Reds Compelled to Retreat, Says Radio

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

The Chinese Communist wireless at Yenan said last night that Chiang Kai-shek's troops had forced Communist troops to withdraw from the Communist controled Yeh Tai Shan area in northwestern China after intense fighting. The English language dispatch said the withdrawal was ordered after the government forces bombarded the area, at the southern tip of the Communist's Shensi-Kansu-Ninghsia border region.

CLOSE TRAP ON JAP GENERAL'S LAIR ON LUZON

WITH U. S. 6TH DIVISION, Northern Luzon, July 30 (AP)—Ifugao ridge fell today after two weeks of the most concentrated artillery and air assaults this division ever directed against Japanese defenses, but more fortified mountain barriers lie ahead, protecting Gen. Yamashita's Luzon "Berchtesgaden."

This is full-scale warfare against the Japanese commander, who is holed in a wilderness of mountains.

Ifugao ridge was defended by one of many suicide garrisons of well-fed Japanese troops whom Yamashita had detailed to protect him and other hunted general officers and perhaps high naval officers. They are trapped, but not defeated, in an area from which there is no possibility of air evacuatior and little if any chance of land retreat.

Fight Among Peaks

MANILA, P. I., July 31 [Tuesday] —(AP)—A battle among 8,000 foot peaks dominates the mopup campaign in the Philippine Islands, where latest casualty figures raised to 437,828 the total of Japanese losses.

Lt. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, 14th United States army corps commander, said the cloud shrouded area 32 miles north of Baguio on Luzon, where the principal remaining element of Japanese is trapped in a rapidly diminishing area, is the roughest he has ever encountered.

A total of 12,226 enemy dead was counted in the area in the first 27 days of July and 1,543, an unusually high percentage, surrendered.

"It won't be over for us," Griswold said, "until the Japanese surrender, are killed, or are driven so far into the hills they are no longer a military factor."

CAPTURED JAPS HELP IN WRITING U.S. PROPAGANDA

Believe They Can Help to End War

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., July 30 — Several Japanese soldiers and civilians captured during the battle for Manila now are voluntarily helping the psychological warfare branch write propaganda leaflets intended to undermine the Nipponese will to resist.

These educated Japanese, at least one of whom formerly worked in the United States, have agreed that Japan has no chance to win, and their only desire is to bring the war to a close as speedily as possible, thus saving what is left of the homeland.

It is an odd sight to see men who a few months ago were in Jap uniforms now sitting quietly at desks in an office, wearing American khaki and conferring with American officers. But the experiment is paying off in perfectly slanted appeals to Jap warriors to lay down their arms.

Tells Jap Ship Losses

Lt. Arthur Behrstock, whose parents live at 540 Briar pl., Chicago, arranged an interview with two of these unexpected allies. One spoke perfect, if slightly lisping, English. The other spoke only Japanese.

The English speaker said he had friends in Jap shipping circles and thus was in a position to know "even better than Japanese staff officers" that Japan was suffering heavy losses as long ago as early 1943.

"I would ask captains sailing to Japan to bring me something back," he said, "but they never returned to us. I knew they had been sunk. I believe American submarines sank many more ships than your navy ever counted. We were expecting Japan to lose 20 per cent of her shipping each month, but to build more than enough new ships to equal the losses. But on the contrary we are losing 25 per cent and replacing less than half of the losses.

Quality Is Inferior

"We also thought we would be able to build them of the same quality, but again it was on the contrary. They are single bottoms only and too slow. Captains hated to take them out. By 1943 some of us realized that the Japs would lose the Philippines, but were warned against talking. The majority of those here, however, had full confidence until the beginning of 1944. And the first air raid on Manila harbor last September brought casualties bigger than any one expected."

Asked what he felt to be his own and Japan's future, he said: "After I was captured I kept thinking whether I could stand it to stay out from Japan. I think it is good for both Japan and the United States, so I am willing to sacrifice myself to do what I can to try to stop the war. What I hope and think and try to do is to help destroy the full power of the Japanese militarists. But Japan's system of education will have to be changed if she is to turn into a democratic nation."

Asked whether he would ever return to Japan he was dubious.

Yanks Surprise Him

"Even after the militarists were cleared away," he said simply, "they would find what I am doing here in Manila and in that case it might be very difficult."

He said that when he had seen American soldiers in China before the war he thought they would be poor fighters, but when he saw them coming into Manila his first thought was that they looked like German soldiers in efficiency and fighting quality.

"They are much better than I have been thinking," he said.

The speaker said two other interesting things:

1. That the Japanese recognized that Japanese-Americans owed allegiance to the country of their birth and should serve the United States in any war against Japan.

2. That Adm. Nomura was sincere in negotiating for peace even while the Japs were planning to attack Pearl Harbor.

Willing to Return

Nomura, he said, was double crossed by the military. Nomura is now, according to our spokesman, "what you call a pro-American bigshot in Japan."

The other Japanese was a former factory official. Forced into the army when the Americans came, he is one of the men surviv.ng out of the 1,500 so impressed. He surrendered on Feb. 27. This he said, was enough to convince him that Japan had no chance, so he volunteered to aid the psychological warfare branch. He said he was even willing to return to Japan with United States troops if he could help end the conflict.

This man professes to believe in a parliamentary form of government, and that while the emperor should be preserved with his family as the "ancestors of the Japanese people," elected officials should have power.

Defeated Premier King to Run Again Aug. 6

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 30—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King was nominated this afternoon to contest a by election in Glengarry county, Ont., Aug. 3. This is necessary because King was defeated in his own constituency of Prince Albert in the general elections on June 11. To lead the government in the house of commons, normal procedure for a prime minister, he had to seek another seat. Dr. W. D. MacDiarmid, Liberal member, resigned to make way for King.

Amid colorful ceremonies yesterday in Navy Pier auditorium, 677 midshipmen constituting the 25th and final class to be graduated from Abbott Hall, Northwestern university, received commissions as ensigns in the navy.

During its five years of operation as a training center, approximately 20,000 reserve ensigns have been sent to sea assignments with the fleet from Abbott Hall.

Yesterday's class was addressed by Capt. Benyaurd B. Wygant, commanding officer of the school since its opening. He was presented with the Legion of Merit by Vice Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, who also attended the graduation exercises. Capt. Wygant, former fire commissioner of Los Angeles, Cal., will become headmaster of Elgin academy Aug. 15.

EX-AIDE DENIES PETAIN JOINED FASCIST GROUP

BY ROBERT SAGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, July 30—A strange interlude was introduced today into the treason trial of Marshal Petain by the appearance of Maj. Georges Loustaneau-Lacau, 51, confidential adviser to Petain from October, 1934, to March, 1938.

Loustaneau-Lacau spent the last four years in various prisons and concentration camps, including six months in an underground cell at Vichy. He has just arrived in France from a concentration camp in Germany. Altho called by the prosecution, his testimony, peppered with slang and obscenities, turned out to be mainly in support of the defense thesis.

The packed courtroom listened in fascination while the witness, sitting in an armchair, cleared Petain of alleged affiliation with the Cagoule Fascist organization [known as the Cagoulards, or Hooded Ones], savagely castigated the Communists, and in general told the world what he thinks about the whole Petain affair.

"Owe Petain Nothing"

"I owe nothing to Petain," he declared, after relating the persecutions he suffered from Vichy, "but that doesn't prevent me from being revolted at seeing those in this room who are not afraid to put all their blunders on the shouders of a marshal of France who is nearly 100 years old."

Former Premier Edouard Herriot, robust, clear eyed, and vigorous at 73, was the first witness called today by the prosecution.

Herriot made a deposition on the events of June and July, 1940, that varies little from those already made by his predecessors.

As president of the chamber, he said he agreed with Jules Jeanneney, president of the senate, that even if the military chiefs had their way and surrendered, the government must save the fleet, Algeria, the empire, state, and country. The problem, he declared, was international as well as national for France still had its ally, Britain, and the late President Roosevelt had promised to put America's resources at France's disposal.

Relied on Roosevelt

"France had two stanch friends in Churchill and Roosevelt," said Herriot. "We knew Britain would fight to the end. Roosevelt had placed at our disposal material which we needed and I felt sure that the day would come when he would lead the United States into the war. We had no right to betray such a confidence."

A note of pathos was added to the session by the brief testimony of Mme. Henriette Psichari-Renan, 51, who requested to be heard in the name of the 11,000 French mothers who, like her, lost sons in North Africa.

She declared that while two of her sons were in the resistance a third, aged 25, was a member of the submarine Argonaute's crew when the submarine was ordered to leave Oran on Nov. 8, 1942, "to attack and sink as many American ships as possible." Her son, she said, hated the Germans but believed it his duty to obey orders. His submarine was never heard from again.

3 CARS UPSET AS U. P. TRAIN HITS WASHOUT

Omaha, Neb., July 30 (AP)—Four cars of the Union Pacific's City of Los Angeles left the track 61 miles east of Las Vegas, Nev., last night as a result of flood waters which undermined the roadbed, the railroad's headquarters said today.

Three or four passengers were shaken up, the railroad said. Two required hospitalization at Las Vegas.

The west bound 12 car train was moving at four miles per hour over the weakened roadbed when two Pullmans and a diner turned on their sides. A lounge car was derailed.

GEN. DE GAULLE EXPECTED TO STAY IN POWER

Not Planning to Quit Soon, Observers Say

PARIS, July 30 [Reuters]—Political circles in Paris tonight considered that Gen. de Gaulle's hint at resignation as head of the French provisional government was not intended for immediate application.

The hint was made yesterday before the rejection of his constitutional proposals in the French consultative assembly, but one of his intimates said today that altho De Gaulle was hurt by accusations of maneuvering for dictatorship he is too attached to his self-imposed task of bringing France back to a stable position to abandon it for personal reasons.

The government has decided that since the assembly took a negative attitude it is up to the government itself to produce a new scheme, it is understood. This will be the chief subject of tomorrow's cabinet meeting.

Seek to Avoid Break

The main question now is whether the present all party cabinet can continue, at least as far as its two communist members are concerned.

Communist leaders in the assembly would make no statement, but many political observers say that an open break with the government is the last thing the Communist party desires.

In working out the new draft law for the elections the government will take as its basis the socialist project which was nearly adopted by the assembly and which also provides for a referendum.

Government circles do not despair of producing a scheme which will meet the general requirements and also win over the majority of the consultative assembly. They estimate that a majority compounded of Communists, Radicals, and extreme Conservatives cannot hang together for long.

Socialists and noncommunist resistance groups are eager to collaborate with De Gaulle, it is believed.

Vote Capital Levy

The assembly today approved the government proposal for a capital tax by 233 votes to 2.

The tax is 3 per cent on all capital over 100,000 francs [$2,000], with scales of exemption for married couples and children, and allowances for widows and war orphans. There is also a tax on wealth acquired since 1939, with no exemptions.

These two measures, aimed at capital and war time profits respectively, would be the last of emergency financial measures the government proposed to introduce, Finance Minister Rene Pleven said in the assembly.

ELLIOTT GAINS RELEASE, LEAVES ARMY ON AUG. 15

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 30—The army career of Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, whose financial transactions are under scrutiny by congress, will end Aug. 15, the war department announced tonight.

Gen. Roosevelt, 34 years old and the second son of the late President, entered the army air corps as a captain Sept. 23, 1940. He served in the European war in command of photographic reconnaissance units.

The army, which yesterday disclosed Gen. Roosevelt had asked to be released, said tonight the request was made May 11, and that Roosevelt asked to be discharged "if there was no need for his services in the Pacific."

Disclaim Knowledge of Loans

He was informed, the army statement said, that regulations permitted the release of reserve officers "whose services were no longer required."

Altho the army stated yesterday that Gen. Roosevelt's request had not yet been acted upon, tonight's announcement said the decision to release him was made before his various financial transactions were exposed to publicity. No information regarding Roosevelt's various loans was in the hands of the war department at the time the release was authorized, the announcement said.

Two congressional committees started inquiries into Roosevelt's financial dealings in connection with his Texas radio interests, following the disclosure seven weeks ago that the young general had borrowed $200,000 in 1939 from John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company. Hartford confirmed published statements that the loan was settled in 1942 for $4,000.

Since then, other borrowings by Roosevelt have been disclosed, and congressional circles have reported the total may exceed $800,000. Inquiries by the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee into the transactions are still in progress.

Earlier Version of Resignation

Previous authoritative reports indicated Gen. Roosevelt's request for release was made on the advice of army superiors who reportedly said publicity as to his loans and settlements at a discount were a reflection on the service. These were apparently contradicted, however, by the official announcement that the general asked for his release May 11, before his financial transactions were publicized.

The war department said that when Roosevelt requested his release, he was asked first to pass on to instructors at the air force photographic school the knowledge and experience gained during his army tenure. This request was carried out, it added.

"Prior to agreeing to Gen. Roosevelt's release from active duty," the army said, "the army air forces considered his long and efficient service in the European theater and that there was no requirement for his service in the Pacific which could not be filled by another and available qualified officer."

Roosevelt's release Aug. 15 will coincide with the end of a 90 day leave he is now spending at the family home in Hyde Park, N. Y.

DISSOLVE ALLIED AIR FORCES IN MEDITERRANEAN

ROME, July 30 (AP)—Dissolution of the Mediterranean allied air forces—the over-all command which directed the air war in southern Europe from December, 1943, until Germany surrendered — was announced by Field Marshal Harold Alexander tonight.

Effective at midnight, the action has little immediate effect on the organization of air forces in this theater. The United States air forces remain under command of Maj. Gen. James M. Bevass. British operations are controled by Air Marshal Guy Garrod.

Alexander, as supreme theater commander, will exercise command over these air forces thru Garrod on the British side and Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney on the American side. M. A. A. F. planes dropped more than 650,000 tons of bombs and shot down more than 8,700 enemy planes in combat. Its own losses were more than 9,300 planes and approximately 40,000 airmen.

NAZI 'IRON MEN' BREAK DOWN FROM FRIGHT

Barbed Wire Pens Leave Mark on Captives

MONDORF, Luxemburg, July 30 (AP)—Top Nazis and even some of the supposed iron men who built and bossed the German military machine are going to pieces morally and physically as they wait behind barbed wire for their war crimes trials.

Records kept by the army since this interrogation center was opened May 13 told today of the strange effect of fear and confinement on the survivors of the German clique that once ruled Europe.

The records showed that:

Has Only One Friend

Robert Ley, one time overlord of German workmen, has shown a marked physical and moral disintegration, and has only one friend among the dozens of German leaders held here — Julius Streicher, Adolf Hitler's No. 1 Jew baiter.

Streicher, who now professes to have decided that Jews should be allowed to live unmolested, wanders around disconsolately in Ley's company, the picture of a broken man.

Dr. Hans Frank, Nazi chieftain in Poland, who arrived at Mondorf wearing only a pair of lace panties, vacillates between hysteria and scorn, crying out, "I am a criminal."

The deterioration is apparent even in some of the general officers who planned and helped execute the most ruthless war in history. They accepted defeat on the battle field, but when the symbols of their power —their batons—were taken away, they went to pieces.

Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel wrote Gen. Eisenhower to protest the confiscation of his marshal's baton. Adm. Karl Doenitz, who succeeded Hitler as fuehrer, resented being photographed with a black number across his shirt front, and wrote to Eisenhower to tell him so.

"A Pretty Sorry Lot"

Commenting on the Germans' attitude, Sgt. Robert Bock of Milwaukee, Wis., assistant in the liaison office here, said:

"They looked good while they were winning, but here behind the wire, with their authority and their fancy uniforms gone, they are a pretty sorry lot. They are scared to death. They distrust each other. They try to pass the buck and they go into hysterics at the slightest thing."

Bock said Arthur Seyss-Inquart, one time Nazi minister of culture and overlord of the Netherlands, was the first internee. He was in on May 13.

Goering arrived May 20. He came in the back end of a weapons carrier, blue uniform dusty, and dishevelled. With him was a pink cheeked valet. The valet was immediately ordered put to hard labor.

When Goering was searched, he was found to have a vial of poison concealed in a can of soluble coffee. On the vial was the word, "Gift," which is German for poison. Goering did not explain why he, like former Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, who also was carrying poison when captured, had failed to use it.

Bock said that Goering was so nervous on his arrival he had to be put in care of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring.

Debased by Vices

"He kept saying, 'I think you are going to kill me tomorrow,'" Bock related.

Commenting on Goering, Col. B. C. Andrus of Denver, Colo., commanding officer of the interrogation center, said he was "so debased by his vices he lacks the moral stamina of normal men."

Among the old line German military leaders, Adm. Doenitz has preserved a cynical exterior most of the time, except for his outburst over being photographed.

Even Von Ribbentrop surrendered some of his icy calm when he was advised he had been listed as a war criminal, and would have to stand trial.

"A criminal!" he exclaimed. "I, a criminal?"

"The greatest diplomatic success you ever had was foisting the German champagne off on the French," said Dr. Bohuslav Ecer, chief of the Czechoslovak war crimes commission.

Ribbentrop, a former champagne salesman, shrugged and said: "I know it is a joke, but German champagne was really very good."

Changed His Mind

Sgt. Bock said Streicher had told him he had changed his mind completely about Jews and now was convinced they deserved to be allowed to live, just the same as members of any other group of people.

Streicher told Bock that when he was captured he was knocked down and kicked in the face, and that a Negro spat on him.

"Then one day, I changed camps," Bock quoted Streicher. "I was placed in a clean room. An American came in with a pitcher of cocoa and some crackers. He sat them down on the little table and stepped back and said, 'This is from me to you, Mr. Streicher—I am a Jew.'

"I broke down and cried. That was the most severe punishment I have ever received. I am wrong. I have always said there were no good Jews, but that boy proved to me I am wrong."

ALLIES WARNED BY U.S. TO SPEED UP WAR TRIALS

Separate Action on Cases Threatened

LONDON, July 30 (AP)—An authoritative American source said today that Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson had bluntly informed British, Russian, and French representatives that an agreement must be reached this week for trying Germany's war criminals, or the United States would proceed independently with the trials.

His determination—and the probability that other countries will heed his suggestion — was strengthened by the fact that the United States has possession of a big majority of war criminals against whom most of the European countries have brought formal charges, this informant said.

Held by United States

These include Hermann Goering, Joachim von Ribbentrop, Julius Streicher, Robert Ley, and high ranking generals in Hitler's army.

Jackson, chief United States prosecutor for the forthcoming trials, had expressed hope they would get underway by late summer, and that present discussions would last a week or 10 days. Instead, they have stretched into more than three weeks.

His time limit may mean that Britain's new government will have to replace its chief prosecutor, David Maxwell Fyfe, who served as attorney general under the Churchill regime, or authorize him to continue sitting despite the fact he is a Conservative member of parliament. Under ordinary procedure, Fyfe would be replaced by a Labor party man.

May Result in Delay

There has been no indication from party circles whether Fyfe would be asked to remain, and there was a possibility that Britain's change of government might result in delay of war trials.

Yanks in Britain to Free 35,000 Vehicles by 1946

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 30—By 1946 the American forces in Britain will have redeployed 35,000 vehicles to the United States and the Pacific war front, army headquarters here announced today. Thru ports at Barry, Wales, and Liverpool and the crating plant at Cheltenham, manned chiefly by German prisoners, air force and service vehicles are being shipped out at the rate of 300 daily. The vehicles first are given a complete overhauling, since their average life in England has been two years.

Two Injured

Two Negro occupants of an automobile were slightly injured yesterday when their car was crushed by a heavy truck trailer that fell upon it in 43d st. and Wabash av. A third occupant, Mrs. Oneda Lucas, 31, Negro, of 5628 Prairie av., was unhurt. The injured were James Moore, 20, of 511 E. 42d pl., and William Miller, 22, of 4730 Calumet av. They were treated at Provident hospital. Lester Mitchell, 34, of Kalamazoo, Mich., driver of the truck, told police that he swerved to avoid a third automobile and his trailer tipped over. He was not injured.

TESTIFIES NAZIS PROMISED GUNS TO MIHAILOVITCH

Follower of Chetnik Tried for Treason

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 30 [Reuters]—Dr. Djura Djurovic, chief prisoner in a treason trial that opened in Belgrade today, testified that Gen. Draja Mihailovitch, former Yugoslav minister of defense and leader of the Chetnik forces against Marshal Tito, arranged a meeting with the Germans at which he was promised rifles, the Yugoslav Tanjug agency said. Djurovic said he did not know if the arms were ever delivered.

Djurovic was the first of Mihailovitch's followers to be questioned. The trial, which is being held in a large hall of Belgrade university, was broadcast thruout Yugoslavia.

German General Present

Two German generals and German representatives from Belgrade attended the meeting with Mihailovitch, and leading Serbian Quisling ministers were present also, Djurovic said. Mihailovitch afterward told him he called the meeting to gain time as the Germans were apparently massing 10 to 12 divisions against his forces, the defendant added.

Later, Djurovic said, Mahailovitch met with Gen. Milutin Neditch, Quisling prime minister of Serbia. Among those present, he added, was Neditch's police chief, Draghi Yovanovitch, who was responsible for atrocities at the Banjica concentration camp.

Assumes Some Blame

Djurovich admitted that by his connection with Yovanovitch he must bear some of the responsibility for those atrocities and that Mihailovitch's organization "caused great harm and brought great shame both upon the people and upon those who took part in it," the news agency reported.

Djurovic further testified he saw Chetniks and Germans walking together in the Serbian village of Satornjan, the agency said. Djurovic's defense is that he was deceived by Mihailovitch.

The whereabouts of Mihalovitch remains generally unknown. In May he was reported to have flown to Italy in an American plane but this was not confirmed.

NEW ZEALAND, U.S. AIR SERVICE EXPECTED SOON

WELLINGTON, N. Z., July 30 [Reuters]—Land planes will replace flying boats in the San Francisco-New Zealand service, which it is hoped will be resumed soon, Pan American Airways announced here today.

The flying time will be 36 hours and the fare $292 plus any government travel tax, lower than the first class steamer fare. The route will be much the same as before the war.

The planes will be new D-C 7s [Douglasses] or perhaps Lockheed Constellations by the middle of 1946. Smaller Douglasses will be used in the meantime. These carry 40 passengers, mail and express freight and have a cruising speed of 200 miles an hour.

No Church Bells

[Associated Press Wirephoto]
Sgt. Kanella Koulouvaris

While army authorities in Berlin continued investigation of the marital status of Capt. Carl G. Schultz of Chicago, he told an Associated Press correspondent yesterday that he wanted most of all to clear the name of his WAC sergeant bride, regardless of what his wife in Chicago may decide to do about his second marriage.

Capt. Schultz and Sgt. Kanella Koulouvaris of Brooklyn were married in Berlin last Monday in a civil ceremony. He said he had received word that his wife Ruth, who, with their two young children, lives at 6050 Nickerson av., had been killed in an automobile accident.

"I desire more than anything else in the world to clear the name of the most wonderful person I have had the pleasure to meet—Kay," Capt. Schultz said yesterday.

In Chicago, Mrs. Ruth Schultz said the captain had been under mental strain and she thought the affair could be straightened out if he could get home.

HITLER MAY BE ALIVE, RUSSIAN GENERAL ADMITS

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, July 30—"We do not exclude the possibility that Hitler is alive," said Gen. Alexander Gorbatov, commanding the Red army's zone of Berlin and acting commandant of the entire city, in the first press conference the Russians accorded newspaper men this afternoon.

Gorbatov continued: "If Hitler is alive he is certainly not hiding in the Russian sector of the city." He said the Red army is carrying on an investigation to determine whether the fuehrer was killed or had escaped.

"Certain nazi supporters seek to prove Hitler is dead so that we will abandon our search," Gorbatov added. "Other Nazis are carrying on a whispering campaign that Hitler is alive to sustain the hopes of Germans that he will eventually emerge to lead them again."

Gorbatov added: "I cannot understand all this interest concerning Hitler's fate."

Officers Amazed

Thus the Red army, which captured Berlin on May 3 and which occupied the capital alone without permitting allied visits for two months until the Americans and British arrived July 2, dismissed the question paramount in millions of minds—what became of Hitler?

American, British, and French officers I interviewed profess amazement that the Russians obviously consider Hitler a closed incident and that, altho they alone can supply the details of his probable end, they choose to shroud it in obscurity and even inject controversial opinions, like Marshal Zhukov's statement he believed Hitler dead and Gorbatov's assertion today.

"Mystery makes martyrs," said a lieutenant colonel of a combat American division here. "The surest way to create a Hitler legend and preserve his memory as a possible future savior of Germany is to continue this inexplicable policy of not clearing up his whereabouts by the most searching probe and publication of the complete findings of the investigation."

Chauffeur's Testimony

The only conclusive evidence produced thus far is the testimony of Hitler's chauffeur, obtained by an American reporter, that he carried the body of Hitler's sweetheart, Eva Braun, from a concrete bunker up to the chancellery gardens where he placed it beside Hitler's corpse, which he recognized. He said he saw elite guard troopers pour kerosene on the bodies and set them afire.

Then there was the evidence from Kaete Haeusermann, assistant to Dr. Hugo Blaschke, the fuehrer's dentist, that the Russians showed her plates and bridges and crowns which she recognized were made for Hitler.

But the Russians never stated whether the jawbone and teeth were found or whether a body was discovered with this debris. Instead, the Red army seized Kaete and she has not been heard from since.

A Russian major, who commanded troops storming the Wilhelmstrasse stronghold, said he saw the charred body of a man near the fuehrer's personal bunker in the chancellery courtyard but asserted the corpse was not Hitler's and he did not see Eva Braun's remains.

SON OF AMERY COMMITTED FOR TREASON TRIAL

LONDON, July 30 (AP)—John E. Amery, 33, was committed for trial on charges of high treason today after the Bow st. court heard testimony that he tried to persuade British prisoners of war and civilian internees in France to fight for Hitler against Russia. Amery is a son of Leopold S. Amery, the former British secretary of state for India.

John E. Amery.

Wilfred Brinkman, who had been employed at the American consulate at Nice, France, testified that while he was interned at St. Denis, France, he saw Amery trying to enlist recruits in the Legion of St. George. He and Royston Wood, another internee, testified Amery offered them freedom if they would agree to don German uniforms and fight the Russians.

Brinkman said Amery told him he was acting on behalf of a committee in England, whose names he could not divulge.

Jap Flyers Down the Beer Awaited by Thirsty Yanks

OKINAWA, July 30 (AP)—A Japanese torpedo plane penetrated an ack-ack screen and blasted a freighter with one hold full of beer for thirsty Okinawa Yanks. The beer was destroyed, the ship saved.

AMERICAN NEWS CONVOY ENTERS RUINED VIENNA

VIENNA, July 30 (AP)—An American press convoy entered Vienna today and found the historic city scarred by smoke-blackened ruins and its people, traditionally carefree, still smiling but begging, "Will you feed us?"

The 40 vehicle group of American and other correspondents moved into the American zone in northwestern Vienna after a four hour ride from Enns, 80 miles to the west. It formed the vanguard of a United States occupation force of about 5,000 troops.

The "inner city" where some of the heaviest fighting took place before Vienna fell to the Russians shared the heaviest scars with working class districts adjacent to factories, rail yards and oil refineries where allied bombs were aimed.

Opera House Ruined

The Bristol hotel, known to thousands of American tourists before the war, was badly damaged and buildings in the Kaertner strasse shopping district near the cathedral were gutted and in ruins.

The opera house is a ruined shell, its entrances boarded up.

Out of the business and industrial sections the damage apparently lessens and life seems almost normal in the larger residential sections except that some of the larger homes display signs, "This home confiscated for use by the soviet army."

Residents' first queries to American correspondents were "will you feed?" or "when will you bring food?"

The ceremonial entry of American troops who will take part in Vienna's joint occupation with the Russians, British, and French was not expected until the arrival of Gen. Clark, heading American occupation forces in Austria.

Reds Salute Vehicles

The Russian offensive that overran the Vienna area had left its mark along the road leading thru Russian occupied territory to Vienna in the twisted hulks of German trucks, staff cars and tanks.

The press convoy was met at Vienna's outskirts by Brig. Gen. Thomas E. Lewis of San Antonio, Tex., a member of the American governing body.

"We have gotten along very well thus far with the Russians," Lewis said. "Their methods take longer than ours, but their results are satisfactory."

Lewis estimated about 1,300,000 persons were living in the Austrian capital and about 275,000 of these reside in the American designated zone.

28TH DIVISION'S MAIN UNITS QUIT FRANCE TODAY

PARIS, July 30 (AP)—With advance units of the 28th infantry division on the sea today, the main body of the division was expected to sail from Le Havre for the United States tomorrow.

Other United States units reported for redeployment:

Ninth army headquarters and 13th and 20th armored divisions, on the sea; 45th infantry, advance units sailed from Le Havre on July 27, with the main body in the Reims assembly area; 30th infantry, advance units sailed from Le Havre on July 22 and the main body of the division is now in port awaiting August shipment; 35th infantry, advance units sailed on July 21, the main body is in the Reims assembly area; 15th air borne, advance units are in the Le Havre staging area, with the main body at Reims.

ALLIES PLACE BERLIN SECTOR UNDER FRENCH

BERLIN, July 30 (AP)—The allied control council for Germany, at an historic first meeting here today, disclosed that a sector of Berlin had been allocated to French control. A bulletin did not define the sector's boundaries, but Russian Col. Gen. Alexander Gorbatov said it would be carved from the British and American zones.

Gen. Eisenhower presided at the session, which was attended by Field Marshal Montgomery of Britain, Marshal Zhukov of Russia, and Lt. Gen. Pierre Koenig of France.

The council agreed to hold meetings on the 10th, 20th, and 30th of each month and at any other time upon the request of any member. It also agreed that the chairmanship should "rotate every calendar month in the following alphabetical order by countries starting with the month of August—Eisenhower, Montgomery, Koenig, and Zhukov."

HOW AMERICAN BIG GUNS BEAT GERMANS DOWN

Too Good, Too Fast, Too Many, Writer Says

[Seymour Korman, Chicago Tribune correspondent who has just returned from Germany, France, and Italy, tells in this article of the amazing performance of American artillery in the campaign thru southern France and Bavaria.]

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN

The performance and quantity of American artillery in Africa, Sicily, and Italy, and in the 7th army's campaign from southern France thru Bavaria, never failed to amaze the Germans. The accuracy of our big guns and the speed with which they could be massed against an objective often turned the tide of battle for us and eased the chore of the infantry.

The artillery pieces we used most in the four campaigns were the 155 mm. rifle [Long Tom], the 155 mm. howitzer, and the 105 mm. howitzer. We also employed the 4.5 inch rifle in Italy, and from about midway in that show, and thruout southern and eastern France and southern Germany we had the eight inch rifle and the 240 mm. howitzer.

The 90 mm. anti-aircraft gun was occasionally depressed for ground fire, and in mountain fighting the 75 mm. pack howitzer was used at times.

Nazis Never Had Enough

The Germans placed their chief reliance on the 88 mm. gun, a triple purpose weapon, as artillery, as a tank or self-propelled mounting, and for defense against planes.

The Nazi also used 150, 170, and 280 mm. weapons, but he never had enough of these larger guns. He wasn't able to move them around with any facility, and the 280, particularly, was not very accurate.

Four of the most sensational concentrations of American artillery which I viewed were on the night of May 11, 1944, when the 5th army jumped off on the drive that led to Rome; in the last days of August, 1944, when the German 19th army, fleeing up from southern France, was smashed in the Rhone valley near Montelimar; in the early morning of last March 15, when the 7th army began its drive thru the Siegfried line into the Saar, and in the third week of last April, when almost 500 guns were turned on Nuernberg, Germany.

2,000 Guns in Italy Show

The big offensive that opened on May 11, 1944, in Italy was ushered in by 2,000 pieces of artillery cutting loose from a line from Cassino westward to the Tyrrhenian sea. The time on target system was used. The range and flight of all shells were taken into account. The more remote pieces fired first, then the guns nearer the target. The shells arrived in a devastating mass on the target at the same time.

Some British guns were in the show but most were American. A French officer who listened to the din had one word for it, "magnifique."

The German 19th army deployed in southern France when the Yanks landed on the Riviera beaches on Aug. 15, 1944, included the crack 11th panzer [armored] division, the 198th and 338th infantry divisions, and numerous other infantry and tank elements. Retreating northward from Marseille and Toulon, the 19th hoped to cut over to the Belfort gap and temporary safety. Its way led up the great national road from Marseilles to Lyon.

Guns Smash an Army

At Montelimar, 75 miles below Lyon and just above Montelimar, the full vengeance of American artillery smote down on the Germans.

All the bridges over the Rhone river, just west of the road, had been cut. All the 7th army artillery available was rushed to the hills east of the road. Nine battalions of artillery, 108 guns, were zeroed in.

Our infantry and fighter-bombers harassed the German columns, too, but it was mostly an artillery show, and when it was over there was no more German 19th army. The road from Montelimar was the road of death.

Part of the 11th Panzer, perhaps as much as 50 per cent, got out of the trap, but the price paid was the remainder of that division and all of the 198th and 338th divisions and the other units.

Roads Choked by Debris

The road was so clogged with bodies and wrecked materiel that bulldozers had to be employed to shove some of the obstacles into the fields before American tanks, jeeps, and infantry men could proceed. There was hardly a hole in the road itself; the Germans and their vehicles had been jammed together so that nearly every shell which cracked in had found a target above the macadam.

There was no artillery preparation for the jumpoff into the Siegfried line and the Saar at 1 a. m. last March 15. The 7th army commanders had decided to wait for the German guns to disclose their positions.

The Nazi cannoneers opened up as soon as they realized our infantry was coming. Their gun flashes then brought down on the Germans a long and fierce concentration of counter battery fire. Our big superiority in guns and howitzers forced a slackening of the German shelling and softened the Siegfried line emplacements. We used some 70 artillery battalions, 840 guns, in that show.

Nuernberg 90% Destroyed

Nuernberg was the last big town in southern Germany for which the Germans put up a determined fight. The American 3d infantry division attacked from the north and the 45th infantry division from the southeast. Normally an American infantry division has four battalions of artillery [48 guns], but this time the 3d was "beefed up" to 21 battalions and the 45th to 20, a total of 492 guns.

Nuernberg had been pounded from the air for several years, but the artillery gave it the final heavy going over. The infantry had to fight five days around and in Nuernberg before the fanatical German resistance ended, but the foot soldiers would have had to fight much longer if they hadn't been supported by so many accurate guns. Nuernberg was more than 90 per cent destroyed.

It was in Africa that we first heard high German officers taken prisoner ask in astonishment, "Where do you get your automatic big guns?" We heard that query, a perfect tribute to our artillery, many more times in Sicily, Italy, France, and Germany.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Charles Hollenback, 737 Madison st.]

THE QUESTION

What interesting experience have you had as a bridge tender?

WHERE ASKED

Chicago river bridges.

THE ANSWERS

Michael McAuliffe, 7752 Laflin st.—Around 3 o'clock one afternoon I saw a well dressed man jump over the railing into the river. I dashed out and threw him a life preserver. He was swimming around in the river looking for something to hang onto because the cold water startled him into changing his mind.

Frank Mangan, 4310 Van Buren st.—A car ferry was going thru the river. In the process of raising the bridge, the bridgehouse foundation tumbled into the river, tossing bridge tender and all into the water. It was my station, but I wasn't on duty when it happened. The other bridge tender lived thru the ordeal.

Joe Bornhofen, 7938 Justine st.—Pedestrians who cross this bridge are the amusing part of this occupation. When I ring the bell to stop, they duck under the gate just before it goes down and run to the other side of the bridge. Then when they get there they stand and wait for the boat to go thru.

John Marston, 4710 Kenmore av.—One of the first and most important duties of a bridge tender is to stop traffic. Often pedestrians will walk to the middle of the bridge and stand there deliberately. They are usually out-of-towners who think it's a swinging bridge and they want to stand on it while it turns around.

Ed Bailey, 7713 East End av.—One cold night a wild duck settled on the river to sleep. During the night the water froze and trapped the duck on the river. It attracted quite a bit of sympathy from passers-by and so many of them told us about it that we had to get an ax and chop the bird out of the ice.

Sam Marsala, 927 Sedgwick st.—I think every bridge tender has this fear when new on the job. The bridge is such a tremendous thing and comes down so fast that you're sure the small brake won't hold it. The first time I put the bridge down, I doubtfully pulled the small hand brake. What a relief! It worked.

BIG 3 PARLEY LAGGING; EXPECT MEETING TODAY

POTSDAM, Germany, July 30 (AP)—The Big Three has not held a business meeting since Saturday night, it was learned tonight.

Censorship would not permit speculation on the reason for the failure of the Big Three to get together today, but it was said that the lack of a meeting would occasion no serious delay in bringing the conference to a conclusion.

See Meeting Today

The conference has proceeded since Saturday on the foreign secretary level, and a session was held today but it was not a topflight meeting of the Big Three.

The belief prevailed tonight, however, that President Truman, Premier Stalin, and Prime Minister Attlee would meet again tomorrow to continue work toward their final agreements.

There was no official word as to how much time would be necessary to bring the meetings to a close, altho the goal now probably is midweek or shortly thereafter.

Plans Report to People

The President reportedly is anxious to wind up the conference as soon as possible and return home for a report to the people of the United States on the terms of agreements affecting the future of Europe.

Mr. Truman still is the most active member of his delegation.

Attlee is carrying on the double duties of directing British efforts here and completing plans to present to a new parliament Labor's initial domestic program.

LAVAL UNABLE TO QUIT SPAIN AS PLANE FAILS

BARCELONA, Spain, July 30 (AP)—Pierre Laval said a "regretful" farewell to Spain today, but after his plane had taxied twice around the field it had to return because of engine trouble, and the former Vichy premier's party was left waiting nervously tonight for repairs to be made. Attaches said it was unlikely the flight could be made before tomorrow morning.

Spain had ordered Laval to leave the country today in the same swastika decorated Junkers plane which brought him here from Bolzano, Italy, 89 days ago. The order called for the plane to return to its point of departure, but officials agreed that once in the air Laval and his two German pilots were masters of their own destination and might go anywhere.

There was speculation that the plane might go direct to Paris for Laval's inevitable trial, or to some airport in territory occupied by American troops, or possibly to another neutral country such as Eire, Portugal, or Switzerland.

[The Paris radio said today that Laval and Jacques Gerard, his secretary, had been summoned by formal decree to appear before France's court of justice within 10 days or be judged in absentia.]

SEEK TO AVOID SENATE O.K. ON CHARTER ENVOY

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—Sen. Connally [D., Tex.] said today he is asking the state department to determine whether the American delegate to the world security council can be appointed without further congressional action.

An appointment of this kind would short circuit any early attempts by critics of the allied nations charter to place specific congressional curbs on the delegate's authority. Some senators have indicated they would seek to limit his power to vote for the use of American troops in policing the peace.

Some senators have said the President ought to be limited to authority to vote for the use of troops for "protective" purposes short of full scale warfare. They want to reserve congress' right to declare war.

Japs Routed in Borneo, Says Aussie Commander

San Francisco, Cal., July 30 (AP)—The Japanese "have been routed with great losses" from the Balikpapan area of Borneo, Maj. Gen. E. J. Milford, commander of the Australian 7th infantry division, announced today in a message of thanks to his troops. Milford ordered a two day rest for each man as soon as practical, said the Melbourne radio.

Clawed by Bear

Anthony Rauch, 59, of 1677 Olive av., a keeper in the Lincoln park zoo, was bitten and clawed severely yesterday by a 500 pound, female black Tibetan bear when he entered the animal's cage to clean it. His arms were mangled. He has been a bear keeper 13 years.

Park Policeman Jack Lanning shot the bear to death while Paul Dittambi and Walter Glade, keepers, were distracting it by playing two streams of water on it.

Rauch was treated in Columbus hospital and then was taken to Passavant hospital, where he was placed under the care of Dr. Sumner Koch, prominent skin and bone surgeon. It was necessary to amputate his right arm above the elbow. He also may lose the other, attendants said.

PALESTINE ISSUE PUTS NEW LABOR REGIME ON SPOT

Zionist Parley Will Make Demands

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 30—Britain's new Labor government today came face to face with one of the thorniest problems it will have to solve as both Arabs and Jews demanded support for their opposite views on Palestine.

The Jews, with the world Zionist conference opening Wednesday, declared the only solution was the constitution of Palestine as a Jewish state while an Arab spokesman in London warned that the formation of such a state could be carried out only by force.

Altho Prime Minister Attlee has appointed only a few key members in his government, Arabs and Jews already are demanding action on the problem which the British government has been kicking around since the last war.

States Arab View

Edward Atiyah, secretary general of the Arab office in London, announced today he had sent a statement to the colonial and foreign offices declaring Palestine has been a wholly Arab country for 13 centuries and demanding that its Arab population should not be reduced to a minority in an alien state imposed by force. The statement asserted the Arab peasantry should be protected against dispossession and requested legislation to prevent Jews from buying Arab land.

The statement said the Arabs will accept 600,000 Jews already in Palestine, but declared they are unwilling to give up their position as rightful owners of the country.

Atiyah warned that the Arabs would strongly resist any attempt to increase the numbers of Jews in Palestine.

Jewish Viewpoint

Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Zionist organization in America, said after visiting Germany that the "plight of Jews in Germany makes delay of their admission to Palestine seem inhuman."

Jewish refugees, he said, don't want to return to Germany and those there don't want to remain.

Goldstein said 100,000 Jews still remain in Germany, half of whom are in the American zone, 35 per cent in the British, and the remainder in the Russian zone.

ALGERIA SWINGS TOWARD LEFT; WOMEN BALLOT

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, July 30—Northern Africa today gave the first signs of response to the British election which swept the Labor party into power with an overwhelming majority.

In Algeria, France's oldest colony across the Mediterranean, municipal elections, corresponding to those recently held in France, were conducted yesterday, three days after the announcement of the British vote. Women voted for the first time. Incomplete returns, received tonight by the French ministry of the interior, show a strong swing to the extreme left.

Thruout the country the left wing resistance organization France Combattante won a decisive majority. Among the chief towns, Oran, Constantine, Gulema, and Bone elected left wing candidates. In Algiers, three Socialists and three moderates were elected.

First Vote in Year

The Algerian elections were the first in a year. They concerned only the choosing of municipal councils but were significant. The municipal elections in France last April, to which they correspond, also went overwhelmingly left.

The voters, native and European, of Algeria, which has a population of about 8,000,000 of whom 1,000,000 are European settlers, seem to have routed the Radical Socialist party, which formerly had the upper hand. They have returned Socialists and Communists, who are more or less in close association, not only in France proper but also in the French north African holdings.

The French rule in Algeria, which France conquered in 1830, has been somewhat complex and adapted to the mixed population of Europeans, Arabs, Moslems, and Jews. There has never been universal suffrage.

Franchise to Moslems

The governor general is assisted by a council of 10 members, on which sit two Moslems, and also by a financial commission of 36 members. The commission's function is to give advice and counsel on budgetary matters.

On March 7, 1944, an ordinance was adopted in the Algerian council granting the franchise to certain categories of Moslems. Moslems of distinction over 21, those who had served with distinction in the French army, those who had been educated in France and had French culture, and those who were serving in the French civil service offices, were granted the franchise as citizens on an equal basis with the Europeans.

This ordinance allowed about 70,000 Moslems out of 7 millions to vote in yesterday's municipal elections. Actually, it is estimated that about 35,000 may have taken advantage of the privilege.

The electorate of French citizens totals about 425,000, by contrast, out of a total French and European population—including the Jews, to whom citizenship was extended under the revived Cremieux laws—of around 1 million.

The Algerian elections were ordered only three weeks ago, following a visit which French Minister of the Interior Robert Tanguy Prigent made to Algeria.

ACCUSED IN U. S. FLYERS' DEATHS, TRIES SUICIDE

DAMSTADT, Germany, July 30 [Reuters]—The second suicide attempt among 11 German civilians on trial here for the murder of six American airmen took place last night when Friedrich Wuest tried to hang himself in his prison cell.

He was cut down by the prison guard and appeared in court today where he admitted taking part in beating the airmen to death at the village of Russelsheim last Aug. 26.

Evidence was completed today and it is expected that the verdict of the United States military commission will be given tomorrow.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

July 31—Lafayette Joins Our Army

On July 31, 1777, congress responded to Lafayette's offer to serve in the Continental army as a simple volunteer by passing a resolution making him a major general.

Lafayette was not yet 20. Heir to one of the proud names and great fortunes of France, he had become inflamed with enthusiasm when he heard of the American colonies' Declaration of Independence. He defied his king and his potent relatives in order to come to the aid of the colonies. He had outfitted a ship, surrounded himself with a few kindred spirits, and secretly set sail from an obscure port in Spain.

Upon his arrival at Georgetown, S. C., April 24, 1777, he created a sensation by his proof that America had powerful friends abroad and that her struggle to throw off the British yoke was being watched with sympathy and interest by freedom loving men everywhere.

The young Frenchman was warmly received by Washington and in September he took part in the battle of Brandywine, acquitting himself with the greatest honor, and receiving a wound in the leg from an enemy musket ball.

The next Dec. 1 congress passed another resolution that said: "It is highly agreeable to congress that Lafayette be appointed to the command of a division in the Continental army." The command was bestowed. Later Lafayette took part in the battles of Monmouth and Yorktown.

Soon after the successful conclusion of the American Revolution, Lafayette went home to fight for liberty in France. He took an important part in the French Revolution. He made two subsequent trips to America. Here he was overwhelmed with honors. The infant nation had not forgotten the man who had come to her aid a year before the formal French alliance was concluded. Lafayette died in Paris in 1834 at the age of 76.

DEMANDS ICKES HALT ORDER OF COAL TO EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 30—Cancellation of government plans to ship 6 million tons of war scarce coal to Europe was demanded today by Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.]. He declared idle workers in Europe, particularly Germany, could mine enough coal to supply European needs, if they were put to work.

Sen. Bridges

The senator in a statement called upon Interior Secretary Ickes, who last week ordered the coal shipped overseas, to explain his action before a meeting of the senate war investigating committee tomorrow.

Bridges declared the proposed coal shipments are a move to "pamper" the vanquished nazis.

"For months," he said, "the administration has been warning the American people that the United States has neither coal nor transportation to supply all the nation's production needs, but now these officials have no trouble finding 6 million tons of coal for Europe."

CITY'S LEADERS PAY TRIBUTE TO COL. M'CORMICK

urer of Quebec province, Canada; Jonathan Robinson, minister of mines, Quebec province; Silas H. Strawn; Col. McCormick; Mayor Kelly; Sen. Brooks; President Snyder; Victor Olander, secretary Illinois Federation of Labor; Vice Adm. Carpender, commandant at Great Lakes; Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr., commander of the 6th service command; Gen. Charles G. Dawes; Gen. Robert E. Wood.

In contrast to the representative Chicago gathering at the birthday party, a string of unidentified picketeers moved past the hotel entrances carrying anti-Tribune signs.

DR. SNYDER'S TRIBUTE

In his tribute to Col. McCormick, Dr. Snyder spoke of the career of Col. McCormick as soldier, editor and publisher, and stalwart American.

"In this mad world, Robert R. McCormick has played a picturesque, many-sided, and honorable role. He has been and done many things; but I think of him tonight as soldier, as editor and publisher, and as a stalwart American.

"Of Col. McCormick's military record in the Illinois national guard, on the Mexican border, and in Europe with the American expeditionary force, I must let others speak who are better qualified than I as military experts. I content myself with reading to you the official citation which accompanied the award of the distinguished service medal: 'He displayed rare leadership and organizing ability, unusual executive ability, and sound technical judgment. By his ceaseless energy and his close supervision of training, discipline, and command in action against the enemy, he contributed materially to the successful operation of the artillery of the American expeditionary forces.'

"Gen. Pershing and his associates did not say such things about their officers unless they were deserved.

As Editor and Publisher

"It will be a long time before any adequate account can be written of Col. McCormick's work as editor and publisher. We are too close to him and to the great newspaper which he has built to see anything in sure perspective. The clash of opinions engendered by THE TRIBUNE is too violent to permit an unprejudiced s u m m a r y. And when the story is finally told some one like Gilbert Chesterton, with his genius for expressing truth in pertinent paradox, must be the one to tell it. For whatever I may say about this newspaper some one else may contradict; what I say today I may question tomorrow. In academic parlance, some people mark it 'A,' some mark it 'F.' But be very sure that no one ever gives it that milk and water grade of 'C.'

Tribune a Phenomenon

"What a phenomenon it is, this thing we call THE TRIB! Technically and professionally progressive, but in some respects curiously reactionary; unusually well written; indisputably right in many of its judgments, but as certainly wrong in others; undertaking to guide the thinking of this great middle west, but occasionally unable to understand the very people whom it tries to influence; as modern as radar and the electron microscope; a magnificent organization; a great vehicle of news, liable at any time to drive down the wrong side of the road and—to change the metaphor—to bet on the wrong horse.

"There is nothing like it in the United States, nor, for that matter, in the world. In the face of keen competition it has grown steadily since Col. McCormick became its president in 1911, till today it has the largest circulation of any full size newspaper in America. I know no one but the colonel who could have built such a journal; certainly no one but he has ever done so.

The Stalwart American

"Soldier, editor and publisher, and third, a stalwart American, whose faith in this land of ours is founded on knowledge of our past and an unflinching belief in our future.

"As an American, the colonel has participated vigorously in the practical business of government. As alderman of the old 21st ward he did his work with efficiency; as president of the sanitary district he set entirely new standards for his successors to live up to—if they could. And as a public spirited citizen he has contributed generously of his time and of his money to the great causes of education and of medicine, and to many philanthropies.

Believer in Freedom

"As an American the colonel has persistently emphasized the fact that freedom under the law is the basis of our American way of life and that whatever restricts this freedom should be scrutinized with care. And how many freedoms there are that we think it our birthright to enjoy! Freedom of the press, for which THE TRIBUNE has fought so valiantly; freedom of speech—which means freedom to speak wisely if we can and stupidly if we must; freedom of religion, of assembly, freedom to succeed in business and industry, with its corollary, freedom to fail; freedom to mind one's own business and to let other people mind theirs—these are some of the freedoms which we as Americans ought to enjoy. A belief in freedom, in what Jefferson called 'the illimitable freedom of the human mind,' I take to be one of the cornerstones of Col. McCormick's Americanism, and of yours, and of mine.

"I have no fears because in time of war we Americans always surrender some of our liberties, provided we recover them when the peril has passed.

Bulwark of Constitutionalism

"Next to this devotion to freedom, as an element in Col. McCormick's Americanism, I place his belief in government by constitution rather than by decree or by force. When I say constitution I mean the Constitution of the United States, which each of us who has ever taken an oath of allegiance has sworn to preserve, protect, and defend. For persistently and effectively emphasizing the importance of this 'bible of republicanism,' as an English editor once called it, we are grateful to our guest. Had his 65 years been devoted to nothing but this, they would have been well spent."

America to Meet Challenge

Concluding his address, Dr. Snyder expressed his advice for the future. He said the world has crossed the international date line, and that the United States will have a foremost role to play. Then he added:

"We will go to the council board of the united nations strong in our own might, armed on land and sea and in the air. We will maintain inviolate our own control over our sovereignty. But we will join other freedom loving nations in one more attempt to make 'government by constitution instead of by decree or by force' the international as well as the national practice. This we will do not because of any friendship for England or France or China or Russia, but solely because we are devoted to the best interests of the United States.

"In meeting this challenge of tomorrow we dare not fail. For if we fail, and warfare again throws its bloody mantle around the world, the very forces that we have summoned to our aid in this war will destroy us, the molds and fungus will take control, and evolution will begin again its long, long process.

"So, Col. McCormick, we congratulate you on the notable accomplishments of the first 65 years. We wish you health and increasing happiness for many years to come. And we are confident that in the tomorrow which is already here, you and your great newspaper will lead us all into the sunlight of a new day."

HONORED BY SEN. BROOKS

Sen. Brooks, in appraising the life work and contribution of Col. McCormick to the nation, said no man in America has done more to protect the courts and to preserve freedom of the press, constitutional government, the American way of life, and the rights of the common man.

"I am both happy and proud to be one of the many who assemble and pay honor and tribute to the life works and contribution to America of Col. Robert R. McCormick on this 65th anniversary of his birth," Sen Brooks said.

"The desperate plight of the entire world stands out in bold contrast with our beloved America. Everywhere today there is more hate, despair, destruction, and death than ever before in all recorded history of mankind. This is the result of arrogant despots and dictators who bribed, threatened, or dominated the press of their own country as they laid their evil plans.

Attacks of Mighty Withstood

"No man despises deceit and corruption in public life more than Col. McCormick, whether it be in the humbiest public office in a local community or in the highest office of our nation. No man has gone to greater extent to unearth and expose it, and drive it out. In doing so, he has incurred the wrath of the mighty and withstood the bitter attacks and intrigue of the mighty as they attempted by fair means or foul to silence him.

"No man in America has done more to champion and protect the independence of our courts.

"No man has done more to defend and preserve the freedom of the press.

Champion of Common Man

"No man has championed with greater vigor the liberties and rights of the common man.

"Wherever he believed the rights of the free man were being undermined or encroached upon, he has used without restraint his voice, his energy, and his resources to defend them.

"By his militance and vigilance, he has defended the independence of America, the American constitutional representatives form of government, the American way of life, and has truly helped to make and keep America a better place in which to live. Some people may honestly differ and disagree with him, but none has challenged his integrity or questioned his intense patriotism, while millions regard him with genuine appreciation as a truly great patriot."

SALUTE BY GOV. GREEN

The traditional battles and achievements of Col. McCormick and THE TRIBUNE for the midwest, heart of the continent, were taken as his theme by Gov. Green, who said he wanted to bear witness to the colonel's "constructive service as champion of the middle west.

"It is an honor and a privilege for me to join in this birthday tribute to my friend, Col. McCormick, the editor and publisher of the world's greatest newspaper and one of America's outstanding patriots," Gov. Green said.

"I am sincerely pleased to pay him this tribute, despite the fact that, like many another public official, I may occasionally encounter an editorial spanking for some action of mine which has not been in harmony with the views of our distinguished guest of honor.

Champion of Middle West

"In the crowded life of Col. McCormick there are a myriad of accomplishments which may well be discussed tonight, but as the governor of Illinois and as a native of Indiana I want to bear brief witness to his constructive service as the champion of the middle west.

"American life has been enriched because of the sectional pride of the Yankees of New England, the folks who sing Dixie, and even the native sons of Texas and California. We midwesterners too often ignore our own heritage.

"We are indebted to Col. McCormick for reminding us repeatedly that the Revolutionary war conquest of the Illinois country by George Rogers Clark assured our infant republic's expansion to the Pacific; that the ordinance for the Northwest territory, that charter of liberty for the Mississippi valley, paved the way for the triumph of freedom under Abraham Lincoln; and that in the test of every national emergency, including the present world war, the blood and the heroism of the middle west has contributed far more than its share to victory and progress.

"Thru the years THE TRIBUNE and Col. McCormick have battled militantly for specific measures to advance middle western prosperity. Back in 1930, THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE proclaimed its platform for the middle west: [1] Finish the waterway to the gulf; [2] encourage regrowth of our forests; [3] secure western control of western railroads; [4] build highways to meet the need of traffic. Later there were added such planks as: Revive the coal industry; free the farmers from the farm board; come to the World's fair; build elevated roads into Chicago; and create a middle west association.

"Even before those days, the Tribune leadership had helped win the battle against 'Pittsburgh plus,' which freed middle western industry from the unfair practice that fixed the price of steel produced in the Chicago area at the price of steel produced in Pittsburgh, plus rail transportation from that point. Recent developments have given new stimulus to the expanded use of the Mississippi waterway, to which our guest of honor has given steadfast and unselfish devotion.

Advocate of Aviation Progress

"And today, with progress in aviation linking this inland empire directly to all the countries of the world, Col. McCormick and THE TRIBUNE are in the forefront of our battle to make Chicago the aviation capital of the world and the mightiest city of America.

"One of the colonel's greatest public services has been his contribution to a better understanding between rural and urban elements of our midwest population. He has campaigned consistently for a system of highways to reach at the one end the very gate of the farmer's home; and at the other, thru modern, safe, elevated roads, this market capital of Chicagoland. In the political life of Illinois, which depends so much on the coöperation of rural downstate and metropolitan Chicago, THE TRIBUNE has been a vital force for progress and understanding, because on its record of service it has enjoyed the confidence of farmer and city dweller alike.

Tribute to Editor

"I should like to pay tribute to the journalistic achievements of Col. McCormick. I appreciate fully his patriotic service to his country as an officer in World War I., and since then as a citizen and editor. I honor him for his personal participation in politics, including the holding of public office and active leadership in public affairs. But I submit that none of his work has been more important than that which has won for him the title bestowed by eastern critics, but which I am sure he will proudly accept: 'The Thunderer of the Prairies.'

"Therefore, I think I speak for all the people of Illinois, Col. McCormick, when I congratulate you on another milestone in your career as editor and publisher, as a citizen, and as an all around fighting man, and express our hope to see you in action for many years to come—forceful and dynamic action for our city, our state, and our beloved country."

PRAISE FROM MAYOR

Mayor Kelly said in part:

"I have a picture in my library of the guest of honor when he was 25 years old. That is when I first met Col. McCormick. We have never been very far apart from one another in these 40 years, except on some occasions when the colonel did not agree with my politics. I don't think I made any effort to get him to agree with me, and I will say that the colonel never made any effort to get me to agree with his way of thinking.

"The people of Chicago may be proud of what the colonel has done for the city and the nation, things which have been very beneficial to the city and to this country, not only during the war, but between the wars.

100 Per Cent for Chicago

"I do know, in all that he has done, he has just been 100 per cent for Chicago.

"His earnest desire has been to develop this great city.

"I can remember my first meeting with the colonel, when he was a candidate for sanitary trustee or president of the sanitary district, and I was foolish enough to be a candidate for the sanitary district on the other ticket. Of course, I was defeated and he was elected. I was working for the sanitary district and I was anticipating a yellow ticket almost any minute, but instead of that, he took me under his personal wing and I stayed with the sanitary district as long as he was president of the district.

"I remember an occasion when I was slipping into politics, sneaking in as it were, working under a Republican administration. The mayor of the city and all of the leaders wanted to have me discharged for being active in an aldermanic campaign, but instead of that, the colonel said: 'Ed, I don't think you are looking so very well. I think you should go down in the country and work on the Illinois river and get your health back, at least until after election.'

"I remember on that North Shore canal—I don't know if the colonel remembers these things or not—we had a young politician working who did not want to do his work, and I had some argument with him. At that time I was young and full of vinegar. This politician found himself at the foot of a railroad embankment, and he came down town with his political drag to get me discharged. Of course, I was a little fearful. I did not know Col. McCormick as well as I do now. So he called me in and I thought 'This is where I get it.' He said, 'We are going to raise your salary, young man. We are glad we have someone around who has guts enough to hit a politician a punch in the nose.'

Accorded Credit for Museum

"I worked with the colonel as long as he was president of the sanitary district, and after that occasionally met him. But I do know tonight that the city, except for the colonel, would not have the Rosenwald museum, for nobody else had courage enough to think of spending $5,000,000 to rebuild the building.

"He asked me to come over and see him when I was the head of the South park board. He said he would use his influence with the public, which he did, to get the museum rebuilt, and that is the reason the building is there today.

"There has never been a time when the mayor of Chicago, at least in the last 12 years, has gone to the Colonel on something which was for the good of Chicago, that he did not get the Colonel's help.

Proud of Friendship

"I have made THE TRIBUNE on several occasions, even in the form of cartoons, in the last campaign, when I was on one side of the fence and he was on the other side, for which he has no apologies and I know I have no apologies to make. But I am proud of your friendship, Colonel. I have considered you a friend.

"I think that the colonel has been honest in all of his thoughts and acts. None of us has agreed with everything he has said; he has said himself he liked me very well, except that I was just a damned Democrat who couldn't see the light of day.

"This is the first time that I can remember that the colonel has ever countenanced anything in his honor. He has never been a man who had any desire for public clamor; never looked for any publicity or notoriety that would tend to build him up in his own estimation or in the estimation of the pople. He has always had an independent mind, a fair and honest mind, always acting according to his own heart and his own conscience.

"Col McCormick is a great American. He is not only a great American, but he is a great friend. He has courage to stand by his friends regardless of the consequences. I know that because I have had him do that with me.

"There are many men who should be here who are not here tonight—men who owe much to Col. McCormick. On the other hand, I am glad to see gathered a sort of real cross-section of our citizenry, people in all walks of life, the leading business men of this city, not only the leading business men, but the leading officers of the armed services, men who have the respect not only of this community but of the entire United States."

NOTE—From time to time, in this paper there will appear an article which we hope will be of interest to our fellow Americans. This is number one hundred of a series.

SCHENLEY DISTILLERS CORP., NEW YORK

"O Folly, O Madness!"

A once famous theologian, St. John Chrysostom, patriarch of Constantinople, has been getting considerable publicity in these late days. The learned patriarch lived in the fourth century A.D. (347?–407) and that's a long time ago. The world has seen many changes since the fourth century but apparently human nature is quite the same today as it was then.

About a year and a half ago we had a little piece in this Schenley column about the ancient philosopher, because he believed in the power of human beings to exercise restraint. Restraint was necessary then, it seems, as it is necessary today. We quoted from one of his writings, and last week we saw the very same quotation in one of our most important weekly news journals. And then we saw it again a few days later in another publication.

Here is what he said in answer to the then (as now) hue and cry on the part of reformers against "deplorable excesses":

"O folly, O madness! When men sin you find fault with the gifts of nature. Is it the wine, O man, that causes this abuse? No, it is not the wine, but the intemperance of those who find an evil delight in abusing it. If you shout, 'Would there were no wine,' you should add 'Would there were no iron, because of murderers; would there were no night, because of thieves; would there were no light, because of informers.' In this manner you might destroy everything."

We requote the above because we read an ad this morning with a big heading, "THIS SUMMER—DON'T GET BURNED TO A CRISP." It advertised a sun tan lotion and we pondered that the sage might have added to his statement—"Would there were no SUN, because of sunburn."

Oregon's Forest Fire Held Within Bounds

Portland, Ore., July 30 (AP)—An army of 3,000 fighters aided by favorable weather held northwestern Oregon's forest fire within bounds today. A patchwork of small spot fires, any of which could be whipped into a major fire with proper weather conditions, was giving the most trouble. The blaze has burned over 100,000 acres.

HOW PUBLISHER AIDED CANADA'S PEOPLE IS TOLD

Three Representatives Tell of Growth

The people of the timbered north shore of the St. Lawrence river, where THE TRIBUNE established its print paper mills two decades ago and founded three towns to give the workers modern living conditions, sent three representatives to the dinner given in the Palmer House last night to mark the 65th birthday of Col. Robert R. McCormick.

They told of the gratitude of the inhabitants, who formerly lived in what the speakers termed a wilderness and who now have the cultural advantages and the conveniences of the outside world.

The Visitors Speak

The visitors, all of whom spoke, were Msgr. N. A. Labrie, C. J. M., D. D., apostolic vicar of St. Lawrence; Onesime Gagnon, member of the Quebec provincial parliament, and Jonathan Robinson, minister of mines of the province of Quebec.

Monsignor Labrie said: "It is a great privilege and honor for me to be here tonight to express not only my personal feelings of gratitude and friendship, a deep and respectful friendship, to Col. McCormick, but also the gratitude and friendship of my priests on the north shore, among them your old friend, Gagnon, who has known you and loved you for so many years.

"And I must say also that I am grateful for the opportunity to express the gratitude and friendship of all your workers and all your friends, and all the population of the north shore [of the St. Lawrence], for I must say that all of these owe you a debt of deep gratitude. Before Col. McCormick came to the north shore, this vast country was practically unknown.

Credited for Progress

"Col. McCormick is chiefly responsible for the industrial development of all this great land. Before him, nothing had been done that could be called solid industry, but ever since Col. McCormick came on this north shore more than 25 years ago, this part of Canada has been progressing very fast, and very happily.

"Always, colonel, you have been earnest in promoting education, in giving assistance to schools, and devoted to the welfare of your workmen. I shall grant you the homage to say that our people on the north shore, thru your ability and efforts, went thru the depression without suffering.

Aided Religious Life

"As an officer of the church, I take pleasure in saying also that your work out there has not been without significance to religion. We have noted it thru all your actions, thru all your words. In all your relations with us you have deeply impressed us with the feeling that city builders ought to glorify God and our churches.

"Your doing so has been and will be an everlasting monument to your religious sense of humanity."

Mr. Gagnon said: "As you are all aware, Col. McCormick has set up large industries in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, as his excellency, Msgr. Labrie, has told you. More than 30 years ago a large stretch of the north shore of the St. Lawrence was unknown country, and now large and flourishing communities have been set up.

Praise Fraternal Spirit

"What we admire most, gentlemen, is not so much the great generosity which prompted Col. McCormick to spend lavishly to build mills, to harness waterfalls, to build churches, schools, towns, and everything. No, what we admire most is the great spirit of fraternity which exists between capital and labor, between the great captains of industry, and the most humble worker.

"A French writer has said that if he were starting his life again he would try to become a merchant of happiness. When we hear of the wonderful philanthropy performed not only in America but in Canada by Col. McCormick, we might say that he has been a great philanthropist, and we might say he has been inspired himself by those happy words of the French writer—he has set himself to be a merchant of happiness and he has succeeded."

Mr. Robinson said: "I may say that it is a great honor for me to have the privilege of being invited here tonight to this party. I want to honor that man who has shown such foresight, wisdom, and confidence in my province and my country as to create a model city out of a wilderness, and for all the benefits that that city has conferred upon my people and upon my province."

FAMED MILITARY CHIEFS, SENATOR JOIN IN TRIBUTES

Three famous military leaders were among those sending congratulatory messages to Col. McCormick. They are Gen. MacArthur, Lt. Gen. L. H. Campbell Jr., chief of ordnance, United States army, and Gen. Charles P. Summerall, who went into the first World war as a colonel, came out as a major general commanding an army corps, and became chief of staff of the United States army. Since his retirement from active service he has been commandant since 1931 of the Citadel, famous South Carolina military college.

Gen. MacArthur said:

Gen. Summerall said:

"I deeply appreciate your invitation to the dinner to Col. Robert R. McCormick July 30. If it were practicable or possible, I would happily join with you in rendering tribute to this great American. His friends do themselves honor in recognizing his distinguished services in war and in peace. I can testify to his courage, leadership, and superior ability in action against the enemy in World War I. He has remained stanch in defending the principles of our democracy in a period which has tested men and has required loyalty and devotion beyond that ordinarily found."

Lt. Gen. Campbell said:

"Col. McCormick has always been a fast friend of the army ordnance department. Time and again he has made major contributions to the army. His many utterances, thru his spoken and printed words, which have so much weight in the great Chicago industrial ordnance area, his messages and editorials in the columns of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, as well as in his regular Saturday broadcasts, have been inspiring to the cultural progress of the United States. At a critical period of the war, in 1943, Col. McCormick originated and sponsored The Chicago Tribune ordnance show. This show, in which the Chicago ordnance district coöperated, was attended by close to 400,000 people. His personal interest made it a great success, and a vital element in war morale. It is with sincere pleasure that I join with his fellow Americans in saluting him on this happy occasion, and I hope he will long be with us."

Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], sent the following wire:

"Col. McCormick is one of my old and cherished friends. Despite our occasional differences of opinion, he has always been most generous to me in our contacts. I consider him a very great American with stalwart fidelity to his convictions and relentless courage in sustaining them. I should like nothing better than to present my personal compliments upon the occasion of his 65th birthday. I wish him many more years of health, happiness, and service. I deeply regret that it is impossible for me to be present personally on this occasion."

PUT REPUBLICAN ON HIGH COURT, TRUMAN URGED

Martin Asks Return to Nonpartisanship

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 30—Declaring the New Deal has weakened public confidence in the nation's courts by "packing" them with Democratic judges, House Republican Leader Martin urged today that judiciary appointments be returned to a nonpartisan basis.

Rep. Martin

The house leader suggested in a statement that the naming of a Republican jurist to succeed retired Supreme Court Justice Roberts would be one step toward making the courts representative of the nation, and not just the Democratic party.

Four of 200 Republicans

"The political complexion of the Supreme court," he said, "shows only one Republican out of the present eight members, Chief Justice Stone. If a Democrat is named to replace Justice Roberts, the only Republican will be the chief justice, who was named an associate justice by President Coolidge back in 1925."

Martin said that out of about 200 life tenure federal judgeships handed out by the New Deal since 1933, only four original appointments have gone to Republicans.

"Clearly the courts are not representative of all the people when for 12 years a party representing over 47 per cent of the voters of the country in the last election has been almost totally deprived of representation in federal judicial appointments," he continued.

New System Overdue

Such partisanship, the G. O. P. leader said, has amounted to a New Deal "revolution" in the judiciary, which has "caused a marked lessening of public confidence" in the courts.

"The time is long overdue to reaffirm the principle of a bipartisan and impartial judicial system," he said.

Sen. White [R., Me.] promptly indorsed Martin's statement and told a reporter:

"I am entirely in sympathy with what he said. The courts should not be of partisan make-up. They should be constructed of representatives of both parties in order to maintain their fairness and impartiality."

CONGRESS HOTEL TO REOPEN AT 4 P. M. TOMORROW

The 1,000 room Congress hotel, closed for more than two years, will reopen for business tomorrow at 4 p. m., hotel executives said yesterday. No special events to mark the reopening have been planned, they said. Eight hundred rooms will be ready for occupancy. The Congress was taken over July 19, 1942, by the army air forces' technical training command. The army moved out July 1, 1943. The property has been modernized and the rooms refurnished at a cost of approximately a million dollars.

GROUND HOG HUNTER KILLED

N. Y. NOMINATES CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR TODAY

New York, July 30 [Special]—New Yorkers will go to the polls tomorrow to select candidates for November's elections. Because of the absence of major contests interest in the primary is low and a light vote is anticipated.

The major candidates of the parties are unopposed. They are William V. O'Dwyer, district attorney of Brooklyn, who is the mayoralty candidate of the Democratic party and the Communist dominated American Labor party. The Republican candidate, who also has the backing of the liberal party, is General Sessions Judge Jonah Goldstein.

What interest there is in the primary centers in Manhattan assembly districts where Edward V. Loughlin, leader of Tammany hall, is attempting to unseat four of the present members of the Tammany executive committee who have been highly critical of Loughlin's rule.

LOOP HAND CAR RACE TO OPEN RAILMEN DRIVE

More than 2,000 trains on western railroads were delayed two hours or more since July 12 because of the lack of locomotives caused by a shortage of mechanical employes, W. F. Kirk, western rails director of the office of defense transportation, said yesterday.

An effort to recruit 65,000 workers will be dramatized at 11:45 a. m. today when the army will sponsor a hand car race down State st.

THE NEW POWER OF RED RUSSIA

Twenty-one years after the death of Lenin the economic, political, and social order for which he conducted a ruthless, exterminating revolution approaches its greatest opportunities and exercises its greatest influence in world affairs. This follows in part from the territorial expansion of the soviet union by force of arms aided by the capitalist countries; in part from the dominating position attained by communist agents in unstable governments of continental Europe; in part from the advance of the semi-Marxist planned economy, and generally, from the fears and hatreds which prevail in war wrecked lands.

First, to note the territorial expansion: Lenin in 1918 and 1919 gave up land to the Germans, to save the revolution, as he said. Stalin has made the greatest territorial advance in the European history of Russia. He is deep in central Germany. He dominates Berlin, Warsaw, Bucharest, Vienna, Sofia, and Belgrade. His treatment of Poland is only one of the great scandals of the war. The persistent Russian advance is an astonishing story. In many quarters there is great objection to any mention of it. It is unfolded in a series of broken promises which have changed the map of Europe.

The agreements made in conference had set up expectations of free countries choosing their form of government by popular elections without interference. The accomplished facts are complete betrayals of good faith and if Mr. Stalin's conferees know anything to do about it they show no sign. Russia's allies who made the entry into Berlin possible have allowed communism to extend its rule far into central Europe and around this great area the soviet union runs its wall of censorship, nonintercourse, silence, and state police. Military prestige has given communist agents great influence in continental countries not yet actually penetrated, such as Belgium, Italy, and France and here in our own country it seems to have had some purifying effect on the reputation of soviet methods.

The bolshevist power is now regarded as the greatest in Europe and soon may be the greatest in Asia. Bolshevist policies and doctrines have had a bath and in many strange places are regarded as admirable if not desirable. The fact that communism imposes a discipline and a restraint of liberty about as ruthless as that of the Nazis is forgotten. No one has many optimistic ideas about the future of Europe. The expectable conditions are those in which violent changes can occur and in addition to the agitators of such change we have the advocates of the planned society who think that they can take the road to Moscow and find a fruitful half-way stopping point. The intelligent Communist recognizes the half-way man as a valuable fellow traveler.

Even the United States may have a severe test of its economic system within a few years. Altho the American has been war trained to many varieties of do and don't he is a fellow who likes his liberty. He's aware that he has been caught in a good many compulsions. He may be less aware that for many years his government has been borrowing ideas from the commissars and has been creating forms of administration which follow the dictatorial rather than the legislative method.

Many of our social philosophers, some of them rating as policy makers, say that the old days are gone forever and that the American can never be as independent as he thought he was unless he elects to be the victim of fear, want, and uncertainty. We have yet to see a government substitute itself for the system of private enterprise and work a change for the better.

The British planner, William Beveridge, plans with the hope that the British worker will do voluntarily what may require compulsion for success, that he will accept a plan which tells him what trade he should learn, where industries should be located, what industries they should be, and where he must live and work if he is to work. Mr. Beveridge concedes that there may be a cloud of doubt; in which case God save England. These doctrines contemplate the collectivist state without the Russian acknowledgment that a collectivist state works under dictatorship.

The Russians in their commanding position in Europe, extending their control over many new peoples, may be entertained by the ideas of the capitalistic states with which they have been associated to the enhancement of Russian fame and the growth of the soviet domain. The Russians today are exporting communism faster than the revolutionary comintern ever dreamed of doing. The capitalist world appeases them and retires as they advance.

BLIND TOM MAKES THE GRAND TOUR

We discover in a contemporary column of political gossip that that peerless statesman from the 6th Illinois district, Blind Tom O'Brien, is going to use his congressional vacation to make a tour of the capitals of Europe. Presumably he will travel by army bomber, with a staff sergeant [112 points but classified essential] to handle baggage, and a PRO to hustle the champagne and other cooling and restorative beverages.

For the benefit of those who came in late, Blind Tom does not have to use a white cane, except, perhaps, when entering the grand jury chambers. He won his deathless appellation when, serving as the Gilbert and Sullivan sheriff of Cook county, he got some hundreds of writs for service on the bookies of the community and reported that he was unable to find a one of them. Inasmuch as Tom himself had been clipped for his bank roll by a heister in a Wabash av. book joint only a short time before, and had recovered it only after puffing over to State st., where he found a cop sitting on the culprit, it was concluded that he had been taken down with some form of pecuniary myopia.

London is really the town for Blind Tom. He should have no difficulty finding the bookies there. They advertise in the newspapers, or they used to, at least, before paper rationing cut into advertising.

Well, his junket should solve one problem for the Statesman O'Brien. In after years, when some golden haired child climbs up on his knee and asks, "Grandpa, what did you do during the big war?" Tom will be ready for her.

"Honey," he can say, "on Aug. 7, 1945, I picked five in a row at Ascot."

OPINION TO ORDER

This country is currently living thru the greatest period of organized propaganda that history has ever seen. Newspapers, periodicals, the radio, the motion pictures, public speakers, and even the pulpit have been enlisted. Commentators who a few years ago confined themselves to lavatory gossip have suddenly taken on the airs of global statesmen. Newspapers either so spineless or so befuddled as to lack any editorial policy which they can call their own have yielded the editorial function to columnists who hire out their views at so much a day.

The vast machinery of propaganda has been assembled and employed toward the common objective of getting this country so entangled in the affairs of every other nation that we never can hope to get free. Ministers have put aside Holy Writ to preach Bretton Woods. When the united nations charter movement was getting into stride the movies opportunely came out with a film on Woodrow Wilson, depicted as a martyr to the cause of internationalism. Every woman's club in the country signed petitions for this, that, or the other scheme, even if the ladies didn't quite know for what. The din of the radio never abated. American life has become like a protracted night before election. Demands, appeals, and denunciations clutter every waking hour.

The propaganda barrage has been distinguished for one reason: It has originated with and been controled by the government at all times. The New Deal has sponsored the great fraud that there can be nothing partisan about foreign policy. It has blandly advanced this contention knowing that the policy is party policy and that the propaganda which identifies the policy with the highest altruism will redound to the benefit of the party. The Republican opposition has been so thoroly taken in that it has capitulated on every issue in advance. Few have been the voices left to speak for America.

Sen. Taft, reviewing the administration's arguments in behalf of Bretton Woods, said the other day: "These statements are partisan arguments. They are propaganda and not facts. . . . What I object to is the government using billions of dollars for a great propaganda force maintained at the expense of the taxpayers to put across a particular proposition in which the government is interested."

The senator displayed one week's output of the New Deal propaganda mill, consisting of 376 releases containing 217,000 words. He recalled that the house appropriations committee has estimated that approximately 300 million dollars was being spent on publicity agents by the administration.

"When the whole force of that propaganda is being directed toward stirring up the emotions of the American people to sell them a proposition in which the government is interested," Sen. Taft asserted, "then congress and the people are deprived of their power to govern themselves. In effect, the propaganda weapon which has been built up to kill Hitler—propaganda which is necessary in war—is brought back here and turned against the people themselves in order to make them agree to whatever the government may wish to put across."

When Sen. Wagner, one of the more subservient of the New Dealers, got up to dispute Sen. Taft's contentions the senate was given ludicrous confirmation of the very truth which Mr. Wagner was endeavoring to refute. Mr. Wagner was challenged by Sen. Wherry, who demanded to know whether the man sitting at Mr. Wagner's elbow was not a counsel for the treasury department, there to lobby on the floor of the senate for Bretton Woods.

"I should like to ask the senator," said Mr. Wherry, "whether that man did not talk to the Independent Bankers' association in Chicago, and whether he did not help write recommendations which that association approved, in favor of Bretton Woods? I resent the fact that a man paid for with the money of the taxpayers now comes here on the floor of the senate, lobbying in favor of passage by the senate of a bill providing for United States participation in the Bretton Woods agreement."

Here we have evidence that the New Dealers who are supposed to represent their constituents in congress have yielded all of the functions of independent thought to administrative propagandists, who make up their minds for them. There used to be an idea that republican government rested upon an informed public opinion. Now the public and its supposed representatives both act upon predigested views. This is government by propaganda.

MR. PEPYS REPORTS

31st July—Have returned to my nook in the office, mistakenly called the highbrow corner, after three weeks of idleness, and must report that a vacation in Chicago can be a success when the weather behaves, which it did. Found no reason to complain about the heat except on one day, which ended with a thunderstorm that seemed to be aimed straight at my ivory tower.

Observed that Chicago has two kinds of summer climate: airport, or official, way out on the southwestern prairie, and coastal, or within two miles of the lake, where a large part of the population lives and works. Found the coastal climate, which is my favorite kind, generally five degrees cooler than airport recordings at any time. Thus the weatherman is often hot under the collar when the average Chicagoan never thinks of yanking off his necktie.

When asked about my unnecessary travels, am telling people I managed to get as far west as California, but I mean the avenue, not the state. Did a lot of exploring at Wrigley field, and heard the Cubs making such sweet music with base hits that I felt no yearning for the bassoons of Ravinia. Observed a sign under the grandstand that read "Venders' Room," which worried me until I looked in the dictionary and found this spelling declared O. K. when you are thinking of small stuff such as peanuts. But if Mr. Wrigley wanted to sell Peanuts Lowrey, he would be a vendor.

Thank you, Mr. Avery for keeping the pot boiling during my absence and for causing my mailman to say, "You seem to be getting a lot of mail from THE TRIBUNE." Did you print any contributions that ought to make the next Linebook? Well, let's see.

WHY A RIVER?

One reason for a river

Among my old theater programs is an item from the Masonic Temple Roof garden, dated Sept. 6, 1903, which bills among other performers "Little Elsie, the American Cissy Loftus." It marks the first Chicago appearance of Elsie Janis.

At the top of the playbill the management makes this smiling suggestion:

"Ladies: The prettiest, wisest, and most charming women take their hats off in the theater."

Farther down, the management frowns a bit, thus:

"Notice: Ladies will please be kind enough to remove their hats during the performance to comply with the ordinance passed by the city council. Those failing to comply will be requested to do so by the usher."

Finally, to prove its paternal attitude, the management proclaims:

"A request to be taken up or down on a slow elevator will be granted except during the extreme rush." Max of the Second Gallery

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

Mrs. J. J. V. writes: "My son, now 19, took out a $10,000 policy when he entered service last. Aug. 2. His father and I are beneficiaries. He is an only child. If he is killed and his father and I die, who will get any remaining guaranteed payments on his insurance? My son has one maternal grandparent and two paternal grandparents."

It is assumed you and your husband are primary beneficiaries for equal sums of $5,000. In the event of the death of one, the remaining parent would get the unpaid guaranteed payments. In the event of the death of both, payments would cease. Payments will not be made to grandparents, and the rights of beneficiaries to payment on government insurance cease at death.

T. B. writes: "I am the guardian of a child whose father was killed in action. The child is the beneficiary of his insurance. Is the child also entitled to a pension? The child's parents were divorced before the father was inducted into service. Can the divorced wife claim any benefits?"

The child is entitled to a pension of $25 a month until 18 or until 21 if attending an accredited school. The divorced wife is not entitled to anything.

H. R. S. asks: "What pension does a veteran receive when he is rated 50 per cent disabled and has lost the use of a hand?"

Payment for the 50 per cent disability is $57.50 a month and $35 is added because of the loss of the hand, making a total pension of $92.50.

THE STATUS OF AIR CONDITIONING

IF Mark Twain were alive today he would be pleasantly surprised to find that some one is doing something about the weather. I am referring to the engineers who try to make our working and living quarters comfortable. To date we are fairly well satisfied with the devices provided for winter time but there is still controversy over the results of their efforts to help us during our heat waves.

Summer air conditioning means more than cooling. Humidity must be taken into consideration as well as drafts and the ability of the body to give off its heat. Temperatures between 69 and 73 degrees F. meet the requirements of most of us altho manual laborers would rather have a lower reading.

Below 45 degrees F., a large amount of moisture in the atmosphere makes us feel cooler; but when the mercury climbs, the air actually seems warmer because it interferes with evaporation from perspiration. Most of us would vote for a humidity of 25 per cent rather than 40 to 60 per cent except victims of sinus disease or long standing respiratory infections. These individuals claim that a desertlike environment causes difficulty in breathing and an annoying sensation in the nose and bronchial tubes. In nasal catarrh, where the membranes are always moist and boggy, a lower percentage is preferred because of its drying action. We can readily see that every one cannot be satisfied.

The important factor is the problem of clothing. As a rule, men like lower temperatures and women, higher. Studies have shown that were males to wear dresses and the fair sex coats, vests, ties, and shirts, the opposite situation would exist. As it is, buildings are overheated in winter for the ladies and overcooled in the summer for the masculine tenants.

Air currents add to the freshness of a room and keep the occupant cool by augmenting evaporation of sweat. They aid also in dissipating undesirable odors which emanate from humans particularly when great numbers are assembled in one space. Drafts, on the other hand, especially when directed to the feet or back of the neck, are decidedly disagreeable to nearly every one.

Has air conditioning increased nose and throat disorders? Several investigators have compared the number of cases in air conditioned buildings and in those of the conventional type. They notice no difference one way or the other. It might be said that it was no more healthful either, altho decidedly more comfortable. In the future, air sanitation may become a part of these machines, which should reduce the incidence of colds.

One bad feature of our artificial weather is the reaction which follows going from a warm to a chilly environment or vice versa. This is where most individuals suffer, due to the body's inability to change its heat regulating mechanism quickly. It is well known that abrupt variations along this line encourage the onset of infections. To combat this tendency, authorities recommend that the difference should not exceed 15 to 20 degrees. In time we will learn more about combating untoward responses to this mechanical utopia. Until then, the majority must be served.

RELATED

J. C. writes: About a month ago I developed shingles. I am taking care of my daughter's infant and, 2 weeks ago, the baby came down with chickenpox. Is there any connection?

REPLY

Many authorities believe that there is a definite relationship. The same virus may be the cause of both conditions and exposure to one may result in the other.

DIPHTHERIA GERMS

Mrs. T. writes: Can a diphtheria carrier be cured? If so, how?

REPLY

If conservative treatment, such as the use of various drugs locally or X-ray exposures, are not successful, removal of the tonsils and adenoids may be advised. If all children were protected by vaccination, the danger from carriers would be reduced.

Summer Callers

It is a toss-up which can be the more annoying, the lone mosquito or the lone fly. Or perhaps you had never noticed that they do not attack in pairs. They come singly or in droves, and a horde of either is, in this sufferer's opinion, much more desirable than a single one, for with the single one you always have hope. You always think you can kill it. You never can.

Of all the summer visitors, from cousins to the friend of a friend whose name and face you can't recall, mosquitoes are the most persistent and the least intelligent. No matter how leathery, withered, or skinny the human victim, the mosquito still sees in him a feast and tries to gorge. This pest is also reckless, for it insists on announcing its presence and intent with a sneering zzzzzzzng which, unfortunately, the victim hears only when the mosquito is standing on its head and gnawing into his flesh. No other tender sound of the night has the effect of this on the ear of the mosquito victim. One zzzzzzzng and he is out of bed, fumbling for the light, banging at shadows—and previously mashed corpses—on the wall, examining his anatomy for the red welt he is sure is there, and awake for the night. Often he will leave the light on for hours, hoping thus to catch the mosquito off guard. But the mosquito insolently stands upside down on the ceiling, licks its feet, and leers.

The mosquito of our acquaintance disdains to feed by day. He is the stealthy forager of the night. Only morning brings surcease. But morning also brings the fly. It comes with the first faint light of day. Brrrrr. Brrrrr. Brrrrr. How it entered will always befuddle the sufferer, who goes around for weeks plugging up every hole larger than the head of a pin. The fly has never been known to alight on a moving body. It alights on the sleeper, who tosses, turns, flails his arms, draws the sheet over his head, and finally leaps out of bed in a wild fury to search for the fly swatter. Next to the can opener, the fly swatter is the most miraculous item since Merlin's days. Merely think of it and it disappears. In winter it is always in its neat place on the hook. In summer it has always just fallen behind the refrigerator. The newspaper, rolled or flat, applied with a throw or a swat, never works. The nearest substitute for a lethal weapon is a wet bath towel which has the sole merit of showering the room with cold spray as you lunge with it toward the fly. The fly invariably flies on. It never gives up, and the victim never gets back to his bed. The fly, we might add, is choosy. It ignores all of the human body except the head.

It is possible to experience the joys of chasing both the mosquito and the fly in one brief attempt at sleep. This attempt is the one that starts shortly before day. War workers and occasional social butterflies know it well. The mosquito comes just as the head hits the pillow. The fly comes an hour later with the dawn. The aspirin comes all the ensuing day.

It was while pondering these matters in a lather of irritation that the letter came. The letter told with pride of a New York chemist who operates a fly ranch. His herd runs as high as 10,000 flies. He spoonfeeds these from nit to pest. "In the interests of science," the letter said.

This dope breeds 5,000 a week in an attempt to find out what flies smell. Does that need clarification? Not what species of flies smell, but what element appeals to their sense of smell. The right scent, the letter says, is as alluring to a fly as Chanel No. 5 is supposed to be to men. Gooed over flypaper, it does what nothing else can do: it eliminates the fly.

The letter said the war has helped the flies. The aromatic oil that goes on the flypaper deteriorated and the flies began to spurn it. The chemist claimed it smelled the same to him, but he is no fly, so he went to work looking for an improved fly smell.

It is to be hoped that the gentleman meets with extraordinary success. Soon.

FINANCING BRITISH SOCIALISM

Pelham, N. Y., July 27—Now that the British people—after six years of war to rid themselves and "the world" of German National Socialism—have voted to embrace socialism themselves, the American people should take a new view of the program for "international coöperation" to which we are committing ourselves. A fresh look should prove very enlightening.

The real purpose of Lord Keynes' scheme to internationalize money [known as the Bretton Woods agreements] emerges. England's new government is pledged to "nationalize railways, coal and steel" [as a starter]. This being the case, it is [and was to Lord Keynes long ago] obvious that no American business man in his right mind would invest one American dollar in Great Britain today. But the point is, that it doesn't matter whether he does or not, for Lord Keynes' Bretton Woods scheme has already taken care of that.

Under the Bretton Woods agreement, the American government is pledged to put 9 billion dollars into the international bank and "stabilization" fund, and Socialist England can "borrow" the dollars from the fund. These dollars will go a long way toward making a show of "improving the condition of the common man" in Great Britain. Altho the money paying for the improved conditions will be hard earned capitalistic dollars, the poor dimwits who are being "improved" will look upon them as socialist miracles.

The Bretton Woods swindle is only the first. The others are soon to follow. All will bear a family resemblance: to wit, to "stabilize" the world's money, American taxpayers only have to put their dollars in one end of the "coöperation" machine and confiscation of private property and individual liberty abroad comes out the other.

But wait until we put our sons into that machine! That's just coming up. The "charter for international peace and security" is on the last lap, in the United States senate.

I cannot believe this is what the American people want when they say they "favor the stabilization of international currency and a world organization for peace and security." The trouble with Americans is that they think "stabilization" and "peace" and "security" mean just that. But they don't mean that at all. The English election should make that clear. If you love your son, you'd better veto that charter.

THE ROOSEVELT SHRINE

Chicago, July 23—An annual appropriation of $50,000 is being asked of our government for maintenance of Franklin D. Roosevelt's own memorial to the nation. As one of over 22 million voters not particularly interested in this gift, I feel that an annual appropriation of $50,000 for the maintenance of a $45,000 estate is greatly overrating its value to the nation. I, therefore, make this suggestion: Mr. Roosevelt had many admirers in his lifetime. They could show their admiration and appreciation for benefits received in a practical manner by creating a trust fund for the maintenance of this "gift." I would nominate Walter Winchell to take charge, thus taking it out of the hands of congressmen whose entire attention should be devoted to present and future conditions in this once happy country of ours. CHRISTIANITY IN JAPAN

Chicago, July 26—St. Francis Xavier was bold enought to assert centuries ago, that the Japanese people would make good Christians. This prophecy was borne out historically, for, after all the years between, and in spite of exile, martyrdom, and persecution, there were found Japanese Christians, whose forebears had been without priest or sacrifice for centuries.

Christian nations have much to account for in the example they gave to the peoples of the far east. The debauching of China, and the opium wars that followed are one example, and trampling upon the crucifix by English and Dutch traders, to gain trade, is another.

Japan is guilty of conquest and of saber rattling. But then, they are fanatics [temple minded] and not gallant, knighted pirates who helped in the building of empires. Are these fanatics to be destroyed, because, in imitating us, they dared to grow up to our knee?

Japan has learned a lesson, but only in a military sense. Isn't it about time that we give her one in a Christian sense as well? PHELIN O'TOOLE

MILLION YANKS TO RETURN IN NEXT 5 MONTHS

Gen. Gross Tells of Troop Movements

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—A million American troops will leave Europe for this country in the remaining five months of 1945.

This was reported today by Maj. Gen. C. P. Gross, army chief of transportation, who said it would leave almost 900,000 to be moved during the following four months to complete redeployment from Europe by May, 1946.

Gen. Gross in his report estimated total embarkations from Europe will number 800,000 men by the end of July. That total includes thousands who will make the 15,000 mile voyage direct to the Pacific theaters as well as those coming home. Embarkations on July 13 totaled over 635,000, of whom 532,258 had arrived in the United States by that date—407,978 by ship and 124,280 by plane.

300,000 Now at Sea

The general said some 300,000 American soldiers now are on the high seas thruout the world and another 700,000 redeployed troops are at transportation corps ports or staging areas, at army reception stations or personnel centers, or on furlough. He said the shift is going at such speed that some men from Germany already have been brought home, received furloughs, and been sent out from the west coast to fight Japan.

He reported more than 1,226,000 ship tons of war material sent out of Europe and the middle east in the first seven weeks after VE-day. Nearly 300,000 tons went direct to the Pacific.

Rail Traffic Increases

Indicating the mounting rate of personnel movement, Gen. Gross said 504,000 troops moved domestically by rail in groups of 40 or more in April. In May when the first returning veterans began to arrive the number jumped to 615,000. June, the first full month of redeployment, brought a count of 817,000. For July the estimate is 1,250,000.

The report predicted a gradual rise to about a million and a half men moving in organized groups in November.

552 Arrive on Freighter

New York, July 30 (AP)—The converted Liberty freighter Joseph Hewes brought 552 veterans of the 3d and 9th armies home today. Four other ships brought a total of 107 men back from Europe.

They included members of the 3241st and 3238th quartermaster service companies, the 646th quartermaster truck company and 10 medical officers.

ORDNANCE STAFF WILL GET BOND BUYING AWARD

Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr., commander of the 6th service command, will present the army service forces' honor roll certificate for war bond purchases to the Chicago ordnance district today in the Civic Opera house. More than 12 per cent of the district's civilian pay roll is being subscribed for war bonds, and in June the district's 4,500 employes bought $115,000 worth of bonds thru pay roll deductions.

Pvt. Richard Norian, 728 Waveland av., a former civilian employe of the ordnance district, will get the war production board's certificate for production ideas. His suggestion has saved approximately $3,750,000 a year.

Cash awards for suggestions will be made to 15 ordnance district employes by Col. John Siezak.

BURGLARS DRINK AND SMOKE AS THEY ROB COPS

Get $577 and Guns in Custodian's Vault

Burglary in the custodian's vault at police headquarters, 1127 S. State st., where stolen property is held for court evidence, placed an embarrassing mystery in the lap of the department yesterday.

The burglars—Acting Chief of Detectives John Warren said he thought there were two—tore open nearly 200 manila envelopes containing revolvers, money, and valuables, and were in the vault several hours. They left 70 cigaret butts on the floor, and opened a whisky bottle and took a few drinks during their week-end crime.

$577.70 in Burglars' Loot

Warren said an inventory disclosed that the thieves stole $577.70, five revolvers, and three suitcases. Women's apparel was emptied on the floor from one suitcase.

Warren said the burglary probably was committed Sunday night or early yesterday morning. The burglars went to the eighth floor, and removed the glass panel from the locked door of the Jury court room, No. 805, Warren said.

Then they apparently descended a fire escape from a Jury court window to the window at the rear of the custodian's vault, which is room No. 705.

Few Have Floor Knowledge

Police Custodian William Doubek, a civilian employe, discovered the burglary yesterday. Policemen who had evidence in the vault were instructed to ask courts for continuances, and Warren began questioning janitors, elevator operators, and other employes. Only a few persons, he said, are familiar with the floor plan of the custodian's room.

Detectives looked for fingerprints on the fire escape and on the opened envelopes, but found only smudges. Warren said the thieves wore gloves. He scoffed at suggestions that the burglars were seeking to destroy evidence that might be used against them, or were looking for drugs.

"They came looking for money, and that's all," he said, "and somebody who has intimate knowledge of the police building had something to do with this."

Two Safes Unopened

Two safes containing several thousand dollars were in the vault room, but were not opened.

Mayor Kelly said, "Why or how anybody would undertake to rob such a place is astounding, and certainly an investigation will be made. It is not a laughing matter."

PAN-AM FIGHTS ALLOCATION OF OCEAN AIR LINES

BY WILLIAM STRAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 30—Pan American Airways, Inc., today asked the civil aeronautics board to reopen the question of the allocation of trans-oceanic traffic routes for three United States air line companies recently authorized to fly the Atlantic to Europe, Africa, and Asia. Pan American charged in its petition that the CAB ruling would deprive it of opportunity to compete for a fair share of post-war international air travel.

The board's July 5 order, which was approved by President Truman, provided specified international routes for Pan American, for Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and for American Export Airlines, Inc. [which is being taken over by American Airlines, Inc.].

Pan American, noting that it is the pioneer in commercial trans-Atlantic flying, asserted that its operations would be restricted to specific bases while newcomers to the field would be permitted to operate to all the major traffic centers.

Fears 75 Per Cent Loss

The brief said the effect would be to doom Pan American to an inferior position in trans-Atlantic travel, despite its early pioneering efforts and the fact that it is the only permanently certificated American flag carrier to Eire, Great Britain, Portugal, and France. The company asserted that it could not hope to retain as much as 2. per cent of the post-war traffic unless the ruling is changed.

Declaring the CAB action has amounted to "gross favoritism" to TWA and "favoritism" to American Airlines, the Pan American petition urged the board "to reconsider whether it actually desires to perpetrate" the asserted injustice to Pan American.

The proposed allocation of routes would confer exclusive rights on TWA to operate out of Paris and Rome, Pan American noted, while providing American Export with sole operating privileges out of Berlin and Moscow. Of the large trans-Atlantic traffic centers, only London would be available to Pan American but not on a monopoly basis, because American companies would be able to compete for this traffic along with the British Overseas airways.

Bases Called Temporary

The brief also noted that Pan American is confined to the village of Foynes in Ireland and Marseilles in France, while Dublin and Paris would be available to TWA exclusively. The brief said Foynes and Marseilles merely are temporary operating bases used during the war when only seaplane equipment was available to Pan American.

A demand had been made previously in congress for an inquiry to determine whether Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President, used his influence to help obtain the trans-Atlantic permit for TWA, which had no part in international air traffic before the war.

Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.] told his colleagues at that time that Gen. Roosevelt—who will leave the army Aug. 15—was friendly with TWA officials and frequently in their company while the TWA application for an overseas route was pending before the CAB.

Wedding Flights Told

Shafer said that when Roosevelt and Faye Emerson of the movies were married TWA planes were used to fly the wedding party from California to Arizona and that afterwards Jack Frye, TWA president, flew Roosevelt and his bride on to Washington. Meanwhile, the Michigan congressman continued, John Meyer, personal representative of Howard Hughes, Texas and California millionaire who owns control of TWA, had acted as spokesman for Gen. Roosevelt and had conferred with President Roosevelt in Hyde Park.

Records show that the CAB examiner who conducted the hearings on the issuance of overseas permits recommended denial of the TWA application. The board, however, overruled the examiner and issued the permit, following oral arguments.

"I am suspicious that some undue influence was brought to bear," Shafer declared in his speech demanding an inquiry.

Route Revision Asked

Meanwhile, American Airlines, Inc., today filed an application with the CAB asking an amendment to its present routes between Chicago and New York to permit stops at Cleveland, O., and non-stop service between New York and Cleveland, Cleveland and Detroit, and Cleveland and Chicago. At present, United Air Lines is the only airline directly connecting Cleveland with Chicago and New York.

American also asked permission to serve Erie, Pa., as a stop between Cleveland, Niagara Falls, and Buffalo, N. Y., thus giving Erie new and improved service to Detroit, South Bend, Ind., Chicago, and other western cities. The air line normally operates non-stop between Chicago and New York with flights which pass over Cleveland.

American called attention to the fact that there are no other air routes of importance comparable with Cleveland-Chicago, Cleveland-New York, and Cleveland-Detroit which have only a single air line in operation.

Wait 'til that guy comes home from his vacation and opens his back door.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

by BEN MARKLAND

July 30, 1945

A MISSOURI soil scientist advances the theory that farmers should judge the fertility of their fields on the quality as well as the quantity of foods and feeds they produce. He stresses the fact that an acre of soil which produces 50 bushels of high quality corn may be preferable to an acre which produces 60 bushels of poor quality corn.

The main proponent of this theory is William A. Albrecht, chairman of the department of soils, University of Missouri. For judging the quality of feed crops, he suggests actual field feeding tests instead of chemical analyses of the crops. In support o. this method of judging feeds, he says that cattle, hogs, deer, rabbits, and other animals unerringly will feed on the most nourishing material available in a field that contains feeds ranging from good to poor.

Hogs Are Choosy

Hogs probably are more sensitive than cattle as selectors of quality feed. In a test in Johnson county, Missouri, hogs were driven into a corn field, half of which had been treated with lime before planting. The animals passed thru the limed and untreated sections of the field in going to and from the water trough and supplement feeder. Each day they walked thru the untreated field and fed in the limed area. All of the corn in the treated section was eaten before the swine started to eat the untreated corn.

Dr. Albrecht also cites wild deer in proving his theory that animals have instinctive ability to select the feeds most nourishing. Deer will not browse on southern pine in areas where the soil is poorly fertilized. The same species of deer completely stripped the foliage of southern pine when it was planted as roadside protection for a Missouri highway in an area where the soil was fertilized.

True for Humans

Similarly, rabbits will thrive, reaching maximum size and developing excellent bone structure, when fed hay from a properly fertilized field. Animals from the same litter appear unthrifty, have smaller bones, and lose the power of reproduction when fed with hay from an unfertilized field.

If this is true for animals, says Dr. Albrecht, it also is true for humans. He cites selective service statistics to show that seven of ten draftees pass their physical tests in Colorado, where soil fertility is high and the quality of feeds is good, whereas only three of every ten draftees pass their tests in a southern state where soil fertility is low.

★ The GARDEN ★

BLOOMSDALE LONG STANDING and Nobel are recommended varieties of spinach for planting in early August for autumn maturity. Both mature in about 50 days, therefore may be planted until Aug. 10 and reach full size before frost time. The planting practice for lettuce, described in this column yesterday, should be followed in seeding spinach.

Both of the recommended varieties of spinach may be planted, either in rows or solid patches. Spinach of highest quality comes from row plantings, but in small gardens where space is valuable the patch planting method may be followed. Individual patches of spinach should be no larger than five feet square, allowing space to walk around the edge of the patches to pull out weeds and permit harvesting. Whether planted in rows or patches, the seedlings should be thinned to stand five to six inches apart.

Reports Discharged Vets Will Be Given Gasoline

CIO-UAW SPURNS VET'S SENIORITY UNTIL HE'S HIRED

BY ORVILLE DWYER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., July 30—International officers of the CIO United Automobile Workers' union hold that there is only one way to solve the jobs for veterans question and that is to provide full employment, George Buckley, international representative in charge of the veterans' department, said today in a statement.

He defended the "model clause" by which the UAW-CIO seeks to provide for the returning fighting men. This clause has been condemned by the United Veterans of World War II., the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and branches of the American Legion.

Buckley said the union intends to stand by its model clause, which provides that a man who fought the war will be given seniority rights based on his length of war service "after" he gets a job, but that such seniority cannot be used as a basis for hiring.

Termed "Lockout"

This clause has been termed a "lockout" clause because it means that all the workers who have accumulated seniority will come ahead of veterans who have no job seniority. The veterans and most of the big companies contend that service seniority should be considered when a man is hired.

The issue revolves around the several million men who did not have factory jobs before they went to war and have no jobs to come back to.

A spokesman for the Ford Motor company put it this way: "If we could give such a man four years' rights—or whatever rights he may be entitled to for serving in the army or navy—he could displace any other employe on the seniority list with less than four years' rights. That's what is needed and what under most existing union contracts we can't do."

Buckley's statement of union policy, it was said, will be the union's answer to Robert Kelter, Chicago, president of the United Veterans of World War II., who has been in Detroit for a week trying to find out what the international union intends to do about a clause which his group has asked the UAW to adopt.

Ask One Job in Four

Kelter's amendment would provide that at least 25 per cent of all persons hired be veterans—that one in every four jobs goes to a fighting man who never worked for a company before.

"The UAW's program on veterans' seniority is one that has been given careful study by a conference of veterans by both World War I. and World War II. in Washington April 6 and 7, 1944," Buckley said.

"The proposal of the UAW-CIO is to give a veteran who was never employed prior to entering the service seniority commensurate with the time he spent in the service after he had obtained a job.

"Let us analyze, for the sake of clarifying the issue, a proposal that a couple of the more prominent industries have outlined for the veterans: Giving the veteran the right to use that seniority for the purpose of hire. One asks: 'Whom will he displace?' The probability is that he might displace his own father, some other relative, World War I. veterans, and others."

Don't think you have to go on starvation diets—do violent exercise — or take dangerous drugs and cathartics in order to lose weight. You can now give your body correct nourishment and yet, at the same time, shed those ugly pounds of figure and health-spoiling fat . . . and do it so easily you will think it is fun instead of trouble.

Lose Lbs.— EAT PLENTY

Here is all you do. Merely take 2 teaspoons of VEE-MOR in a glass of any fruit juice with a light breakfast. Have your regular dinner or supper. But for lunch, take 2 teaspoons of VEE-MOR in any suitable beverage. With it, if you like, a cup of tea or coffee and you won't need anything else.

VEE-MOR provides all the nourishment you need for lunch—probably far more than you usually get. It contains Vitamins A, B, D, G, and other B complex factors as well as calcium, phosphorus and strength-building proteins, so that while you are foregoing the foods that make or keep you fat, you are actually adding to your nourishment — building up your strength and energy. Best of all, you DON'T MIND confining your lunch to VEE-MOR and a beverage because it satisfies your appetite.

Test VEE-MOR for 10 days. If you don't start losing that ugly fat—and if you don't feel fine—peppier and more vigorous than you've been in months, bring back the unused VEE-MOR and get every penny back. Start losing today this modern pleasant way. VEE-MOR costs little to use.

Today! The gin you've waited 3 years to enjoy!

Gin of pre-war quality made from pre-war imported botanicals

1 Today Hiram Walker brings you gin made with the same imported herbs, roots and berries used in making Hiram Walker's pre-war gin.

2 And remember, between Repeal and Pearl Harbor, Americans bought more Walker-made gin than any other kind.

Today, you can once again enjoy the pleasure of real, pre-war quality gin.

For Hiram Walker's Gin is made not only to pre-war formula . . . but from pre-war imported botanicals which are unobtainable today.

The reason we now have these rare botanicals like cassia from China and coriander from Czechoslovakia, is this: Prior to the war it was our policy to purchase these botanicals in the best crop years and far in excess of our annual requirements. This enabled us always to have on hand a treasured reserve.

When we suspended gin distilling in favor of war production in February 1942, this priceless reserve was carefully preserved and sealed away.

Today, it's these pre-war, imported botanicals that give Hiram Walker's Gin its real, pre-war quality. The quality which, between Repeal and Pearl Harbor, led Americans to buy more Walker-made gin than any other kind.

Choicest coriander from Czechoslovakia . . . prize Valencia peel from Spain . . . cassia from China . . . these and all the other rare herbs, roots, and berries used in making Hiram Walker's Gin today come from a supply imported before the war.

Maternal Aid Group Plans Movie Benefit

BY JUDITH CASS

A MEETING of the executive board of the Margaret Sanger centers yesterday in Mrs. Matthew L. Rockwell's home in Winnetka and a gathering tomorrow of the Evanston board in Mrs. Stewart Boal's Winnetka home will mark the "go" signal for the sale of tickets for a September benefit which the organization is planning. Tickets for the benefit, a reshowing of the movie, "Tom Sawyer," Sept. 7 in the Glencoe theater, will be sold, however, under the name of the Maternal Welfare centers of Chicago, for the group voted to change its name to that title at yesterday's meeting.

Mrs. Boal heads the board of directors of the centers, which are affiliated with the Illinois League of Planned Parenthood. Assisting her on the board are Mrs. William L. Taylor Jr., Mrs. Donald Kimball, Mrs. Clarence Sills Jr., Mrs. William H. Norton, who recently moved here from the east; Mrs. Robert A. Carr, Mrs. William B. Goltra, Mrs. Loren Massey, Mrs. Joseph Sampsell, Mrs. Jeffrey R. Short Jr., who is keeping up an absentee membership altho she and her children now are with her family in Boston; Mrs. George Siedel, and Mrs. Paul Ware.

If the benefit, to which an admission fee of 75 cents will be charged, is a success, other similar events will be given in the Chicago area to raise money for the group's work in assisting parents to raise families.

Here and There

Recovering nicely in Passavant hospital after an emergency appendectomy performed at 2 a. m. Sunday is Mrs. William E. Ragland [Edith Mason]. Mrs. Ragland was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance late Saturday night, and will be a patient in the hospital for the next seven days.

At tea at 3:30 p. m. today in the headquarters at 30 N. Michigan av., members of the British War Relief society will meet for the last time as an organization. Today the society is closing its offices all over the country and disbanding. Pouring at tea at the local chapter's farewell party will be Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Dallas B. Phemister, Miss Mary Nixon, and Mrs. Edmund O'Neal. Mrs. William Sutherland, chairman of the society's women's activities; Wilfred H. Gallienne, British consul general, and Charles F. Glore, chairman of the executive committee, will speak.

Since the society was formed in the fall of 1940, the Chicago chapter alone has provided $1,186,466 in cash and used clothing valued at $631,500 to Great Britain. The group has supplied 37 mobile kitchens and 16 ambulances and has supported three hostels and two shelters. In the Chicago workroom more than 164,000 yards of material have been made into clothing for England, averaging 100 yards each day.

Wedding News

Miss Janet Ingwersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ingwersen of Wheaton, formerly of Flossmoor, and Lt. Clarence B. Huxley of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Huxley Jr. of Astor st., formerly of New York, were married at 8 p. m. Saturday in the Flossmoor Community church. A reception followed in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Ingwersen of Flossmoor.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Alice and Mary, and by Lt. Huxley's sister, Miss Nordell Huxley. Pvt. Thomas C. Huxley III. was best man for his brother. Missing from the family circle was the bride's brother, Capt. Henry Ingwersen of the army air forces, who had hoped to be home from the Pacific but now is not expected until October. After a wedding trip to Palisades Park, Mich., Lt. Huxley and his bride will live in Ann Arbor, Mich., while he attends an army school there.

In an afternoon ceremony July 14 in the Church of the Transfiguration in New York, Miss Gloria Louise Hanners, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Hanners of Mount Vernon, N. Y., formerly of Evanston, became the bride of Ensign Raymond Melvin Peterson of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Peterson of Worcester, Mass. A reception followed in the Volney hotel. The bride attended the Kingswood school in Cranbrook, Mich., and William and Mary college and was graduated in 1945 from the school of speech at Northwestern university.

Ensign Peterson, a 1943 graduate of Boston university, received his commission from the naval reserve training school at Northwestern university and took additional training in communications at Harvard university. He was a member of Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's personal staff aboard the Bunker Hill at the time it was bombed. After a short wedding trip Ensign Peterson will report to the west coast when his 30 day leave is over, and his bride will live temporarily with her parents.

WAVES at Great Lakes Parade to Mark 3d Year

WAVES at Great Lakes naval training station celebrated the third anniversary of their branch yesterday with a review on Ross field in which 500 of the 1,800 girls on duty at the station marched to the music of a band and a drum corps. Commodore Robert R. M. Emmet and Sen. Robertson [R., Wyo.], present as a member of the senate naval affairs committee, received the review.

Music Note

Because of rehearsal complications, Leonard Bernstein will play his suite from "Fancy Free" with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Ravinia next Sunday afternoon only, on a program with Haydn and Shostakovich symphonies. The Thursday night program now holds a Bach concerto, Haydn's Symphony in B Flat Major, and Beethoven's "Eroica."

Wedding to Take Place Friday

The Importance of the Job

Personnel Manager H. B. Edson, in a discussion of the training within industry program, says part of our trouble is that "people do not realize the importance of what appears to be a commonplace, monotonous, uninteresting job."

Many supervisors in the last few years have been astonished at the adaptability of women to monotonous, repetitious work. Yet women for centuries have been doing repetitious tasks — weaving, sweeping, spinning, sewing, running a carpet sweeper, dusting, scrubbing, and preparing meals.

While women were performing these homely family duties, they were steadied by necessity. The pioneers knew their families would perish unless the woman did her share. Women were essential.

Women still want to be essential. True, it won't pay the rent. But a sense of importance—and satisfaction—in her job is the unseen figure on every woman's salary check. The astute employer gives the woman worker ample chance to learn just how her job fits significantly into the whole pattern—exactly why it counts.

Yards of Tulle Used to Make Paris Bonnets

BY ANNE BRUYERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, July 30—Agnes has created distinguished off-the-face tulle bonnets which come in deep, dramatic shades such as fuscous brown, indigo blue, and garnet red.

Literally yards and yards of fine transparent tulle go to make a high, wide, and elegant model in grass green called "Cantique d'Amour." Two loving birds placed straight in front of the 18 layers of delicate material seem to coo to their hearts' content.

"Cette Fille de Paris" is another brimless conversation hat with the comparatively narrow top rising a foot high. A single large blush pink chrysanthemum tilts up at the edge of the crown swathed in night blue tulle. Purple and lavender orchids of stiffened tulle and mousseline trim a dressy toque of brilliant black straw worn well over the right eye. It is named "Diner à 8 Heures."

"La Fugue de Mariette" is a tiny formal headdress fitting close across the back of the head to the nape. Variegated rhinestones in different sizes and shapes gaily twinkle on the sepia brown tulle.

Service Club's Benefit Again to Be Ice Show

BY ELEANOR PAGE

A cool subject for discussion on a hot day is the Shipstad and Johnson Ice Follies show, and it was the main topic of conversation at a meeting yesterday in the Woman's Athletic club of the board of directors of the Service club. For the fourth year in a row the club, which used to give its own amateur benefit shows, will sponsor the opening night of the Follies, set for Nov. 2 in the Chicago Arena.

The ice shows have proved an increasingly successful financial venture for the club, which last year netted more than $17,000 from the sale of seats to one performance. The money is distributed among 47 charities in this area.

Altho busy with details in connection with the benefit, the club is keeping an eye on two projects now in the making, the establishing and furnishing of an infants' lounge in the La Salle st. station and plans for decorating, furnishing, and equipping of a playroom for recuperative children in County hospital. Earlier this year the club completed the decoration and furnishing of two lounges for the use of enlisted WAC personnel in quarters in E. 11th st.

Mrs. Earl Wagner is general chairman of the benefit committee. Working with her as ticket chairman is Mrs. Henry Sincere, whose husband is just back from Europe, where he has been serving with the psychological warfare department. They have purchased a summer home in Delavan Lake, Wis., into which they will move soon for the remainder of the summer. Mr. Sincere has 30 days' leave.

Mrs. E. Payson Smith, president of the club; Mrs. Robert A. Cavenaugh, Mrs. John W. Clarke, Mrs. Jack Gafford, Mrs. Ray Spittler, Mrs. William H. Spurgeon, and Mrs. Frank Bering are others on the benefit committee.

The ticket office will be opened Sept. 17 in the Arena, and plans for a number of debutante parties as well as parties for young children already are in the making for that night.

Harp and Shamrock Club Fete Will Mark Irish Holiday Aug. 15

The Harp and Shamrock club has plans under way to observe Lady Day in Harvest, a national holiday of Ireland, with an Irish Feis on Wednesday, Aug. 15. The celebration will be held in Pilsen park, 26th st. and Albany av.

Legend has it that the first Feis, most ancient of Irish festivals, was held on the Hill of Slane in 1433, when St. Patrick kindled the pascal fire which signaled the conversion of the country to Christianity.

Fifty contests in ancient Irish music, singing and dancing, will be held. Some of the winners at a Feis held in June at Fordham university in New York will be here to perform. Directing arrangements for the Chicago celebration, believed to be the first held here, are Dean William F. Clarke of the De Paul university law school and Pat Roche, president of the Harp and Shamrock. The Rev. Patrick J. Molloy of Annunciation church is honorary chairman.

Sunshine Is Healthful, but Baby Should Take It in Small Doses

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In beginning this series of suggestions to mothers about making their babies comfortable and safe in summer, I find there are so many ideas that it is puzzling to know where to start. Some are vital to the baby's safety, as in the care of his food and bottles; others are important in the sense that they make the baby more comfortable, with the result that, sleeping better and feeling calmer, he maintains good digestion, and continues to gain.

". . . Be extremely careful how you expose your baby to the sun." [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

Perhaps we might start with one piece of advice which relates to his comfort, but can also, if disregarded, jeopardize his health. It has to do with exposure to the sun.

A baby's skin is extremely delicate. If you've ever watched a burn heal on a baby you realize it. Sunburn is a real burn.

Add up these two facts, and you'll be extremely careful how you expose your baby to the sun. Remember, too, that sunburn does not show up at once after exposure.

Of course, something depends upon your baby's age and upon previous exposure to the sun. So we have to be general about it to this extent:

Exposure to the direct rays of the sun must be gradual.

Most doctors believe it best to uncover only part of the body at a time: First the hands and arms, then next day the feet and legs, and so on; and for a very short time, such as a few minutes at first, increasing this daily.

Do not expose the baby, even in this gradual way, during the four hottest midday hours.

If your little baby frets on direct exposure to the sun, and I've known young babies who do, pull his carriage back into the shade.

Remember that an air bath, that is, having the body partly or all uncovered in the shade, is of great benefit to the health.

When doing this latter with a young baby, watch out for sudden cool breezes or sharp drops in temperature.

Do not let the sun's rays shine into the baby's eyes.

Keep in mind that the sun can be either friend or enemy to your baby.

And if your baby doesn't become as nut-brown as the next one, don't worry. All baby skins don't show sunning in the same way, just as all adult skins do not.

An excellent handbook for mothers is "Infant Care," obtainable free from the Children's bureau, Washington, D. C.

Thru the Looking Glass

Note to the tired working girl who finds that the summer is getting her down:

When you're hot and grimy at the end of a hard day, the very thought of getting out of your work clothes, into a tub, and then into fresh clothing seems too strenuous to be followed thru by performance. But once you try this trick you'll know for a certainty that DOING SOMETHING about your fatigue, something sensible and refreshing, is definitely better than just collapsing with it.

When you get inside the door at night, dash right to the bathroom and turn on your tub or shower. Then take off all the sticky clothes, the stockings that have been searing your feet, the girdle that's been confining the too plump tummy. Take the make-up, all streaked with perspiration, off your face, too. Then hop into that tub or shower. Have the water just warm, not steaming hot and certainly not too cold. Don't linger too long for this pickup kind of bath [if you do you'll be drowsy afterward] and when you pop out dry yourself by patting lightly with a towel. Dust with powder or rub down with cologne.

This shouldn't take more than five or eight minutes, but you'll feel as tho this little end-of-the-day dip has added years to your life. Slip into clothes that are clean and cool—maybe a cotton dress—make up your face quickly, brush up your hair, and then wallow in your new sense of well being.

You've just no idea how easy it is to revive yourself after a working day, nor how pleasant, until you try this simplest of all stunts. Once you get past the first barrier—thinking about how strenuous it is—you're all set, and you'll love the sense of exhilaration that it gives you. ELEANOR NANGLE

ON THE RECORD

Levant's 'Rhapsody in Blue' Best of Current Crop of Gershwin Record Albums

Everybody plays Gershwin's music, and almost nobody can. Few who heard George Gershwin play it himself with Bill Daley conducting have been completely satisfied since, despite the flood of performance now surging to new levels on the impetus of "Rhapsody in Blue," which I hope isn't quite as inaccurate a Hollywood tribute to Gershwin as "Song to Remember" was to Chopin. At least, Oscar Levant ghosts Gershwin's playing, and he comes closer than any one else to recapturing what sometimes seems to have been a one man idiom.

So the prize of the avalanche of Gershwin albums is Mr. Levant's playing of the "Rhapsody in Blue" with Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia orchestra [Columbia MX-251; two 12 inch records]. It is clean, clear, and crisp, and it makes Gershwin sense. There is no possible comparison between it and Victor's reissue in a showpiece album [an illustrated paper back numbered SP-3] of the unsatisfactory performance by Jésus Maria Sanroma and the Boston "Pops" with Arthur Fiedler. In both cases the Rhapsody fills three record sides. Levant fills the fourth with expert playing of the second and third Gershwin preludes, and Fiedler winds up with "Strike Up the Band."

"Porgy and Bess"

Two "Porgy and Bess" albums are heading for the shelves, one played by Fritz Reiner and the Pittsburgh Symphony [Columbia M-572; three 12 inch records], the other by Fabien Sevitzky and the Indianapolis orchestra [Victor M-999; three 12 inch records]. Both feature the Russell Bennett synthesis of Gershwin's folk opera, recently played at Ravinia by Erich Leinsdorf and the Chicago Symphony. Here, again, there isn't much question of superiority. The Reiner album is far more distinguished in clear treatment of a lively score and in its singing of what may turn out to be Gershwin's best loved song, "Summertime."

"An American in Paris"

Gershwin called "An American in Paris" a rhapsodic ballet, and few contemporary scores begin in gayer spirits than this quick sketch of a man letting the first time he saw Paris go to his head. The inspiration doesn't last and the work as a whole lacks distinction, but if you want to acquire a deft performance, try Artur Rodzinski's with the New York Philharmonic [Columbia MX-246; two 12 inch records].

Stokowski's Strauss

The most remarkable thing about Richard Strauss' tone poem, "Death and Transfiguration," as recorded by Leopold Stokowski and the New York City Symphony [Victor M-1006; three 12 inch records] is its additional proof, if any were needed, of the conductor's gift for making an orchestra sound authoritative. This new one sounds like an old timer. As in any flowing score of this type, the breaks at the end of the record sides are a bit disconcerting, but maybe in time engineering will catch up with music.

Thousands Join in This Week's Festival Events

BY PHILIP MAXWELL

Thousands of Chicagoans will participate this week in activities leading to the 16th annual Chicago Music Festival Aug. 18 in Soldiers' field.

Hundreds of girls will rehearse today at 2 p. m. in the Paradise Ballroom, 128 N. Pulaski rd., for the festival dance pageant. The north side division of the Cook county vocal contest will be held in the Edgewater Beach hotel tonight at 7 p. m. The public is invited to the vocal contest. Admission is 50 cents.

Tomorrow at 11 a. m. hundreds of south and southwest side girls will rehearse their part of the dance pageant in the Trianon ballroom. Miss Mayblossom Macdonald will have charge of the practice at the Paradise ballroom and Mrs. Ermie Schultz of the girls meeting in the Trianon.

The Cook county vocal finals will be held Thursday at 7 p. m. in the Drake hotel. Thirty singers will be heard there. Ten of them will be chosen to appear in the festival vocal semi-finals which will be held on the morning of the festival. Admission Thursday night will be 50 cents.

Dramatic and mezzo sopranos, lyric and dramatic tenors, contraltos, and baritones will be auditioned tonight. The judges will be Raymund Koch, Hanna Butler, and John Toms. Rhea Shelters will be the piano accompanist. Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the festival vocal contests, will be in charge.

Lyric and coloratura sopranos, bass-baritones, and basses will sing tomorrow night. The judges will be Mable Sharp-Herdien, Sydnie Smith Cooley, and Ralph Niehaus. Marion Schroeder will be at the piano.

Reserved seats to the festival concert in Soldiers' field now are on sale, both by mail and over the counter. They are $1.25 and 80 cents each. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and sent with a self-addressed stamped envelope to festival ticket manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

The tickets are on sale in the lobby of the Tribune Tower and at 1 S. Dearborn st.

Large groups of seats still are available to organizations. A section of 1,000 seats was sold to one purchaser last week.

Don't let over-exposure to sunshine make your skin dry . . . give you an older, harder look . . . SYNOPSIS: In the homesteaders' attempt to cut wires used by the cattlemen to fence in government land for their herds, Bruce Sherrill, leader of the homesteaders, is wounded. Bruce shot Ben Randall, son of old Jeff Randall, owner of the Diamond Tail ranch. Bruce is not a killer but had to protect his own side. He knows he was recognized and must make a getaway. Trapped, he rides to the ranch of Cliff Applegate, his chief enemy and brother-in-law of Jeff Randall. Linda Applegate hides him from the posse headed by Bill Cairns. While Cairns' men search the ranch buildings, Cairns remains with Linda and becomes insulting. Rod Randall, older half-brother of Ben, arrives opportunely and warns Cairns never again to annoy Linda. Linda dresses Bruce's wound and hides him in her bedroom upstairs. When her father and brothers return she learns Ben was shot in a fight—not ambushed. She admits hiding Bruce from Cairns because he is wounded and insists they give him shelter until he is able to travel, then they may turn him over to the law. In yielding to her demands, Cliff Applegate feels they are betraying their friends.

INSTALMENT VIII

SLIPS AWAY

Bruce looked Linda over carefully, and what he saw he could not help liking. She had long, well-fashioned legs, a lovely body slenderly full, a face a man could remember in his dreams.

She felt herself flushing beneath the tan of her cheeks. It was true that a flame of resentment against him burned in her, but it was also true that he interested her more than any other man she had met, unless perhaps it was Rod Randall.

"In a day or two you'll be gone," she said coldly. "I'll probably never see you again. I hope not. Ever since you came there has been nothing but trouble."

"Trouble is good for people sometimes," he suggested. "It shakes them out of their complacency and forces them to face the truth."

"What truth does it make us face?" she demanded.

"You're beginning to see that God didn't make this country millions of years ago just for the convenience of a few arrogant cattlemen. You'll never again hold the smug, undisturbed belief that they are justified in trampling down poor settlers."

She swept aside the waist she was making and rose, a tall, slim figure stiff with rage. "That's a fine thing to say after my father and brothers hid you here and saved you, their worst enemy, protecting you from the just punishment you had earned. I knew you were a hateful person from the first time I ever heard of you."

She walked out of the room into the kitchen, where Bud Wong was making apple pies.

"You want tell me something, missie?" he asked.

"No. That loathsome man! Is he going to stay forever?"

Bud Wong liked their guest, who made little jokes showing friendliness. "He plitty flesh," the cook conceded.

"Fresh!" she repeated. "He's the most impudent, ungrateful scoundrel I ever met, as full of conceit as an egg is of meat. I wish I had let father take him to the Diamond Tail."

"He all light. He think missie plitty nice."

"He takes a strange way of showing it. Not that I care. He's a detestable person, and I hope he keeps out of my sight till he goes."

They heard him limping across the sitting room to the stairway and slowly taking the treads. Linda went back to her sewing.

She did not mention to the rest of the family the quarrel with Sherrill. But she rehearsed what had been said after she went to bed, and the resentful memory of it was with her in the morning as she passed the door of his room on the way downstairs.

Her father was standing by the table reading something written on a page torn from a cheap tablet. He handed the paper to her. She read:

"I've stolen another horse to get to town. I'll leave it with Sheriff Humphreys. Thought it better not to outstay my welcome. You do not want thanks from me for what you did, but you are getting it nonetheless."

"He's giving himself up, I reckon," Cliff said.

She tossed the paper back on the table. "We can do without his thanks. I never was so tired of a man in my life. He told me yesterday he had been doing us a favor by staying here because he had shaken our smug belief in our right to fight the nesters. His vanity is colossal. He needs a lesson."

"He'll get one," the cattleman answered grimly. "I'm glad he has gone. I've made up my mind to come clean with your uncle about this whole business."

"Do you still blame me so much for what I did?" Linda asked.

"No. You were all right, honey. We couldn't turn him over to be hanged after he had come here wounded. I see that plain as you do now."

He put an arm around her shoulders and gave her a little hug. She felt a warm glow in her heart.

"The fellow must of got up in the night and slipped out," Cliff said. "He was keepin' us fooled about not being able to travel. Only yesterday he told Brand that in three or four days he figured he would be able to make it to Redrock."

Linda turned away, hot anger in her dark eyes, to find out from Bud Wong whether breakfast was nearly ready.

Linda sat beside her father in the buckboard when he drove down the valley to the Diamond Tail. She went for two reasons, because she wanted to see for herself how her cousin Ben was getting along and also because she wanted to be present when Cliff told her uncle what they had done in order to take her share of the blame.

Her father pointed out men in the dip to the left of them stringing wire. He said grimly, "Some the nesters cut 10 nights ago in the dark of the moon."

"You don't know who they were?" she asked.

"We don't know. They got away without being caught that time. I reckon yore friend Sherrill was one of them."

"Is he my friend more than yours?" she inquired.

"No, he's no friend of any honest person who runs cattle here."

"Will there be any more trouble?"

"There will be more trouble—p'enty of it. A slather of these poor fools who want free land are coming into the country to homestead. When they look over this open country they never figure that it is all grazing land, too dry for the crops they are used to in Iowa or Tennessee. The only way to keep them out is to fence."

"Isn't the government going to put a stop to that?"

He shook his head. "I don't know. We've got a lot of wise lawyers back in Washington making laws for this cattle country without ever having seen it. They don't understand the conditions, and they don't take the trouble to find out. Our own congressmen and senators are all right, but they can't make those easterners see how things are. Fact is, the general idea at Washington is that the west doesn't amount to a hill of beans anyhow, and it sounds good for them to make a hurrah about keeping the land open for the common people. Consequence is, a lot of no account folk who can't make a go of it anywhere move out here and starve, after they have ruined the land for those of us who can use it."

Linda had heard the cattleman's side of this question for years, and she had always assumed it to be the right one, but now an unpleasant misgiving lurked in her mind. Maybe the homesteaders might have a just claim, too. She brushed this out of her thoughts resentfully, for she knew that Bruce Sherrill had planted it there.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 diamond
Pass	1 spade	Pass	4 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of hearts.

Where declarer is faced with a choice of plays depending upon who has certain of the outstanding high cards, resort to the bidding will frequently provide the clews as to their location. The natural presumption is that the person who has participated in the auction is the one more apt to have the missing high card. Sometimes, however, a player by his very silence unwittingly gives away the show and furnishes declarer with the information which forms the basis of a successful campaign.

Observe how this worked in today's hand. The bidding followed normal lines, except that North's jump to four spades was a slight overbid. It worked out well on this hand, however. If he had chosen to make the more conservative bid of three spades it is somewhat of a question whether South would have had the temerity to go on.

West led the five of hearts and the trick was taken by East's king. The queen of diamonds was returned and declarer drew three rounds of trumps. Everything appeared to depend upon holding the club losses to one trick. The normal play would be to finesse the 10 of clubs in dummy, with the hope that West held the jack.

Declarer hit upon another plan. There was no doubt that West held the ace of clubs. After the opening lead East became marked with the ace and king of hearts. At the next trick he marked himself with the queen-jack of diamonds. If he also held the ace of clubs he would have had an opening bid. There was further evidence that West held six hearts, since if East held a five card suit headed by the ace-king he would most likely have made a non-vulnerable overcall at the level of one. It became probable, therefore, that West was short in clubs. A low club was led from the South hand and when West ducked the king was played from dummy, a low club was returned and ducked by declarer. When West's ace fell the contract was home.

The poultry and egg national board expects that we'll have more chickens this fall and promises that we can have turkey for Thanksgiving. The turkey crop is a record one, and even after military needs are met, there'll be more turkey per civilian than was available before the war.

The plentiful food right now is a fish—lake herring. There are so many herring in the wholesale markets that the price has dived, and the homemaker will find it an economical buy.

Baking is a popular method of preparing herring. The filleted fish may be rubbed with salt and paprika, covered with sliced onions, placed in a greased pan, and baked in a pool of milk. Green pepper with the onion and tomatoes in place of milk make herring Spanish style out of the baked fish. Herring fillets may be put together with a bread dressing, baked, and served with a tomato sauce or parsley and paprika seasoned white sauce. In any case, use a moderate oven, 350 degrees. Fillets to be baked without a sauce may be brushed with fat or dipped in egg and crumbs, laid on a greased baking sheet, and baked quickly, not more than 8 minutes, in a very hot oven, 500 degrees. This almost instantaneous cooking prevents kitchen odors, but isn't satisfactory if the fish is to be baked in a sauce.

Home grown tomatoes are beginning to appear, and home grown peaches are starting to market to swell the supplies of southern peaches which have been inspiring many a homemaker to do her peach canning early this year. Transportation difficulties affect the availability of California oranges, and the oranges which do come to market are so small that extracting their juice is a long, laborious process. Many of us have been thankful that large cans of unrationed orange juice still may be purchased to make breakfast getting quicker and simpler.

Can beets while they're young and tender, not more than two inches in diameter. A pressure cooker is necessary, unless it's beet pickles you're making. Leave on the root and an inch or so of the stem and pre-cook the baby beets long enough to loosen the skins, 10 to 15 minutes. Slip off skins and leave small beets whole. Slice larger ones. Pack while hot into sterilized jars and add a teaspoon of salt to each. Fill jars with boiling water to within an inch of the top, seal according to kind of lids used, and process at 10 pounds pressure for 35 minutes.

Help Your Children To Develop Strong Bones, Sound Teeth

Doctors report that many a child with ugly bowed legs or knock-knees might have grown up straight and shapely on a diet adequate in the bone-building minerals and Vitamin D.

Lack of calcium, for instance, in the earliest years may do irreparable damage—but in any case, calcium is so vital a factor that no child brought up on a consistently deficient calcium intake, can have much chance for strong bones and sound teeth.

That's one reason doctors talk so much about milk for growing children.

Milk is our best food source of calcium. Do your children get enough milk...at least a quart every day? Many children just don't like to take that much every day! That's why Cocomalt in milk is so helpful.

Cocomalt* is so rich in calcium, it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value! (Also this supplies the day's full minimum requirements for iron, phosphorus, Vitamin B, and D.) And Cocomalt's delicious chocolaty flavor makes children love their milk.

Start your children on Cocomalt today. Save this as a reminder.

Jealousy Is Root of All Unpopularity

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

The first step any fellow or gal must take in discovering how to be popular is to try to be a good sport, to learn how to get along with others. The first big step in that direction is learning how to get along with yourself. So to make yourself the number one character on your hit-parade, start off by overcoming that green-eyed monster with two heads who rears both of them every time you see a gal friend in a smooth new dress or spot another Joe out dating the very girl you've picked for your own special hunk of heartbreak. Jealousy has spoiled more good times than rain at a picnic, and until you can shake yourself lose from that green-eyed habit, you can't even begin to have fun.

There are two kinds of jealousy—the gnawing, persistent kind that makes you wish certain guys and gals didn't have the things they do have, and the sulky, worrying kind that makes you wish you did have some of the things they have. And in either case, the feelings are no fun for you. The only way to get rid of those feelings is to analyze them—and yourself—to see what ticks.

Suppose one of the fellows you know is built like a second Tarzan, big and brawny, while you're just five feet four and can't stand the competition. So what? Let him have his king-sized shoulders. It isn't just bulk that counts. Alan Ladd is no super-man and he still collects his fan mail by the thousands. And maybe one of the gals in your crowd has a doting mother who buys her a new dress every single second Saturday. Is that any reason why you should hide in your closet [and in your closet there's room for hiding] to mope? Clothes alone don't make a gal attractive. Give Lana Turner a needle and thread and four big dish towels and she still could turn herself out as smooth as a cover girl. Don't resent any one else's charms, talents, or big red convertibles because there's nothing you can do about it! Why waste your time, your feelings, and your good disposition on something futile? You've got to get used to the idea that the world is full of other wonderful people.

World Needs Great Spiritual Personality, Ministers Are Told

Every generation must produce its own St. Thomas Aquinas, its own Luther, and its own Calvin, Prof. Bernard E. Meland said yesterday in his address opening the 14th annual Pastors institute at the University of Chicago.

Asserting that science has insulated the world from its heritage of accumulated wisdom, Dr. Meland pleaded with theologians to recognize the limitations of liberal theology and the scientific approach to religion. "Spiritual concern is neglected when exactness is made both goal and god," he declared.

"It is not enough that Christians merely give lip service by saying, 'Lord, Lord'; they must cut in between practical realism and impractical idealism to seize upon those insights which bring human reasoning, human planning, and human hopes into accord with what is shaping the spirit of the age."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 30—Walt Disney tells me he's adding "Casey at the Bat" to "Make Mine Music." "Casey" will be done in song, and the singer may be John Charles Thomas. At least, Walt's hoping. . . . Ludwig Bemelmans' book about Hollywood, "Dirty Eddie," is a little different. It's the story of a pig whose seven brothers and sisters were born pink and white while he was a dirty black. His mother didn't want to feed him, so he spent most of his life sulking under the shed and made pig history. Success went to his head, he lost his porky streamlining, and the only person who understood him was his producer. You can hang every sin in the calendar on a character like that, and don't worry, Bemelmans will. . . . The first musical score Jules Stein and Sammy Cahn did was for "The Umpire's Daughter," which George Abbott was threatening to produce on Broadway. Now Paramount has bought it for Eddie Bracken. I'm wondering if Eddie will be lucky enough to have Bing Crosby open up his vocal cords for him.

Vote of Thanks for Harmony

Our government officials will never know how much good they did the movie industry when they took our top producers overseas. It's the first time they ever really got together in harmony. There wasn't a clout in a carload. They love each other so much, they've formed a club, and once a year will get together, if only for gin rummy. . . . Catherine Willard, the former Mrs. Ralph Bellamy, has always been a fine actress. That's why she's about to start rehearsals in "You Touched Me," which will star Edmund Gwenn. . . . Meredith Willson and Charles Vanda are out of uniform. They've done their job. Col. Teli Sherman is still in. He's doing a magnificent job with less said about him than anybody in town. . . . Arline Judge, who's returning to New York when she becomes Mrs. Morgan Ryan, tells me, "You know it was Shirley Temple, Mischa Auer, and Joan Blondell who killed my movie chances." When I asked why, she said, "Well, aren't they all comics?"

Heigh-Ho and a Nonny

Peggy Keeps Very Busy

Peggy Wood says she may have to beg Paramount [now that she's working there] to let her sleep on the lot. Having toured England for so many months in "Blithe Spirit," she can sleep any place. Annabella [Mrs. Tyrone Power] was with her in France. Peggy says Annabella was grateful to be in her own country, even tho her brother died from the effects of a concentration camp and her father also passed away. She was able to give comfort to her mother. After Peggy returned to America, she did another job as civilian consultant. She rounded up 100 American girls from colleges, small theaters, etc. They're being sent over to act with GIs in GI shows. She was six weeks doing this, and when she saw them all together, she said, "O, golly, aren't they wonderful. Ah, to be young again!"

He's Good

Frank Orsatti and Ted Saucier have a deal pending for a picture around El Morocco. Hey, fellows, wait for Jerome Zerbe, who has all kinds of medals for his work in the South Pacific. Before that, society belles pinned medals on him for his pretty pictures of them against the zebra stripes. . . . Joseph Schildkraut plays "Spanish Jack," an actual character, in "Old Sacramento" with Joseph Kane producing and directing at Republic. . . . "Hey, East!" shouted Sam Wood. "Hey, North!" came from Camera Man Joe Valentine. "Hey, West!" from Ginger Rogers. Henry East is the dog trainer; Henry North, electrician, and Henry West, wardrobe man—all on the set of "Heartbeat." . . . Sheila Sullivan writes from Detroit: "What's the matter with Hollywood? Jeanette MacDonald sang before an audience of 10,000 here—the largest of the season. Even our music critics, who never thought much of her voice before, raved about it. So why aren't Jeanette and Nelson Eddy set for a picture in your town?" She added, "Three cheers for Cecil B. De Mille. He's a real American and we're proud of him."

RESTUDY TUBES FOR NORTH SIDE AUTO CROSSINGS

Engineers Again Turn to 9 Million Dollar 1940 Plan

BY ROBERT HOWARD

Engineers studying means of carrying automobile traffic across the northern end of Chicago's business center yesterday started to review recommendations made in 1940 for parallel tunnels in Elm and Cedar sts. The project was suggested by the Cook county department of highways.

Superior, Huron, Erie, and Ontario sts. would be made one way streets to carry surface traffic between the lake front and the proposed northwest super-highway under the county proposal. Other highway officials did not approve it, and no final plans have yet been made to construct any route in that vicinity.

$9,400,000 Cost Estimate

Maj. George A. Quinlan, county superintendent of highways, in 1940 placed a $9,400,000 estimate on the cost of the near north side superhighway distributor system. Of that, $3,400,000 would be for purchase of right of way and 6 millions for tunnel and pavement construction.

From Lake Shore dr., via the tunnels or surface streets, motorists could reach the northwest superhighway, which the county engineers said should be a wide, depressed thorofare, dividing uninterrupted streams of traffic. The recommended route was just west of Sedgwick st., from Chicago av. to Division st. Northwest toward the suburbs, in general it would follow Clybourn and Elston avs.

Three Lane Tunnels

The Elm st. tunnel would carry three west bound lanes of automobiles. A block south, in Cedar and Hill sts., a similar tube would speed cars eastward under the street car tracks and other slow moving surface traffic. The tunnels would terminate in the present Oak st. beach, and the refusal of park officials to tear up that bathing site was one reason for the failure of local governmental bodies to agree on northwest super-highways.

Removal of traffic interruptions just north of the Drake hotel, where Michigan blvd. merges with the outer drive, also were part of the county program. Many cars now must stop there for lights to change.

Quinlan's plan called for Superior and Erie sts. to be west bound arteries in the system of one way surface streets, while Huron and Ontario would be one way east bound streets.

Orleans St. Crossing Suggested

The county engineers did not recommend a route to join the northwest super-highway at Chicago av. with Wacker dr., but said the necessary connection might cost $4,400,000. Most highway planners have suggested the super-highway cross the Chicago river at Orleans st., just west of the Merchandise Mart. From that point, motorists could go around or into the loop.

City engineers think the northwest super-highway should start west of the river's north branch and follow the Wisconsin division of the North Western railroad. They would provide a loop on Erie and Orleans sts. to take motorists to the edge of the near north side.

Movement of the business district northward has caused civic leaders to take an increased interest in means of enabling motorists to reach the rapidly growing territory. The actual center of the city now reaches as far north as Oak st., business executives say.

Alternate Routes Studied

County engineers in the 1940 study went into alternate routes. A close study, with a 9 million dollar cost estimate, was given to the idea of crossing the near north side at Illinois st. with a depressed route as far east as Rush st. and a tunnel under Michigan av.

Another proposal, with an $11,800,000 price tag, called for twin tunnels in Ontario and Ohio sts. from Orleans st. to the lake front. Other studies were made of elevated and depressed routes along Erie st.

LOYOLA U. TO OFFER TWO YEARS OF STUDY UNDER GI RIGHTS BILL

A two year educational program at Loyola university for veterans availing themselves of the provisions under the GI bill of rights was announced yesterday by Thomas M. Kennedy, director of veterans' affairs at the university. The program covers industrial relations, accounting, journalism, inter-American affairs, and sociology.

"Many veterans will not be entitled to much more than two years of college under the GI bill, most will want to become wage earners as soon as possible, and others will not want to spend more than two years in college before resuming normal life," Mr. Kennedy said.

Altho the two year program is oriented toward vocational preparation, Mr. Kennedy explained that Loyola's fundamental aims in liberal education would be emphasized by requiring basic courses in English, philosophy, history, government, and religion.

No student with less than three years of high school, or its equivalent thru in-service training, will be admitted, and the certificate of proficiency requires the completion in two years of 24 courses in the program selected.

140,000 BOGUS POINTS PUT LID ON MEAT SHOP

Alvin Horn, owner of Horn's meat market, 5610 Cermak rd., Cicero, yesterday was ordered suspended from business for the duration of rationing. The office of price administration accused him of turning in 140,000 counterfeit red ration points. Thomas E. Fairchild, OPA hearing commissioner, ruled, however, that Horn might petition for reinstatement at a date to be set later by the commissioner. Horn testified that he purchased the 140,000 points from a stranger he met in a restaurant. He thought he was buying valid points. Testimony showed that Horn closed his shop voluntarily on June 15.

MAN AND WIFE FOUND DEAD IN MERCY KILLING

Woman Incurably Ill, Police Told

Robert J. Walker, 41, of 9718 Forest av., a bridgetender, shot and killed his wife, Marie, 41, who was incurably ill, and then shot himself yesterday in their bungalow, in what police described as a mercy killing.

Mrs. Walker's body, clad in a silk nightgown, was found sprawled between the dining room and her bedroom, by a neighbor, Mrs. Isabelle Hunter, 9722 Forest av., who dropped in for a visit. Mrs. Walker had been shot thru the heart with a shotgun.

Body Found on Chair

Walker's body was found seated in a chair in the basement. Apparently he seated himself in the chair, placed the shotgun on a table, and pushed the trigger with a yardstick.

The bodies were found at 1:50 p. m. Both had been dead about three hours.

The Walkers had been married five years. They had no children. Neighbors said they appeared to be a devoted couple.

Deeply in Love with Wife

Walker's brother, William, of 10807 Avenue G, a chemist, told police his brother was very much in love with his wife and that the thought of living without her must have tormented him so much that he decided on the double slaying.

Walker was employed by the Interlake Iron corporation's coke plant at 11236 Torrence av.

Tentative Identification Made of Soldier's Body

A body tentatively identified as that of George Dunn, 27, of 4665 Lake Park av., a technician 4th class in the army, was recovered off 55th st. yesterday. He was drowned while swimming last Thursday. Army authorities said the finger prints would be sent to Washington to be checked against Dunn's file.

When he subscribed in 1898 he was awarded a wall clock as a premium. The clock has been keeping accurate time on the wall of his laboratory ever since, he said yesterday, without a single repair except for an occasional oiling. "It's the darndest thing I ever saw," Dr. Bridgman said, "ticking away like that for 47 years. I guess it never will wear out. I wouldn't sell it for anything."

SUIT TO PREVENT RELIGIOUS STUDY SET FOR SEPT. 10

Champaign, Ill., July 30 (AP)—Circuit Judge Frank B. Leonard today set the hearing on Mrs. Vashti McCollum's religious education suit against the Champaign board of education for Sept. 10. A hearing originally set for Aug. 3 was continued until that date.

The suit was filed June 12 by Mrs. McCollum, former University of Illinois faculty member and wife of an assistant professor in the college of agriculture, seeking to ban religious education in Champaign's public schools.

Mrs. McCollum said in her petition that she was an "atheist or rationalist" and that she filed the suit as a taxpayer.

NASTER'S TRIAL ON TAX CHARGE SET FOR SEPT. 24

Federal Judge Elwyn R. Shaw yesterday set Sept. 24 for the trial of Bert K. Naster, owner of the Superior Electrical Industries, Inc., 1255 S. Campbell av., who is under an indictment on a charge of willful evasion of income taxes totaling $221,575 for the years 1940 thru 1943. Naster entered a plea of not guilty, and asked that the trial be postponed until fall because he could not find a lawyer.

MATE, 80, AGREES TO GO BACK TO BLIND WIFE, 78

Judge John M. Tuohy in Superior court yesterday persuaded William Klensch, 80, of 3555 N. Marshfield av., to return to his blind and semi-invalid wife, Bertha, 78. Klensch agreed to a 30 day reconciliation.

"Your wife wants to spend her remaining years in her own home," her attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, said. "She knows every inch of the home, which is important to a blind person."

Only four years remain until the couple can celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Klensch's bill for separate maintenance, which charged her husband with desertion, was continued pending the outcome of the reconciliation period.

He punished himself for fun!

CHARLES F. LUMMIS was a hard man, and the harder the going, the better he liked it. On September 12, 1884, he set out from Cincinnati on a roundabout walk that ended February 1, 1885, in Los Angeles. 3507 miles in 143 days! On his best day he covered 79 miles. He cured blisters by walking on them. He broke his arm, set it himself, then walked 30 consecutive hours through the snow-bound Rocky Mountains.

Mr. Lummis enjoyed walking great distances. Most people don't. Yet tens of thousands are walking whether they like it or not . . . motorists whose cars have worn out.

How about your car . . . is it getting the special professional attention that can check wear?

JEFF CRAVATH JOINS ALL-STAR STAFF FOR 2D YEAR

TROJAN COACH PROMISES BAD NEWS FOR PROS

Guides 2 Rose Bowl Champions

Jeff Cravath

BY ARCH WARD

Jeff Cravath, whose Southern California football teams have won Rose bowl games the last two years, will represent the Pacific coast on the All-Star coaching staff. He joins Howie Odell of Yale and Jim Lookabaugh of Oklahoma A. & M. on the strategy board which eventually will include five of the nation's most widely known collegiate gridiron leaders.

This will be Cravath's second year in a row as a member of the All-Star staff. He was an assistant to Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern in 1944. He will be the only holdover member from last season's group.

"We came close to beating the Bears last year," he recalled in accepting appointment, "but a couple of mistakes in the final quarter were costly. We'll try to avoid them this time and if we are successful, the Green Bay Packers will have a stormy evening on Aug. 30."

1944 Eleven Undefeated

Cravath's Southern California teams have not been beaten by college opponents in two seasons. His 1944 eleven was undefeated and climaxed its brilliant record with a 25 to 0 victory over Tennessee in the Rose bowl. A year previous the Trojans blanked Washington, 29 to 0, in the Tournament of Roses spectacle.

Cravath, an alumnus of Southern California, was appointed head coach at his alma mater three years ago after Sam Barry joined the navy. Barry, a lieutenant commander on the Naval Air Technical Training command staff in Chicago, succeeded the late Howard Jones as gridiron leader of the Trojans.

Silences Adverse Criticism

In 1943 Cravath departed from the Jones style of play and installed the T formation with a man in motion. There was some criticism of his judgment in switching systems, just as there was at Notre Dame when Frank Leahy went to the T, but the success of his 1943 team silenced adverse criticism.

This will be Cravath's eighth season as a head coach. He made his debut at Denver university in 1929 where he remained three years. From Denver he returned to Southern California as assistant to Jones. He was chosen head coach at San Francisco university in 1941 and his team established a high scoring record for that institution.

Stresses Offensive Play

The coach of the Trojans was born in Breckenridge, Colo., on Feb. 5, 1905, but moved early in his boyhood to Santa Ana, Cal., where he developed into one of the coast's outstanding high school football centers. He enrolled at Southern California in 1923 and played center on the freshman team, an undefeated unit that was scored upon only once. His three year record with the U. S. C. varsity won him recognition as the best center in Trojan history.

Cravath, like Lookabaugh and Odell, other members of the All-Star staff, stresses offensive football. So does Curly Lambeau of the Packers. From which you may gather that Chicago's 12th annual charity game shapes up as a slam bang, high scoring contest.

Call for Musicians

MUSICIANS who wish to join the College All-Star band, which will appear in Soldiers' field the night of the All-Star game, Aug. 30, are asked to communicate with Ray Dvorak, director of bands at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

THE "Dictionary of American English," published after 25 years of work by the University of Chicago, recorded that the word baseball was obscure in the United States until 1850. . . . Now it appears there will have to be some changes made. . . . Use of the word as far back as 1762, three years before the Stamp Act, has been brought to the attention of Mitford M. Mathews, editor of the dictionary department of the University Press, who is compiling a shorter version of the dictionary, "Dictionary of Americanisms." . . . Frances L. Palmer of the diocese of Minnesota sent Mr. Mathews a copy of "The Month at Godspeed's," which revealed that in 1762 Hugh Gaine published in New York "A Little Pretty Book," apropos of which Robert W. Henderson comments in his bibliography of early American sport: "Small woodcuts of games, including baseball and angling." . . . Altho no known copies of the book exist, this is the first mention of baseball in the United States. . . . In 1787 Isaiah Thomas issued "The First Worchester Edition," a juvenile book in which one page was devoted to a woodcut and poem on baseball. . . . Baseball, poetically described in the Thomas edition, consisted of:

The ball once struck off,
Away flies the boy
To the next destined post
And then home with joy.
Moral:
Thus seamen for lucre
Fly over the main,
But with pleasure transported
Return back again.

Northwestern university's athletic gold star honor roll was increased to 19 when Sgt. Paul Basso, captain of the 1942 fencing team, who had been reported missing in a bombing flight over Germany, was officially announced dead by the war department. . . . Basso prepped at Austin High school. . . . Ensign Marshall Goldberg, Chicago Cardinals' half back, now on duty in the South Pacific, recently saved a Negro sailor who had fallen overboard. . . . Goldberg, it is reported, had a narrow escape from drowning in the successful rescue. . . . Gov. Wallgren of Washington once held a national amateur billiard championship. . . . Jack Brickhouse, who broadcasts the home and road games of the White Sox, stages a new high in busmen's holidays when the Sox are playing Sunday double headers in the east. . . . He broadcasts the game for a downtown studio, then dashes to Wrigley field for what is left of the double header there.

The pictures of the famous men
Which grace our currency
Are really rather interesting,
Just look at them and see.

George Washington, our honored first,
Of whom we justly boast,
Is on the "buck" or dollar bill—
The one we use the most.

Ben Franklin's on the century—
No diplomat was finer—
While on the two is Jefferson,
A Declaration signer.

Abe Lincoln graces every five,
A portrait fair and true;
The twenty features Jackson, or

Home Is the Hunter

I've often heard the word "ecstasy,"
Myself I've often times used it,
But I've come to the conclusion
That I've very sadly abused it,
For in choosing the word to describe some things
That I may have seen or heard,
I've only found out that I never knew
The real meaning of that word.
But I learned about it this morning
From a soldier all done with the fray,
When I asked him, just to be talking,
"Are you glad that you're home to stay."
"Glad?" he exclaimed, "Glad isn't the word!"
And into his eyes came a look
That I'd never seen on the silver screen
Or in any picture or book.
Home from the hills is the hunter,
Back from those years so well spent,
I glimpsed Paradise in that boy's shining eyes,
And "home, sweet home's" what it meant!

WAR JEEP WINS $20,000 RACE AT WASHINGTON

Fighting Step 2d, Sea Swallow 3d

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

War Jeep, Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham's sleek chestnut son of War Admiral, tacked the $20,000 Constitution purse to his brilliant record yesterday. The Maine Chance farm's colorbearer, ridden by Willie Bailey, whipped the Murlogg farm's Fighting Step, with George South up, by half a length on the strength of a rousing stretch drive in the mile event at Washington Park.

Johnny Adams

Charles S. Howard's Sea Swallow, piloted by Hedley Woodhouse, took down third money after being in contention all the way. The victory netted the winning owner $13,000 and raised War Jeep's earnings for his two campaigns to $72,225, $19,160 of which went with two previous triumphs this year. One was the recent Skokie handicap in which War Jeep beat Pot o' Luck and Fighting Step.

Beldine Takes Early Lead

R. B. Carroll's Beldine, which ran third to Sea Swallow in the $25,000 Yankee handicap at Suffolk Downs recently, broke out in front in the field of nine 3 year olds and held first place for three quarters at which point Sea Swallow was second, a head back, and War Jeep third after getting off sixth.

Turning into the stretch, however, Bailey booted War Jeep into a half length lead over Sea Swallow while South got Fighting Step up into third place, four lengths in front of Beldine, which was fading fast. From then on the War Admiral colt just breezed along tho Fighting Step challenged and was four lengths in front of Sea Swallow as War Jeep crossed the finish line. Sea Swallow's nearest pursuer was Lt. Comdr. T. D. Buhl's Air Sailor which came from far back after hitting the stretch.

War Jeep Returns $7.40

Backers of War Jeep in the ladies' day crowd of 20,000 were rewarded with $7.40, $4.60, and $3.40 across the board. Fighting Step returned $5.60 and $4.20. Sea Swallow paid $6.80 to show. War Jeep negotiated the mile in 1:38.

Successful selectors of the daily double winners received $71.40 when Queen Jody [$4.80] took the opener and Prince Beiltro [$17.80] won the second.

Jockey Adams Hurt

Jockey Johnny Adams suffered a broken collar bone in the third race when his mount, Mint Quest, and Petro Gal, ridden by Al Bodiou, came together in midstretch. Adams was thrown clear when Mint Quest fell but Petro Gal, owned by J. Powell, went on to win and returned $55.40 for a $2 ticket.

Calumet's Good Blood, making her first start since winning the Princess Pat handicap last year, lost by two lengths to J. D. Weil's Witch Sir in the fourth race.

Cubs Play Two with Pirates, Then Go East

BY EDWARD BURNS

The league leading Cubs, who have played errorless baseball in their last six games, all of which they won, sometimes with skimp hit totals and sometimes with ruthless slugging, will open a two game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates in Wrigley field tomorrow. It will be a special ladies' day affair, in which the girls, to crash, will have to donate a cake or a box of cookies for Chicago's service centers.

The Pirates will come to town after a severe shredding in St. Louis, where they were able to salvage only one game out of five and that in the tenth inning. They escaped the clutches of the Cardinals in a fourth place tie with the New York Giants. When the Cards lost to the Reds last night the Dodgers moved into second place by two points over the champions. The Cubs lead the Dodgers and Cards by six games.

Have 7-6 Edge on Pirates

Thus far this season the Cubs have won seven out of 13 matches with the Pirates. The Cubs lost three straight in Pittsburgh, June 12 and 14, and the Pirates went into first place. On June 20 and 21, however, the Cubs cooled off Frankie Frisch and his boys in Chicago by winning, 5 to 3 and 5 to 4, to lift their victory total to the present seven.

And speaking of season series, maybe you'd like to check up on the Cubs' ratios with the several clubs, ratios which are perplexing to form players, we might add. Here's the dope:

	W.	L.	To play
Cubs vs. Cardinals	3	7	12
Cubs vs. Dodgers	8	5	8 1/9
Cubs vs. Pirates	7	6	9
Cubs vs. Giants	6	7	9
Cubs vs. Reds	13	0	9
Cubs vs. Braves	9	4	9
Cubs vs. Phillies	12	3	7

The Cubs-Dodgers 8-5 ratio does not include the game suspended on July 20 with the Dodgers leading, 10 to 4. It is to be finished in Chicago on Sept. 15.

CUBS WIN EXHIBITION, 9-2

Phil Cavarretta hit a three run homer yesterday in the Chicago Cubs' 9 to 2 victory over the Calumet All-Stars in Block stadium, East Chicago. The exhibition, sponsored by the Twin City post, No. 266, of the American Legion, attracted 7,500. Ed Hanyzewski held the All-Stars to four hits in the first four innings, while Lon Warneke yielded three in the last five: Score:

BRAVES APPOINT DEL BISSONETTE NEW MANAGER

New York, July 30 (AP)—Bob Coleman resigned today as manager of the Boston Braves and was replaced by Coach Del Bissonette.

Del Bissonette

Coleman plans to leave for his Evansville, Ind., home immediately and Bissonette will take charge of the seventh place club in tomorrow's double header with the New York Giants.

General Manager John Quinn said Coleman would remain in the Boston organization, returning as a scout later in the season. His contract does not expire until 1946. No announcement was made of a financial settlement altho Coleman said he was being "taken care of."

Handicapped by a series of injuries dating from spring training days, the club has failed to play consistently good ball despite an early season spurt into the first division. Losing nine straight and 12 of their last 14, the Braves plummeted to seventh place.

CARDINALS LOSE TO REDS, 5 TO 4; DROP TO THIRD

St. Louis, Mo., July 30 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds took a 5 to 4 decision in their first game of a series with the St. Louis Cardinals tonight as veteran Ed Heusser turned in his fifth victory of the year.

Doering Wins All-American Amateur Title

Art Doering, no stranger to the honor, staged a dramatic homecoming triumph yesterday to win the All-American Amateur golf championship at the Tam o' Shanter Country club with a great 282, six under par, and one stroke in front of Bob Cochran, St. Louis paper salesman, and Flight Officer Frank Stranahan of Fort Myers, Fla.

Finished with Par 72

Doering, Chicago amateur golf's ablest national representative before he moved to Denver, Colo., sank a tough nine foot putt on the last green to stand off the challenge of Cochran and Stranahan, both of whom came within a stroke of precipitating a triple play-off, such as was required before E. Furgol won last year's crown.

Art, cheered on by his pretty blonde wife, the former Shirley Ann Johnson, herself a fine competitor in her local golf days, finished with a par 72, after having had rounds of 73, 67, and 70. He was happy to have enjoyed all of those yesterday for Cochran, playing with him, fired a smashing 67 which nearly caught Doering.

Tied in 1941 Meet

Doering, National Amateur semi-finalist in 1939, tied for the low amateur prize in the first All-American tourney of 1941 and was leading amateur alone in the Open of 1943. Stranahan captured the same distinction in 1942, and Cochran was runner-up for the All-American Amateur title when it was decided at match play in 1943.

Par—Out	453	444	435	—36
Doering—Out	453	434	445	—36
Cochr'n—Out	353	443	334	—32
Stran'n—Out	543	544	344	—38

Str'n'h'n—In	434	445	344	—35	—73	—210	—283

BREAKS PAR BY 19; SCORES 269 FOR 72 HOLES

Sarazen, Hogan Tie for 2d at 280

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Surprise!

John Byron Nelson, the man who even the gaffers of the Vardon-Hagen-Jones era now admit is the greatest golfer who ever swung a club, yesterday won his fourth and richest All-American Open golf championship in five years with a 72 hole score of 269 at the Tam o' Shanter Country club. We thought you might be interested in the score first, the result being somewhat of a foregone conclusion.

That 269, by the way, was 19 under par, and 11 ahead of the field of gents who nowadays feel they are playing for second money when they tee off against this Texas-born master of every stick in the game. The aforesaid 11 strokes also mark the widest winning advantage in a big show since Craig Wood took the 1940 Metropolitan Open by the same margin.

Breaks His Record for Event

The 269 also reduced Nelson's own Tam o' Shanter record for the full route by nine shots, he having won the first of his four titles with a 278 in 1941.

If the above veers towards the statistical, consider a few more items in the Nelson facts and figures department. Byron yesterday collected $13,200 in war bonds as first prize, same carrying a cash equivalent of $10,200. This raises his 1945 war bond total in the course of winning nine consecutive individual championship to $45,200. And in the last five years he has tapped the Tam o' Shanter lode for a total of $26,975 in cash.

Sarazen, Hogan Tie for 2d

Now about the other folks who have been chasing Byron thru the last five days, five because Saturday's scheduled third round was rained out. Tied at 280, good enough to win most of those fairway shows on which That Man doesn't have his usual full-Nelson grip, were Lt. Ben Hogan of the army air forces in Louisville, Ky., and Gene Sarazen, 43 year old New York veteran who still can teach the game's youngsters a trick or two.

Lt. Hogan, Nelson's pal from their caddy days in Forth Worth, and Sarazen, last and ablest of the old guard still practicing, cut up second and third place moneys for their deadlock, each receiving bonds with a cash equivalent of $4,250. Only a stroke behind them in the run for the valuable prizes offered by George S. May, Tam o' Shanter's maestro, was a threesome of 281 shooters—Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Sanford, Me., only man other than Nelson to win the All-American [after a play-off with Buck White in 1943]; Denny Shute of Akron, O., and Victor Ghezzi of Atlantic City, N. J., both former P. G. A. champions. Each of this trio went away with cash solaces of $2,166.67 in his wallet. Staff Sgt. Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, Cal., left with a bond worth $1,200 in cash as the result of his 67, only other to match Nelson yesterday among the professionals.

Amateur Honor Shared

Amateur honors in the tournament were shared by Bob Cochran, St. Louis paper salesman, and Flight Officer Frank Stranahan of Fort Meyers, Fla. Both had entered the Open as well as the All-American amateur wherein they yielded by a shot to Art Doering. Their 283s, five under par, Cochran's originating from a final 67, left them outdistanced by only seven pros.

Second cash prize of $5,000 might have gone alone to any of the pursuit squad chasing Nelson. Hogan had his chance to break 280, standing on the 17th tee, but found trouble on the last two, turning up bogey fives on each after visits to the rough and sand. Sarazen three putted the troublesome 14th and couldn't wangle a bird out of the long 15th.

A Golf Masterpiece

Nelson's work thruout the tournament constitutes one of his masterpieces. He fired an opening 66, fastest start of his career at Tam o' Shanter, to lead Hogan by a stroke. The lieutenant dropped back on Friday's second round, Sarazen's ace at the 215 yard 16th moving him up to a 138, within reasonable reach of Byron, who shot a 68 for 134. Came Saturday's rainy postponement, and Nelson's outgoing 33, composed thru the deluge on the final six holes, was erased. Sunday Byron returned to work with another 68 for a 202, lowering the 54 hole record of 203

BEARS SIGN 17 NEW PLAYERS TO 1945 CONTRACTS

Team Loses Only Five of 29 from Last Year

BY EDWARD PRELL

This is going to be one of those rare seasons when the Chicago Bears will prepare for a new campaign with the spotlight trained in another direction. The Bears are not professional champions this year. So while the Packers and All-Stars exercise for the big game in Soldiers' field on Aug. 30 the Bears will be diligently working to regain their lost laurels in National league competition.

For weeks now the fallen champions have been concentrating on 1945 personnel. Their efforts have been so successful that yesterday Ralph Brizzolara, the front office chief in the absence of Owner George Halas, navy commander, said that 17 new players have been signed. There may be many more, Brizzolara added. He mentioned that the Bears were working on six highly rated backs and seven linemen.

No Word from Luckman

In addition to all this, the Bears, as far as they know, have lost only five of the 29 men they carried last season. These five are Center Bulldog Turner, Quarter Back Gene Ronzani, Half Back Ray Nolting, Full Back Guard Doug McEnulty, and Guard Tom Roberts. There is no official word on the status of Ensign Sid Luckman, who used his maritime service off days to help out the Bears in most of their games. Luckman has seen much foreign duty this year.

"The outlook isn't at all bad." Brizzolara said. "I am sure we will bolster all positions, except, of course center. We'll really miss Bulldog Turner."

Among the freshman players signed are: Glen Burgeis, 218 pound Tulsa university tackle; Dean George, 175 pound Tulsa half back; Sam Grider, 197 pound left half back from Murray [Ky.] State Teachers; Pete Joseph Perez of Aurora, a 215 pound guard and tackle from the University of Illinois; Reg French, 217 pound tackle from Beloit university; Robert Gove, 195 pound end tackle from St. Mary's of California; Forrest Masterson, 233 pound center from the University of Iowa, and William Mayther, 200 pound center from the University of Oregon.

Coaching Staff Intact

If Bronko Nagurski plans another comeback the Bears aren't saying anything about it. Reports persist that the 37 year old muscle man wants to put on a football suit again. He has left the coaching staff at U. C. L. A. If he returns he will work in the full back department.

The four-man coaching staff of 1944 is intact. In the quartet are Luke Johnsos, Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, Paddy Driscoll, and Carl Brumbaugh. Present plans call for practice to start Aug. 24 at St. Joseph's college, Collegeville, Ind., where the squad drilled last year.

To Adopt New Signals

One of the first functions will be to change the Bear's signals, which now are public property.

"Our old quarter back, Bob Snyder, is with the Rams as a coach this year," remarked Johnsos, who is laying the groundwork for the new numbers. "Most of the other teams are familiar with the signals. After all, we've used them for six or seven years."

Johnsos could have mentioned that Clark Shaughnessy, former Bear advisory coach, is with the Washington Redskins. It was Shaughnessy who devised the Bears' signal setup.

Contracts have been sent out to the 1944 holdovers. These include: Ends—Connie Mack Berry, Abe Croft, Rudy Smeja, and Capt. George Wilson. Tackles—Jake Sweeney, Al Barbartsky, Al Hoptowit, and Dom Sigillo. Guards—George Zorich, George Musso, Pete Gudauskas, and Fred Mundee. Backs—Ray McLean, Henry Bob Margarita, Al Grygo, Johnny Long, Gary Famiglietti, Bill Glenn, Jim Fordham, and Tipp Mooney.

Nelson Wins All-American Fourth Time

which he had set in 1942. It left him six shots up on McSpaden.

Starts Round with Birdie

He notified the rest of the troupe that he wasn't going to relinquish his hold on the lead by hammering out a birdie on the 415 yard first hole, off of a 12 foot putt. It is significant that none of his closest 54 hole rivals could do better than a par four on the same. He tried for an eight foot birdie on the second after hooking and playing over a bunker, but couldn't drop it. He missed the 160 yard third green, but chipped dead for his par. His only bogey of the round, and his seventh in the entire 72, turned up at the fourth, where he drove the rough, and his second wound up in the sand over the green.

At the 275 yard fifth he drove to the left of the green. His recovery landed 12 feet away and he dropped it for a birdie. A drive and a 4 wood gave him a birdie on the 520 yard ninth to send him out in 34. He repeated on the 10th to go three under par, then holed a 10 foot birdie try at the 12th. He was over the 14th green with his second, but chipped dead for his par. A drive and a 4 wood earned him a birdie at the 500 yard 15th, and from there on the man didn't even bother to look over his shoulder in a race that was won.

Prize Winners Listed

Nelson didn't stop at taking away the main prize, but touched off his 8 p. m. departure for the Canadian Open tournament, opening Thursday in Toronto, by picking up the $250 for first low civilian score of the day on his 67. Sgt. Ferrier collected $250 on the 67 with which he led the day's service men.

War bond prize winners among low scoring professionals follow:

Nelson, $13,600; Sarazen and Hogan, $5,666.67 each; McSpaden, Shute, Ghezzi, $2,888.89 each; Ferrier, $1,600; Congdon, Harrison, Kirkwood, $1,222.22 each; Turnesa and T. Illinois Orders Ray Robinson to Fight Lamotta

BY FRANK MASTRO

Chairman Sheldon Clark and Commissioners Harry Scranton and Maj. Lt. Roy D. Keehn of the Illinois Athletic commission yesterday upheld the validity of Ray [Sugar] Robinson's contract for a 12 round bout against Jack Lamotta. They ordered Ray to go thru with the assignment or face indefinite suspension in Illinois and all National Boxing association territory. The contest is scheduled in Comiskey park Aug. 23.

George Gainford, Robinson's manager of record, who committed Ray to the match when offered a $25,000 guarantee, sent a letter to the commission asking that he be relieved of responsibility in signing for the match because he was under suspension at the time. The commission refused the request on the grounds that neither Gainford nor Robinson are under ban in Illinois.

LT. BERG TAKES ALL-AMERICAN WOMEN'S TITLE

Lt. Patty Berg of the Marine Reserve in Philadelphia yesterday won the All-American Women's golf championship at the Tam o' Shanter Country club with a score of 312. Second in the final standings on the Tam o' Shanter scoreboard was Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia, twice Western Amateur titleholder, with 313. Tied for third were Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., and Phyllis Otto of Atlantic, Ia., each with 321. Lt. Berg finished with a 77, Miss Germain with 80, Miss Jameson with 78, and Miss Otto with 81.

May Displays Another Whim

So much for the standings as they appeared on the Tam scoreboard. Actually, under the rules of golf, the event was over Sunday with Miss Germain finishing with a legitimate 72 hole score of 314, against Lt. Berg's 317, and a 320 by the defending champion, Betty Hicks, the Californian who has been registering from the home club.

The third round of the All-American Women's event was completed with all scores duly attested and marked on the public board by 2 p. m. nearly two hours before Saturday rain forced a postponement of the third rounds of the All-American Open and Amateur. It was assumed that the Women's third round, finished under normal conditions, would stand. George S. May, the Tam o' Shanter impresario, suddenly decided on his own that the women's scores should be canceled as well as the American and the amateur.

Would Have Tied for 90 Holes

The result today is that American's first 90 hole medal play competition is over. Considering the scores of Lt. Berg and Miss Germain for the full five rounds they played, they would have finished in a tie, 394 to 394. The cards for yesterday's final Tam o' Shanter round follow:

Par—Out	453	544	435—37
Lt. Berg—Out	552	544	546—40
Miss Germain—Out	453	635	644—40

Sox to Search for Some Runs in Cleveland

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., July 30—James Dykes' runless phenoms, otherwise the White Sox, have only a little more work to dispose of before being permitted to return to their own Comiskey park acres where, it is hoped, they may be able to figure out just what it is that makes them fearful of the 90 feet between third base and home plate. The fear is plainly evident as can be judged by a total of six runs in their last four games.

The lack of runs is doubly distressing because most of the time the hits are plentiful. For instance, 13 hits produced only two runs yesterday. Then there was the series opener when the Sox were blanked despite nine hits off Hal Newhouser. Whether this failure to get dividends on the bat work could be overcome by a shift in the batting order isn't known. Anyway, Dykes is not going to make any changes.

The opener of the last series of the current trip will be played under the lights in the Cleveland stadium tomorrow night and it is barely possible that the mere sight of the Indians will serve as a tonic for the befuddled Chicagoans. The Indians have been pretty good to them thus far, their contribution to the Sox cause being 10 victories in 13 games.

Thornton Lee, who has been taking it easy since he won his 11th game by doing a four inning rescue job against the Yankees a week ago, will try his southpaw skill on the Indians. The Indians also can count on seeing left handed opposition—Ed Lopat—in the second of the series Wednesday afternoon. Johnny Humphries will work in the final.

BARNUM WINS OVER BRATTON IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Joey Barnum, aggressive, two handed swinger from Los Angeles, won an eight round victory over Johnny Bratton, 1944 city Golden Gloves lightweight champion, in Marigold outdoor arena last night.

Barnum's achievement in dealing Bratton his first defeat in seven starts came as a suprise to the 2,329 spectators who paid a gross gate of $4,610.

COURT RULES PUBLIC TRANSIT BODY IS LEGAL

State Supreme Bench Test Is Next Step

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

An important step toward validating the Chicago Metropolitan Transit authority was taken yesterday when Judge Julius H. Miner in Circuit court held that the authority and the state legislation creating it are constitutional in all respects.

Judge Julius H. Miner

The authority was set up to purchase and operate the surface and elevated lines under public ownership. Its governing board already has proposed the issuance of 90 million dollars of revenue bonds to buy the lines and to set up a working cash fund.

Supreme Court Next Step

State's Atty. Tuohy, thru his assistants, Jacob Shamberg and Gordon Nash, challenged the legality of the new public body and its right to issue bonds. He now will carry an appeal to the Illinois Supreme court, whose approval is needed before investment bankers will lend the required millions. The moves are friendly actions to establish the legality of the transit body.

It is regarded as probable that the Supreme court will pass on the matter by mid-September. The state's attorney will file the appeal on or before Aug. 21. If the Supreme court approves, negotiations for the loan may be started, contingent on the acceptance of the authority's bid for the traction properties. The authority will offer 75 million dollars for the surface lines and more than 12 million for the elevated system.

Court Holds Properties

Submission of the bid to the owners of the properties must be made by the federal District court, which controls both companies in bankruptcy. The court will be guided as to fairness of the price by a report of the securities and exchange commission. The report is expected Aug. 13.

Judge Miner in his ruling said that private ownership had "failed dismally" to furnish an adequate local transportation system and that the equipment of the lines is outworn and hazardous. He said the traction problem had been a "buffoon issue" in local politics too long. Chicago, he said, can no longer endure such traction ills, and continued delay would seriously impair the city's progress in the post-war era.

Praises Coöperation

"It required the enlightened and courageous leadership of Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly, after they had exhausted all avenues of relief thru private enterprise, to set aside political differences and to combine their prestige to sponsor and enact the transit authority act for the good of all," the ruling said.

The judge said that ultimate success would depend on efficient and honest administration, but that the present plan gave a "heartening answer to an otherwise unsolvable problem."

The city was represented by William H. Sexton, special traction attorney, in the test of the legislation and the transit board by Werner W. Schroeder, Henry Cutler, and Sveinborn Johnson.

MICHIGAN STATE PRISON WARDEN, 6 OTHERS FIRED

Lansing, Mich., July 30 (AP)—The state corrections commission tonight fired Warden Harry H. Jackson and six other suspended officials of the state prison of southern Michigan who have been accused by Atty. Gen. John R. Dethmers of responsibility for alleged maladministration in the penitentiary.

At the insistance of Dethmers, the commission rescinded its decision of Monday afternoon to grant the seven accused officials a public hearing Aug. 10 and 11.

The commission yielded to Dethmers' assertion that a corrections commission hearing would be unnecessary and that the right of the officials would be protected by the state civil service commission at a constitutional hearing before that agency.

The commission action was taken by a round robin telephone call during the evening and announced in the name of the chairman, Leslie P. Kesgen of Bay City.

GEORGE MEYER, BOTTLING FIRM FOUNDER, DIES

4 U. S. AGENCIES OPEN DRIVE ON TAX CHISELERS

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—A government committee was created today to coördinate the drive against the black marketeer and the tax chiseler.

The new group will consist of representatives of the treasury, justice, and agriculture departments and the office of price administration.

The heads of those four agencies—Secretaries Vinson and Anderson, Atty. Gen. Clark, and Acting Price Administrator Rogers—met today in the office of Atty. Gen. Clark at the suggestion of the treasury secretary, Vinson.

They called reporters in and Vinson said:

"We are all in accord that the drive against the racketeers, the black marketeers, and the tax evaders should be intensified.

"It is fair to say that our study of the problem indicates there has been coördination between the agencies. We will strengthen that coördination."

Then he told of the decision to form a committee to serve as a clearing house.

CHILD WHO PLAYS TOO HARD RUNS RISK OF POLIO, DOCTOR WARNS

Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, Cook county health director, recommended yesterday that parents cooperate in reducing vacation activities of children to help prevent the spread of poliomyelitis.

Over-active youngsters who engage in many sports to the point of physical fatigue are more likely to get infantile paralysis than boys and girls placed on a "lazy" schedule, he explained.

The number of cases reported in Chicago this year is 14, and in Cook county 4, said Mrs. Frances Karlsteen, secretary of the Cook county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Dr. Piszczek said a polio wave now seems centered in Tennessee and is traveling northward.

Chase S. Conover Jr., 14, of 1115 Seward st., Evanston, died yesterday in Evanston hospital of balbar poliomyeletis, first victim of the disease in 13 years in the suburb, Dr. Winston Tucker, health commissioner, said. The boy was stricken four days ago. He was the son of Chase S. Conover, president of Chase Conover company, accountants, at 135 S. La Salle st.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam

BURNITZ — Pvt. Robert Rudolph Burnitz. In loving memory of our dear son and brother, killed in action in New Guinea one year ago today, July 31, 1944.
You left behind broken hearts
That loved you so sincere
That never did and never will Forget you, Bobby dear.
YOUR LOVING FATHER, MOTHER, AND WALTER, EDWARD, CLARENCE, AND RAYMOND.

HAIDA—Edward Haida. In memory of my friend. CONNIE.

HEINBERG—Emily Heinberg. In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, who passed away one year ago today.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
LOVING HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

JOSEPHSON—Augusta Josephson, who passed away July 31, 1934. Forever in my heart.
YOUR LOVING HUSBAND CARL.

KAWCYNSKI—S/Sgt. Thomas J. Kawcynski. A tribute of love everlasting to the memory of our beloved son, brother, and nephew, killed in action Aug. 1, 1943.
The dearest lad the world could hold,
A cherished smile and a heart of gold,
Those who knew him all will know
How much we lost two years ago.
MOTHER, DAD, BROTHER, AND AUNTS.

KING—First Lt. James M. King, U. S. A., 11th infantry, 5th division. In memory of my dear husband, killed in action in France one year ago today.
I still hear your voice and see your smile

G. M. PREPARED TO MEET CIVIL QUOTAS---SLOAN

Second Quarter Net Income Higher

Production of automobiles, trucks, refrigerators, and other products of General Motors corporation will be available up to the limits authorized by the war production board for the period until March 31, 1946, if materials can be obtained. Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman, said yesterday in his quarterly report to stockholders.

Alfred P. Sloan

Reconversion holds many difficulties and limitations while the company maintains top priority to meet military needs until the war with Japan is won. He said not to expect immediate production of a lighter, more economical car, announced recently, because the company is using all engineering and development talent for war goods.

Earns $1.10 Per Share

Second quarter net income was $50,431,654, or $1.10 a common share, compared with $41,709,440, or 90 cents, a year earlier. For the first half of 1945 net income was $89,773,383, or $1.94 a share, against $82,769,895, or $1.78, a year ago. Taxes amounted to $127,200,000 against $139,888,000. A nonrecurring profit of $13,957,787 accrued from the sale of stockholdings in the National Bank of Detroit. Before adding this profit the half year earning was $1.73 a share.

General Motors' quota of total passenger car allotments to March 31, 1946, is 285,288, of which 95,096 are for 1945 production. Commercial truck allotments total 185,316 units for the second half of 1945, and authorization for refrigerator manufacturing may reach 265,000 for each of the last two quarters.

Quotas "Relatively Small"

"This does not mean that General Motors cars, trucks, Frigidaires, and other commercial products will be freely available to the public," he said. "The quotas for commercial production alloted to G. M. are relatively small when compared with its pre-war business."

Deliveries of war materials amounted to $1,749,081,981 in the six months against $2,041,400,467 a year ago. Deliveries of other products were $265,842,842 for total net sales of $2,014,924,823, compared with $183,387,946 and $2,224,788,413, respectively, a year earlier.

The peak rate of war material deliveries was attained early in 1944, he said. Victory in Europe resulted in cut backs and schedule revisions of major volume items.

Sloan outlined the vast task of reconversion and said it "must take place in many plants and portions of plants in many places at the same time."

NEW WPB ORDER EASES COMPLEX PRIORITY RULES

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—The WPB today issued "priority regulation 30" as its first step in the gradual elimination of the complex system of priorities and materials allotments. By the year's end a single priority rating, designated MM, will be used almost exclusively for military purposes.

Manufacturers who supply parts and products going into both military and civilian use will be expected to get their 1946 materials by using the MM priorities granted to the war contractor who buys from them, WPB said.

Those who cannot operate in this manner will be required to fill out a form before Aug. 15 requesting that WPB give them the MM priority rating directly.

Fraud Charged in Mine Stock Sale by Chicagoan

A suit to enjoin R. H. Blakesley, 6327 Kenmore av., and his brother, A. E. Blakesley, Denver, Colo., from making alleged fraudulent representations to prospective purchasers of stock in Pandora Metals, Inc., was filed in federal District court yesterday by Thomas Hart, regional securities and exchange commission administrator. The suit alleged that since 1932 the brothers sold more than 600,000 shares in the midwest on the "fraudulent" claim there was silver on the property.

Gaylord Products Buys Beauty Equipment Maker

Gaylord Products, Inc., manufacturer of bobby pins and hairpins, yesterday announced the purchase of W. G. Shelton company, St. Louis, Mo., maker of permanent wave machines and other beauty shop equipment. Offices of the new Gaylord-Shelton, Inc., will be in Chicago.

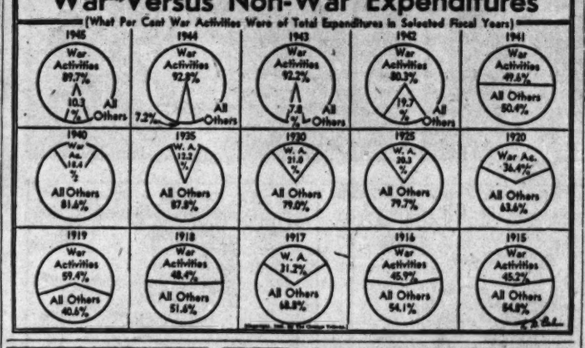
War-Versus Non-War Expenditures

(What Per Cent War Activities Were of Total Expenditures in Selected Fiscal Years)



General Mills Profit Rises to 6½ Million

General Mills yesterday reported net earnings rose to $6,474,493, or $8.07 a share, in the fiscal year ended May 31 from $5,556,912, or $6.69 a share, a year ago. Sales totaled 280 million dollars, against 281 millions last year, but army and navy business increased.

James F. Bell, chairman of the board, said the United States had been "blessed with a good wheat crop this year, but the idea that we can feed the whole world out of this bread basket is completely out of reason." He believed the corn crop, tho delayed by heavy rains, would be "ample for our own supplies."

Plans Home Appliance Output

New home appliances, including electric irons and pressure cooking utensils, will be manufactured as soon as government contracts permit in the most radical departure of General Mills' production in its history, said Bell.

Bell said a proposal to split common shares on a three-for-one basis was under consideration to broaden the potential market. Also under consideration is a proposal to obtain additional capital thru early sale of 10 million dollars of convertible preferred stock.

Net income of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company for the second quarter of 1945 was $1,971,364, or 94 cents a share, against $2,338,528, or $1.17, a year ago. For the first half of 1945 net income was $3,950,946, or $1.89 a share, compared with $4,128,221, or $2.18.

Expand La Porte Plant

The company announced a 10 million dollar expansion of the corporation's La Porte, Ind., plant had been approved and would start immediately. The harvester works will be more than doubled in capacity and a line of corn, hay, and silage equipment will be added. Road grading equipment formerly made at La Porte, will be produced at the Springfield, Ill., unit, also to be expanded.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. and wholly owned subsidiaries reported net profit of $17,548,695, or $1.41 a share, for the second quarter of 1945, compared with $16,809,607, or $1.34, a year ago. Net income in the six months ended June 30 was $36,345,692, or $2.93 a share, against $34,052,469, or $2.72, a year earlier.

Sales the first half of the year were $326,402,748, excluding products made in government owned plants, compared with $303,390,223 a year earlier.

Rolling Mill Profit Rises

American Rolling Mill company earnings were $2,071,925 in the second quarter of 1945, equal to 54 cents a common share, compared with $1,212,456, or 25 cents, a year earlier, Charles R. Hook, president, reported.

W. P. Witherow, president of Blaw-Knox company, said shipments for the first half of 1945 were almost double a year ago and should be maintained at the present rate because most unfilled orders were for navy ordnance material. Net earnings in the half year were $1,432,718, or $1.07 a share, compared with $865,799, or 65 cent a share, in the first six months of 1944.

DEMAND SHARE OF SURPLUS FOR SMALL BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—The senate small business committee urged today that the reconversion program be amended to assure small companies their share of scarce materials. The committee expressed concern that "unplanned reconversion" may bring on a "mad scramble" for materials in which bigger companies will "indulge in preemptive buying."

It proposed that the WPB "adopt a definite policy of setting aside a proportionate share of basic materials and parts for the exclusive use of smaller business concerns, based on previous usage of such materials by individual small plants."

RETAIL PRICE CEILING OF $1,090 IS FIXED BY OPA ON CIVILIAN JEEP

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—The OPA today established a price ceiling for the civilian jeep—four wheel drive counterpart of the military jeep. It is $1,090 f. o. b. Toledo, O., dling, and optional equipment. The jeeps are made by Willys-Overland Motors.

The price is higher than the pre-war selling price of light passenger cars, but OPA said the vehicle was basically not a light passenger car but rather a four wheel half ton truck.

The jeep was priced as a "new product" in the automotive truck field. Consequently the pricing action is not connected with reconversion pricing of new 1945 passenger cars, the OPA said.

DISCUSS AUTO PRICES

OPA officials from Washington, D. C., will meet with members of the OPA automotive advisory committee in the Stevens hotel today to discuss price ceilings on new cars. A principal question is whether the manufacturer or distributor shall absorb increased costs if ceilings are established at 1942 levels.

3 YEAR DECREASE OF CARS IN USE TOPS 3½ MILLION

Detroit, Mich., July 30 [Special]—Passenger cars are going out of use at a rate of more than 3,365 a day, R. L. Polk & Co., automotive statistician, disclosed today in a report on license registrations, the first since Pearl Harbor.

Car mortality has averaged slightly more than 140 an hour, based on a comparison of car license registrations in 1944 and 1941. Between July 1, 1941 and July 1, 1944, a total of 3,585,089 passenger cars disappeared from the highways. Total car registrations on July 1, 1944, were 24,114,922.

An analysis of registrations by make of car showed automotive manufacturers are beginning new car production under government quotas this year in much the same relative competitive position they occupied in 1941, Polk said.

Widespread population shifts caused by war time industrial movement were reflected in car owner registration movements. In some counties where war production has been concentrated, car registrations have increased more than 50 per cent above the 1941 figures.

INITIAL RULING ON FOREMEN IS MADE BY WLB

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—Procedure for handling grievances of foremen affiliated with production workers' unions was established today by the war labor board at the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company yards, at Kearny and Port Newark, N. J.; Maryland Drydock company yards, Baltimore, and Baldwin Locomotive works, Eddystone, Pa.

It was the first decision by WLB relating to working conditions of foremen and supervisory employes, and was limited to the affiliated groups because they were not covered by a recent ruling by the national labor relations board.

The NLRB held the American Foremen's association was a proper agent for Packard Motor Car company supervisors in Detroit, principally because it was independent of any unions over whose members the foremen have authority.

PREDICTS LARGE DROP IN SUPPLY OF SOFT DRINKS

The soft drink supplies for civilians in August will be 220 million bottles smaller than a year ago, Joseph W. Milner, president of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, said yesterday. Because of the sugar shortage the supply during August, usually the hottest month of the year, will be smaller than in January, which marked the low point of cold weather consumption, he said.

Chicago War Output High Thru Diversity

The high and rising level of war production in the Chicago area, reported by a senate war investigating committee, is caused largely by its diversity of products, including air and naval equipment, the regional war production board said yesterday.

The committee said the Chicago area, unlike Detroit, would produce in the current third quarter about 23 per cent more war materials than in the first quarter of this year. By fall the increase will amount to 29 per cent. At present Detroit is about 46 per cent below the first of the year, and will be down 76 per cent by the fourth quarter, it said.

Makes B-29 Engines

One reason Chicago output remains high is the manufacture of B-29 Super Fortress aviation engines by the Dodge Chicago plant of the Chrysler corporation for the rapidly expanding offensive against Japan. It employs more than 20,000 workers.

Production of radio and radar equipment for the navy was another reason for sustained production. The Chicago area produces about 35 per cent of the total and its share may grow as the navy expands its initiative in the Pacific, the board said.

The regional board also explained 25 to 30 per cent of all equipment in the merchant ships supplying the Japanese front is manufactured in the Chicago area.

Man Power Remains Short

The large demand for output is reflected in Chicago man power needs. Altho other cities are being removed from the scarce labor area lists, Chicago retains its No. 1 critical labor classification. From 18,000 to 20,000 workers are needed for jobs in top priority plants.

Discussing Chicago production, the senate committee said:

"Many of the plants which have been cut back there are not readily adaptable to reconversion, while other cutbacks have released contractors to work on war-supporting products such as railroad cars, trucks, and farm machinery."

2,875 WESTERN TRAINS DELAYED BY LACK OF MEN

Man power shortages have delayed operation of 2,875 trains on western railroads and temporarily tied up 851 switch engines since July 1, W. P. Kirk, western rail director of the office of defense transportation, said yesterday. More than 13,000 freight cars were rerouted or diverted from regular routes to avoid congestion.

Kirk termed the movement of empty westbound cars one of the biggest problems. Altho approximately 400 refrigerator cars are loaded for the west daily, 1,000 more of these cars move westward empty.

The loading of 500 additional refrigerator cars each day on their way west to pick up eastward movements of fresh fruits and vegetables would materially reduce the total movement of cars in both directions, he asserted.

4 WAYS TO EASE SOAP SHORTAGE ARE SUGGESTED

Louis C. Upton, president of the American Washer and Ironer Manufacturers' association, said yesterday he has recommended four proposals to Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to aid in early alleviation of the soap shortage. He urged a quick increase in production of cottonseed and soybean oil; asked action to increase the supply of lard; urged copra crushing in the United States if it proves impossible to move necessary machinery to the Philippines, and suggested a constant resurvey of the needs of the army and navy so that excessive supplies will not be accumulated.

Mt. Vernon Company Gets Order for 300 Box Cars

Mount Vernon Car Manufacturing company, a division of H. K. Porter company, yesterday announced Clinchfield Railroad company has ordered 300 50-ton steel box cars for delivery in the first quarter of 1946.

STRUCK RUBBER PLANT IS TAKEN OVER BY ARMY

Producer of Tires for Super Forts

Detroit, Mich., July 30 (AP)—A group of army officers headed by Col. Harvey Humlong, representing the war department, seized Detroit's strikebound United States Rubber company plant late this afternoon by Presidential proclamation.

The strike, the result of a jurisdictional dispute, had halted the production of tires for B-29 bombers. More than 39,000 employes remained idle thruout the country in 27 work stoppages.

Strike Two Weeks Old

The rubber plant strike began two weeks ago after the dismissal of 12 workers at the request of local 101, United Rubber Workers [CIO]. The union accused them of anti-union activities.

The rebel faction set up a picket line and for more than a week kept most of the 6,000 workers from entering the plant. Subsequently about 50 per cent of the workers returned to their jobs and the remainder voted last Friday to go back to work today.

The picket line was active again today and a company spokesman reported that less than half of a normal day shift of 2,800 workers had entered the plant. Col. Humlong immediately notified all workers to return to their jobs on their next regular shifts.

Tire Loss Totals 70,000

An army spokesman said the strike had cost the army air forces and ordnance department 70,000 military tires. The plant seizure followed release of a cablegram from Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay in the Pacific asserting that if the supply of air forces tires were interrupted "bombing operations against Japanese military and industrial installations must cease," and the war be prolonged.

The Presidential proclamation released at the White House in Washington, said that "the war effort will be unduly impeded or delayed" by interruption of work at the plant.

Government control and operation will end within 60 days after the war department determines that productive efficiency has been restored.

FARMERS TRIM LAMB SUPPLIES AS PRICES FALL

Owners of sheep flocks in the corn belt as well as western range producers curtailed lamb shipments to market yesterday after last week's severe price decline and the announcement the government soon will begin paying a subsidy on sheep and lambs directly to producers and feeders instead of to packers.

Prices again were under pressure at the Chicago stock yards, despite the tightening of supplies. Some classes of sheep and lambs sold off 25 cents more per hundred pounds. Only top grades of new crop lambs held steady, selling up to $15.25, equal to last week's close, but $1.15 below a week ago.

Cattle receipts were largest in three weeks, at 17,000, but quality was not up to that of recent weeks. Best grades of corn fed stock ruled steady to strong, with steers above $17 in largest demand.

The 10,000 hog run, including direct shipments to packers, sold mostly at ceiling prices.

Small Companies Protest Ceilings on Carbon Steel

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—An informal protest was lodged today with the OPA against ceiling prices for carbon steel. Robert Wolcott of Lukens Steel company, appearing on behalf of his own firm and some 40-odd other nonintegrated companies, complained that present maximums are inadequate, particularly because of cutbacks in war orders.

Press Job Guarantee by U. S.; Bank Warns of Plan's Danger

Free Economy Test

Washington, D. C., July 30 (AP)—A group of senators urged in public hearings today that the government guarantee work for all who need jobs. They said private enterprise would stand or fall on its ability to provide jobs and prevent government from stepping in.

Wayne Morse

The senate banking committee opened two days of hearings on a bi-partisan measure designed to provide federally financed work when private investment and expenditure fall below the level necessary to provide jobs for enough people. It would require the President to submit to congress each year a "national production and employment budget."

Refer to British Election

Chairman Wagner [D., N. Y.], and Senators Murray [D., Mont.], and Morse [R., Ore.], said the issue of post-war employment was the primary factor in the British election upheaval which ousted the Churchill government.

Murray said the British "turned toward socialism" as a possible solution to post-war security. Unless this country provides a program of job opportunity for all, there will be "nothing but conflict and recrimination" for the traditional capitalistic system, he warned.

"It was recognized that the young men of Great Britain were confronted with the danger of no economic opportunity when they return from the wars," Morse asserted. "Democracy rests on capitalism and capitalism rests on democracy. If we don't make them work together, we'll lose both."

Speaks for Tobey, Aiken

Morse spoke also for Senators Tobey [R., N. H.] and Aiken [R., Vt.], requesting permission to appear next fall with amendments and to seek the right to be co-sponsors of the measure under consideration.

Sen. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] said unless government plans now how best to utilize private enterprise, "we'll lose our freedom."

Theory Is Assailed

Full employment cannot be guaranteed in a free society, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York said yesterday in opposition to the full employment bill before congress. It warned a democratic government charged with such a burden would find its powers unequal to its task and would tend inevitably toward authoritarianism.

The proposed legislation would place on the federal government the "explicit and continuing responsibility" for the aggregate volume of employment and unemployment, the bank said in its monthly bulletin.

Says Theory Unsupported

"The experience of recent years certainly does not support the theory that budgetary deficits have an inherent tendency to promote prosperity and budgetary surpluses to create depression," it asserted. "During the 1920s, when the federal budget showed a consistent surplus and the public debt was reduced at an average rate of approximately a billion dollars a year, business in the United States enjoyed a period of unprecedented prosperity.

"In the 1930s the experience was reversed. An uninterrupted series of annual treasury deficits was accompanied by persistent depression. Governmental spending during that period unquestionably provided jobs temporarily, but it completely failed to lay a foundation for jobs in private business without public support."

Warns of Political Factor

Experience has shown public spending cannot be treated merely as an economic instrument, but it is a political factor providing patronage and attracting votes, the bank said. A supposedly temporary spending program undertaken for economic purposes tends to develop into a permanent political mechanism, it warned.

The necessity of preventing serious hardship in times of large unemployment is beyond question, the bank said. The aid should be extended as economically as possible, should be paid for as largely as possible from current revenue, and should not be on such a high scale as to leave workers no incentive to seek employment in self-sustaining trade and industry, it contended.

SEPTEMBER RYE AT PEAK, LEADS GRAIN ADVANCE

The September rye future advanced 3½ cents a bushel yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade to $1.49¾, the highest price in five weeks, and closed at the top. The deferred months gained 1¼ to 2½ cents, with the September-December spread widening to 7 cents at one time, compared with a recent 3 cents.

Oats were strong in the face of the largest receipts of cash supplies since July, 1938. The close was ⅞ to 1½ cents higher. Wheat was dull, ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, corn unchanged to ¼ higher with all deliveries at the ceiling, and barley gained ½ to 1 cent.

General short covering in rye, partly on stop loss orders and buying of September against sales of December by spreaders caused the advance.

The ceiling on cash corn will be unchanged, said Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. Farmers are receiving full parity, he said.

No tenders of cash corn were made on uncompleted contracts for 7,875,000 bushels of July corn, and the failure of sellers to deliver is expected to be brought before the directors of the exchange today. Traders who defaulted on May corn were penalized 1¼ cents a bushel.

Schenley Arranges New Bank Credit of 75 Millions

New York, July 30 (AP)—Schenley Distillers corporation said today it had arranged a new credit agreement dated Aug. 1 with 23 banks which will make available a total credit of 75 million dollars for 10 years. An existing agreement that made 63 millions available is being ended.

U. S. Will Return 1,700 Truck Lines to Owners

The government tomorrow will return to the owners 1,700 Chicago truck lines which were seized under Presidential orders of May 23 and June 15 in a labor dispute, the office of defense transportation reported yesterday. Approximately 15,000 drivers and helpers were made idle by the strike which ended June 27, 10 days after the army started to operate the trucks.

MOTORS LEAD EXTENSION OF RISE IN STOCKS

Hope for Fast Auto Output Aids

New York, July 30 (AP)—Stocks generally extended their recovery by fractions to three points in today's market with motors in the lead. Dealings were relatively slow. There were a few declines in the final hour.

Revival of hope for large production soon of new passenger cars aided buying. Accounts also were reinstated on the belief the list had undergone a sufficient technical correction in the decline of the last several weeks and was in a position to resume the upswing. Many customers held aloof, however.

The Associated Press 60 stock average climbed 0.5 to 64.3. The market lacked breadth with only 837 issues registering. Of these, 522 advanced and 134 declined.

Graham-Paige was the liveliest issue, rising 1⅛ to 11¼, a 1945 peak. Packard and Hupp Motors made substantial gains with the latter also at a new top. Chrysler rose 3 to 109¼ and smaller gains were made by General Motors, Willys-Overland, Hudson Motors, Bethlehem, United States Steel, Goodrich, United States Rubber, American Telephone, Santa Fe, General Electric, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, Consolidated Edison, and Johns-Manville.

RAILS LEAD BONDS UP

New York, July 30 (AP)—Moderately broad buying in rails stimulated today's bond market and prices closed generally higher. Led by seven bonds of the Missouri Pacific, all of which advanced more than 2 points, a sizable quota of carrier obligations rose fractions to about a point. Industrials and utilities were steady but there was no rush to bid up favorites. Some higher priced issues declined, altho the bid of more than par for a new 45 million dollar Southern Bell Telephone company issue of 2¾ per cent debentures indicated a strong investment trend.

CHICAGO STOCKS CLIMB

Prices advanced yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in turnover of 25,000 sares. Active issues included Hupp Motors, up 1; Central and South West Utilities, and Admiral corporation, each up ½; Chicago corporation common, unchanged, and Domestic Industries, down ½.

A seat on the exchange was sold for $6,250, an advance of $250 from the preceding sale.

BEHIND BANK STOCKS

For the following reasons bank stocks are, in our opinion, attractive today:

1. Impressive earnings
2. Increased Book Values
3. Large reserves
4. Possibility of capital increases
5. Long dividend history

We believe every diversified investment account should include bank stocks. Write for our circular on 28 leading banks in New York and other cities.

SOUTHERN BELL DEBENTURES GO ON SALE TODAY

Halsey, Stuart Syndicate to Make Offering

A 45 million dollar issue of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company 2¾ per cent debentures maturing in 40 years will be offered today at 101⅛ by an underwriting group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. The syndicate won the issue yesterday with a bid of 100.5599.

Proceeds will be used to retire a like amount of 3⅛s due in 1962 at 103 and interest. The interest cost to the company on the basis of the successful bid was 2.73 per cent to maturity.

Cost to Parent Higher

The recent record issue of 175 million of debentures of Southern's parent, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, was won recently by Morgan Stanley & Co. on a bid representing an interest cost of 2.77 per cent to maturity. A Halsey group was the runner-up bidder.

Western Light and Telephone company registered with the securities and exchange commission $6,200,000 of first mortgage bonds for refunding purposes. The issue will be sold under competitive bidding with the successful bidder naming the interest rate.

J. J. Newberry company filed a statement covering 100,000 shares of $100 par cumulative preferred stock expected to carry a 3¾ per cent dividend rate.

Hamilton Radio corporation registered 100,000 shares of $1 par common to be offered to the public at $5.75 a share, and 50,000 shares to be offered to stock purchase warrant holders enabling purchase at $5.75 each before Aug. 1, 1950.

Wins County Home Bonds

The First National Bank of Chicago and associates were awarded $2,815,000 county home building bonds due 1946-'67, placed on sale by Hamilton county, Ohio. They bid 100.535 for a 1 per cent coupon.

National City Lines stockholders approved an exchange plan under which each share of $2 class A stock would be exchanged for 3¼ shares of 50 cents par common, and the class A would be eliminated from the company's capitalization.

New York State Electric & Gas corporation's plan to issue 25 million dollars of refunding securities and to reclassify its common stock has been disapproved by the New York state public service commission.

People and Events

Ralph A. Bard, who recently resigned as undersecretary of the navy, was elected to the board of Chicago corporation again yesterday. He had been a director prior to becoming assistant secretary of the navy in 1942.

The Illinois Bankers' association appointed a special committee to study pay, working conditions, insurance, and all other factors affecting bank employes. George L. Luthy, president of the Commercial National Bank of Peoria, is chairman. Chicago members are D. E. Chamberlin of the Drovers National bank and J. D. Richards of the National Boulevard bank.

Appointment of George H. Weiss as manager of the Chicago office of the Port of New York Authority, opening Oct. 1, was announced by Howard S. Cullman, chairman. Weiss has been manager of the marine department of the Chicago Journal of Commerce. The authority will compete for middle west commerce against rival North Atlantic and gulf ports.

David H. Harshaw, secretary and treasurer of the John B. Stetson company, has been elected vice president. He will continue as treasurer. Charles C. Kaesshaefer was promoted from assistant secretary to secretary.

K. C. Underwood, formerly executive vice president, has been elected president of the Merchants Despatch Transportation corporation and of the Northern Refrigerator Line, succeeding the late C. M. Wynns.

The army-navy E will be presented to the Chicago branch of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation tonight. American Gear and Manufacturing company has won its fifth E.

FIGHTER PLANE GEARS LOST IN STRIKE BY 500

As the 204th strike since May, 1944, at the Dodge Chicago plant terminated yesterday morning with the return of the 20,000 strikers to work, another strike affecting production of airplane engines began at the Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation, 5225 S. Western av. Chicago Dodge makes engines for B-29 Super Fortresses.

At the Foote plant nearly 500 of the 1,000 employes went on strike, said Arthur W. Coppin, labor relations director for the company, following a misunderstanding over the extension of the work week for employes in the heat treating department.

Vital Plane Gears Lost

Coppin estimated that nearly 2,500 gears needed for the completion of Pratt & Whitney 2,000 horsepower engines which power the Grumman Hellcat and the Vought Sikorsky Corsair, used exclusively by the marines, are being lost on each eight hour shift by the strike. Most of the Foote strikers are members of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' union [CIO].

Union representatives served notice on the company Sunday, Coppin said, when few company officials were available, that if the work week were not extended so the employes in the heat treating department could make more overtime pay, the strike would begin early Monday.

Yesterday, Coppin continued, the cause of the strike was "virtually eliminated" when management extended the hours, "but the strike was called anyway," Coppin said.

Republic Steel Strike Ends

Another CIO strike, that of 3,700 workers at the Republic Steel company plants in South Chicago, started Friday by 21 men over the company's failure to promote a worker from second to first helper on a tilting furnace, was settled yesterday morning when the workers returned to their jobs.

An attempt by officials of the International Molders and Foundry Workers' union to terminate a strike of 1,500 of its members employed in 39 Chicago area foundries failed yesterday when the men voted to continue their strike until a signed contract is obtained from the employers, a union official announced.

The walkout started July 23 after a dispute had developed over wages and other union contract issues.

WOMAN WORKER DIES ON JOB

Miss Mary Mahoney, 62, of 208 S. Maple av., Oak Park, a clerk for the United States treasury in the Furniture Mart, died of a heart attack while at work yesterday.

COURT APPROVES ALTON PURCHASE OF TEN ENGINES

Trustees of the Alton railroad were authorized by Federal Judge Shaw yesterday to purchase 10 Diesel switch engines at a cost of $882,250 after he had overruled objections of a creditor that the purchase would deplete cash reserves and deprive creditors of assets which should be applied toward debts.

The ojection was filed on behalf of Mrs. Amalia L. Feeley, 4202 N. Whipple st., who received judgment of $3,750 as a result of injuries in a train collision on the road. Her attorney, Frederick J. Bertram, asserted the purchase would not benefit the creditors but would increase the road's debts and liabilities.

UTILITIES TURN ON POWER DRIVE TO BOOST CITY

Plans for stimulating post-war industrial, commercial, and residential development in Chicago were outlined yesterday to Mayor Kelly by Charles Y. Freeman, chairman of the local power utilities, and Britton I. Budd, president of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

The campaign will be begun with an advertising campaign, to get under way next week. This will emphasize the area's numerous strategic advantages for the location of industry.

The program, Mayor Kelly said, is designed to attract new industries, as well as to hold those that operate war production plants here.

"The campaign will give real impetus to the city's program for making Chicago a better place in which to live," the mayor said.

10 GALLON STILL, 'BEST ONE YET,' FOUND IN PRISON

Jefferson City, Mo., July 30 (AP)—A 10 gallon whisky still and seven 50 gallon barrels of mash, concealed behind a secret ceiling panel, have been found in the Missouri penitentiary bakery, Warden T. E. Whitecotton reported today.

"This is the biggest and best one we've found yet," the warden said.

Two old coffee urns taken from a former officers' dining room three or four years ago were used for distillation. Odors from the prison bakery concealed the smell of fermentation, and heat from the bakery ovens kept the mash working.

GIRLS TO MAKE CORN TASSELS FLY IN FIELDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

El Paso, Ill., July 30—Three busloads of Chicago farmerettes rolled into this placid village 125 miles southwest of Chicago this afternoon prepared to spend the next 10 days detasseling corn.

There are 4,000 acres of commercial and foundation seed corn on farms in Woodford and neighboring McLean and Livingston counties which must be detasseled before self-pollination sets in. The corn is raised by local farmers under contract with the Pfister Hybrid company, which arranged thru the University of Illinois to bring the Chicago women and girls here.

The Chicago delegation numbered 107, all but 20 of them under 18 and members of the Victory Farm Volunteers. The 20 older women are members of the women's land army and are housewives on leave from domestic duties or office workers who have chosen to spend their vacations in the open.

The Chicagoans will augment a local detasseling army recruited among housewives and school girls of the vicinity. About 1,000 detasselers will be at work during the "peak."

Jackie Coogan to Get Release from Air Corps

Indianapolis, Ind., July 30 (AP) Lt. Jackie Coogan, former film star, was en route today to Santa Ana, Cal., to be released from the army air corps. Coogan recently had been stationed at George field near Lawrenceville, Ill., as an inspector. In the army since 1941, Coogan [illegible] air medal with oak leaf cluster and has had service in Burma.

TUOHY CLEARS 9 FOR ACQUITTALS IN VAULT TRIAL

After questioning nine of the 12 jurors who last Friday acquitted Willie Niemoth and Patrick Flaherty of the $2,000,000 looting of the E. H. Rumbold real estate office safety vaults at 624 W. 119th st. last January, State's Atty. Tuohy said yesterday he had found no evidence of undue influence.

Tuohy announced he would question the jurors after Judge Frank M. Padden in Criminal court had declared the verdict to be a miscarriage of justice. The jurors questioned appeared voluntarily.

The inquiry disclosed that one of the jurors, William Peller, 44, of 2867 Shakespeare av., a mechanical engineer, is a brother of Sam Pellar, hoodlum and former 20th ward election terrorist who was slain in a gang shooting in Fox Lake in 1930, at the same time George Druggan, a brother of Terry Druggan, was wounded.

Hoodlum Family Outcast

Peller insisted, however, that his brother always had been a family outcast and that the relationship did not influence his vote as a juryman.

Other members of the jury, which included several young women, said they thought they had to stay in the juryroom until they agreed—that they did not know that it is possible for a jury to disagree.

One woman juror said that, altho she considered Flaherty and Niemoth guilty, she voted to acquit them rather than hold out longer.

After talking yesterday with his first assistant, Wilbert F. Crowley, and Assistant State's Atty. Clement Cody, who prosecuted the case, all the nine jurors agreed that both defendants were guilty, Tuohy said.

Subpenas for Two Jurors

He added that of the jurors who did not appear, one, John Henderson, 27, of 219 S. Lavergne av., was working, and had expressed willingness to appear when his hours permit; that subpenas will be issued for the two others, Arthur J. Metke, 45, of 2748 Greenview av., and Mrs. Bea A. Murray, 46, of 9821 S. California av.

Those who appeared yesterday, in addition to Peller, are Edmund R. Ocwieja, 33, of 2022 Rice st.; Anthony Darlinski, 40, of 3446 Hirsch st.; Anton C. Trucksa, 29, of 3127 W. 40th pl.; Miss Margaret B. Landa, 28, of 6446 N. Albany av.; Mrs. Eleanor D. Lukes, 26, of 81 Lincoln av., Riverside; Mrs. Margaret Kaval, 27, of 6237 N. Richmond av.; Miss Sophie Dizga, 28, of 2529 Cortez st., and Mrs. Dorothy Dority, 35, of 7942 Sunset dr., Elmwood Park.

COURT APPROVES ALTON PURCHASE OF TEN ENGINES

Trustees of the Alton railroad were authorized by Federal Judge Shaw yesterday to purchase 10 Diesel switch engines at a cost of $882,250 after he had overruled objections of a creditor that the purchase would deplete cash reserves and deprive creditors of assets which should be applied toward debts.

The ojection was filed on behalf of Mrs. Amalia L. Feeley, 4202 N. Whipple st., who received judgment of $3,750 as a result of injuries in a train collision on the road. Her attorney, Frederick J. Bertram, asserted the purchase would not benefit the creditors but would increase the road's debts and liabilities.
